RANGE OF TEMPERATURE.

A remarkably uniform temperature existed over the United States yesterday. The range was very slight, from Maine to Florida, on the Atlantic to the far west. Generally, the reports last night showed fair weather, the precipitation being very slight. For today the indications are that the mercury will hover close to yesterday's record. There may be a few slight flurries of snow, but the skies will be generally clear. The range of temperature in Pittsburgh yesterday was but 5 degrees, ranging from 29 at 8 a. m. to 34 at 5 p. m. The coldest point in the country yesterday was Bismarck, N. D., where the temperature was 16, and the warmest was Galveston, with the thermometer at 64. These were exceptions, however.

DIVES CLOSED IN ALLEGHENY

Notorious Gambling Resorts Have Been Shut Up Tight All Week as Result of Exposures Made by The Gazette.

ONLY THE ELECT MAY ENTER MANY OTHERS

Police Officials Still Refuse to Commit Themselves On the Situation and Give Evasive Answers to All Questions. Old Resident of the Fourth Ward Declares That Conditions Have Been Growing Worse.

The river wards of Allegheny are being gradually cleansed. Several of the more notorious gambling houses, where a poker game every night was the rule, and where quantities of liquor were sold illegally, have closed. The exposures of The Gazette are cutting to the quick.

The opening articles on the Allegheny vice situation last Saturday and Sunday mornings spread consternation among the gamblers and proprietors of speakeasies.

At first the word was passed around that the exposures were only part of a periodical crusade, and did not amount to anything. In another day or two the gamblers and their protectors began to realize that The Gazette knew whereof it spoke. Orders were quietly issued for places in general to be more circumspect.

Two of the best known gambling houses in the Fourth ward have been closed tightly all week. If they have been running it is so quietly that even neighbors are ignorant of it. Other places that have been running with wide-open doors, while they have not closed, have made more stringent regulations about admission. They have locked their doors and posted doorkeepers.

On Wednesday and Thursday nights of this week representatives of The Gazette made a tour of the lower wards. They visited some of the more notorious dives that have been mentioned but not located in previous articles on Allegheny conditions. Information secured in the neighborhood showed that one house had not been open since Sunday night. The blinds of another were closed tightly Monday morning, and there has been no activity there since.

Still Signs of Life.

The latter house is inhabited, however. This is shown by a steady column of smoke pouring from the chimney all day long. This is the particular house mentioned in Wednesday's Gazette that is supposed to have established a rear door connection for the accommodation of its patrons.

All over the vicinity in which these clubs are located neighbors are rejoiced that something had made them cease their barefaced way of running. The hope of the residents of the First and Fourth wards now is that The Gazette will make its exposures sufficiently strong to prevent ultimate reopening of these resorts.

That other places in the river wards of which The Gazette possibly has no absolute knowledge—for places in these wards are so numerous that one man visiting one every night would require months to make the round—have been closed is vouched for by a well-known character in Allegheny who has played in most of the open games over there.

A club room in East Lacock street, that formerly ran with an unlatched door, has a new policy. The door is locked now, and visitors must pass the scrutiny of a door-keeper before they can gain admission. Once inside, however, everything is running as before. Liquor can still be purchased, and the poker game runs every night. Since the resorts mentioned above have closed, trade at this particular club has increased.

At another resort in the First ward, that formerly ran with open door and "hail fellow, well met" to every person who looked like a police or a drink or a stack of chips, the same precautions have been established. The doorkeeper must be satisfied before admission is obtained.

Resort of Cheap Gamblers.

This club has always had a large patronage of cheap gamblers. A $1 stack of chips entitles the holder to sit in. The place is still doing a large business, possibly even larger than before. Last Thursday night there were some 30 men drinking on the lower floor, while on the second floor, where there are three poker tables, all were running full. Several men with their stacks of chips ready were waiting for a seat.

Another resort in the First ward, of which The Gazette printed a description, has been closed for the past several nights. Practically every resort visited by representatives of The Gazette is managed more quietly than for months past. Many have suspended operations.

In the club rooms still running the chief topic of conversation seems to be the exposures made by The Gazette, and the constant query is "How will it end?"

The proprietors of the places in many cases are vindictive. Strangers have been closely questioned in the past few days in an effort to discover whether they happened to represent The Gazette.

Police officials of Allegheny still refuse to commit themselves in any way on the situation.

Evaded the Questions.

Director Henry Albrecht of the department of public safety was asked yesterday if anything had been done toward closing the speakeasies and gambling resorts. He evaded the question, saying:

"I have nothing to say. The Gazette made the charges, and, I suppose, is able to take care of them."

When asked if orders had been given for certain places to close, he replied: "The Gazette is doing it all," and a mention of specific instances seemed to rouse his wrath.

"Were orders sent out, telling Mrs. ——— to close her place?" asked the reporter.

"I don't know anything about it. I don't care and I don't think anything. It is not worrying me, so I don't think anything about it," was the tart reply.

Supt. Henry Muth was asked what the police were doing toward cleansing the infected section. His reply was brief and to the point. "I have nothing to say."

Capt. Thornton said he did not know anything about the action taken by the heads of the department. Asked if any orders had been issued to the proprietors of the houses he said none had passed through him. Again asked if any orders had been issued he said they might have been issued to the men directly, but he did not know anything about them. "I'm one of the small fry," said the captain, "and all I have to do is to abide by what those in authority order. If you want any information see Muth or Albrecht about it."

A well-known physician who lives in the Fourth ward, in one of the vice-infected streets, has heartily indorsed the course of The Gazette. He has been prominently identified with previous attempts to purify the North Side, and only his health has kept him from keeping up his work.

Conditions Growing Worse.

"I have been living in this house for 27 years," he said yesterday afternoon, "and I guess I know something about conditions in this ward. For years past it has been getting worse and worse, until if it keeps up no person can imagine where it will end.

"If it had been possible for me to sell my property for anything like its value I might have sacrificed my practice and moved out simply to escape from this den of iniquity. It is utterly impossible for property to command anything like its proper price, and a professional man like me cannot afford to lose money on his real estate and then move to a new neighborhood in the hope that his practice will follow him.

"This is a most miserable district, and it is made worse all the time by the connivance of the officials. Every person knows that they will not do anything themselves, and have even given instructions to their officers on beats never to interfere with disorderly resorts unless some disturbance sufficiently serious warrants them in going in to quell it.

"The worst feature about the vice is the ward is its openness. I have seen absolutely disgraceful scenes in the streets and the police never seem to know it. I sat on my porch once every night for two weeks, about three hours at a time, and never a policeman passed along the street.

Children Admitted.

"Little girls and boys, from 14 years of age up go into these speakeasies and buy liquor, when even in a most dissolute saloon they would be refused.

"I have interested myself in the past in efforts to cleanse this part of Allegheny, but have not been very successful. Now my health will not permit me to take the extra burden on my shoulders, but I certainly hope The Gazette will be able to do something to remedy the evil.

"To my mind the only way to successfully rid the city of vice is for the passage of some amendment to the present laws. The officials should be compelled by a rigid act of legislature to take action against proprietors of questionable places upon information furnished, no matter how, by citizens, by a newspaper, or by their own officers. As it is, everything is winked at, and complaints are made the officials get out of it by explaining that they have no such knowledge.

"I am in hope that some of the law and order societies, or some such organizations, will interest themselves in this matter and make an effort to have such a law passed. I noticed this morning an interview in The Gazette with the president of the Retail Liquor Dealers' association. Now, if this association, or its kindred organization in the state, could be interested in the question they should be able to have the laws amended as I have suggested.

"During my years of residence here I have known of many, many cases where young men have been lured to ruin through the agency of these speakeasies and gambling houses. A poor boy comes in from the country, unsophisticated and ignorant of city ways, is led into one of these places, and unless he has the common sense to get out himself or is rescued in time, he will go to ruin almost every time. I have seen the cases and I know."

MYSTERY HANGS OVER THE ARREST OF LITTLE CHILD

Maude Marlett Aged Twelve Torn from Her Home Like a Criminal.

NO REASON IS GIVEN

A mystery has arisen in Allegheny concerning the arrest of Maude, the 12-year-old daughter of H. B. Marlett, an engineer residing at No. 94 Hiver avenue. The child was taken from the home about 9 o'clock Thursday evening and sent to the police station, but the officials about central station declare they know nothing concerning the case.

The father claims that neither his entreaties, nor the prayers of the child, could prevail upon the officer to permit them to walk to the station, but it was necessary for the child to be dragged into the patrol wagon and sent to the station. The father accompanied the child.

Mrs. Marlett tells the following story regarding the arrest of her daughter: "I had gone out to do some collecting from the men who room at my house and I told my daughter to prepare supper. My husband came home from work and remained in the house all evening. While I was absent Officer Henry Kooner came to the house and said he had orders to take my child to the central station. My husband could not understand the cause of his daughter being taken away and said if anything was wrong he would take the child to the police station himself.

Dragged Into Patrol Wagon.

"The officer said he had orders to take the child and could not permit the father to do so. The patrol wagon was summoned and the child dragged into it. My husband went along. But before the child was put into the wagon she knelt down on the floor and before the officer prayed that she not be taken in the wagon. Sureheart or he could not have resisted the entreaties of the father and the prayers of the child.

"After the arrest my nephew came and told me that my daughter had been arrested. It did not take many minutes for me to reach the police station. When I arrived there the matron was taking off her shoes and trying to quiet her. My husband was pacing the floor of central station. When I entered I told the matron the child would not stay there that night. Her shoes were put on again, and the captain called. He questioned the child closely concerning the manner in which she was provided for and also as to the kind of a house I kept.

"The child, who has been reared to tell the truth, told it in such a way as to convince them that she was well cared for. She was then released without forfeit or bail being given.

Police Try to Shift the Blame.

"Yesterday afternoon I called on Superintendent of Police Muth to see why my child had been arrested. He told me that James Ray, an agent of the Anti-Cruelty society, had telephoned him to have the child taken away from its home, as its mother was not the proper person to care for it.

"After that I went to the Humane society and the Anti-Cruelty society, but no complaints had been made at either place against me or the child. If I do not take proper care of the child, or am not a fit person to take care of it, an information should be made against me. They should not tear the child away from its home at night.

"When I told my story to the clerk in the Anti-Cruelty society office, she was horrified, and said that taking the child away in such a heartless manner was the refinement of cruelty. She expressed surprise that any agent of the society should order a child to be torn away from its home without first making an information before an alderman charging me with neglect or whatever charge such a case could necessitate.

"I cannot understand the case, but I will secure an attorney and will make a bitter fight and see if my child is to be torn away from its home at any person's will."

The Father Tells of the Arrest.

Mr. Marlett did not have much to say concerning the arrest, but what he did say meant much. He is employed as an engineer during the erection of the new morgue.

Mr. Marlett told his story briefly: "My daughter and my nephew were sitting on the floor playing checkers, when the door bell was rung. The officer told me that he had to take my daughter, Maude, to the police station. I could not understand this, and asked him why, but the only information I could get from him was that he had orders to take her."

"If I can find the instigator of the arrest he will be the first corpse to enter the new morgue upon which I am working."

Superintendent of Police Henry Muth was asked last evening if he knew anything concerning the arrest of the girl and replied, "I know nothing about it."

Capt. James Agnew, who was in charge at central station on Thursday night, was asked about the arrest, but replied that he knew nothing about it.

Officer Henry Kooner, whom the child says made the arrest, was seen last night, and when asked if he knew anything of the case, replied that he did not. Asked if he made the arrest, he said, "I have nothing to say."

FATEFUL DAY PASSES AND BROWN IS STILL RECORDER

Old Organization Men, Branded as False Prophets, Pull Themselves Together and Set Another Date—Chief Executive Still Swings Ax.

M'GAREY, ASKED TO RESIGN, REFUSES

The old organization prediction that Recorder A. M. Brown would be removed on November 15 has not been fulfilled. The day has come and gone and the executive is doing business at the same old stand, where his sign will hang until April, 1903.

As was expected the Filmnites are in the field with a new date. Now the decapitation will occur on the day that a nation gives thanks. When the 28 arrives an excuse for executive clemency will no doubt be charged to the fact that the date is a legal holiday and matters of state must give way to prayer and thanksgiving. Then, another time will be given and finally as a campaign card the Filmnites will announce that the governor is waiting to reward the winner of the councilmanic elections in February with the recordership.

The stalwarts have no excuses to make. Thomas S. Bigelow said yesterday that he was satisfied that Recorder Brown had no reason to fear the loss of his official head. Mr. Bigelow considers that the matter is now definitely settled. The recorder is of the same opinion.

The announcement of Delinquent Tax Collector William B. Hays that he is going to North Carolina for a rest, is another indication that stalwarts consider the controversy at an end. He is one of the strongest men in the new city administration and would not leave town if he thought there was the slightest possibility of the recorder's removal.

They Did Not Speak.

The frigid actions of Attorney General John P. Elkin and Senator William Flinn at Union station yesterday morning makes it apparent that the Pittsburgher is not heartily in accord with the Stone administration. Mr. Elkin was on his way to Mercer and Mr. Flinn was going to Sharon. They arrived at the station a half hour before train time, sat 15 feet apart without even a sign of recognition. Then they boarded the same train and selected separate coaches for their journey. Friends of Flinn endeavor to give the impression that this was superb acting on the part of the two leaders and was done to mislead the stalwarts. This inference of double-dealing on the part of the attorney general is laughed at by his friends.

The recorder continues to exercise his power of removal. Police Magistrate D. J. McGarey has been asked for his resignation. The official says that he will not resign and insists upon being ripped so that he can secure a place on the Sixth avenue martyr roll. Immediately after office hours this morning he will no doubt be accommodated.

Joseph H. Vitchestain of the Twenty-seventh ward will today be appointed police magistrate for the South Side. He will succeed Mr. McGarey. Whether the resignation is forthcoming or not the appointment of Mr. Vitchestain will be announced today.

Successor Is Active.

Mr. McGarey is a resident of the Twenty-sixth ward and has been a police magistrate for five years. He is said to have been openly hostile to the new administration. His successor is a young man, popular, and active in politics.

Police Magistrate Samuel F. Kerr of the Fifteenth ward will be removed as soon as a successor is decided upon. The change will be made either today or Monday.

Recorder Brown said yesterday that he was planning a number of other changes.

The position of City Treasurer D. R. Torrance is in doubt. His attitude has been neutral since the new administration was installed, but he may be removed, as it is the intention of the city hall leaders to appoint only those who will be active in support of the administration.

There will also likely be a change soon in the position of clerk of the central police station. The place is now held by Anthony F. Keating, and is one of the best paying clerkships in the city government. The salary is $2,400 a year. Mr. Keating's appointment was a personal one, made at the request of Councilman W. A. Magee, who has since been taking a prominent part in the numerous attacks made by councils upon the city administration. There are many demands that the place be given to a man in sympathy with Recorder Brown.

Director Andrew Fulton stated yesterday that he would probably have some appointments to announce Monday.

NEWELL C. RATHBUN WILL NOT TALK NOW.

Secures the Services of a Lawyer, Who Tells Him to Hold His Tongue.

JEFFERSONVILLE, IND., Nov. 15.—It is probable that the public will hear nothing more soon directly from Newell C. Rathbun, for two reasons. A lawyer whose services he has secured since his arraignment yesterday has enjoined him not to talk, and Judge Marsh, of the Clark county circuit court, has directed that no one shall see the prisoner, except upon an order of the court. Sheriff Rave says Rathbun was questioned by his lawyer today and held to his story, admitting everything except that he gave poison to Goodman.

It is unlikely that either side will be ready to proceed at once with Rathbun's trial, though a special grand jury will consider his case Monday. It is said the state may want more time to gather evidence, and that even if Goodman was given poison there will be great difficulty in determining the facts by an autopsy, since the corpse was embalmed a week ago. Deputy Coroner Coots claims that in taking gas from Goodman's stomach with a fluid used for that purpose he detected the drug. A bottle filled with the fluid pumped in and out of the stomach has been preserved and will be analyzed, if the county will bear the expense.

Chief of Police Gunther of Louisville is receiving letters from all parts of the country relative to the identity of Goodman, who is supposed to be the man Rathbun is charged with poisoning. Many who have missing relatives seem to find in the description of the dead man a resemblance to their absent one.

First Fruit of Schley Inquiry.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 15.—The first result of the Schley court of inquiry is the issuance today of an order by the secretary of the navy that hereafter a smooth signal record instead of a rough "log" shall be kept on each vessel of the navy.

DEAD BANK TELLER A DEFAULTER.

Surviving Partner of His Guilt Confesses to Peculations Which May Reach $100,000.

(SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.)

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—Gen. Jeremiah Meserole, president of the Williamsburg Savings bank, announced late this afternoon that funds of the bank, amounting to between $50,000 and $100,000, had been appropriated by two employes, one of whom is now dead. Gen. Meserole states:

"Harry E. Corbett, the paying teller of this bank, died on November 3, and was buried on November 6, 1901. He had been in the employ of the bank for 18 years. Three days after Corbett was buried, George Zollinhofer, a receiving teller, who had been in the employ of the bank for 30 years, confessed that he and Corbett had taken funds of the bank amounting to beween $50,000 and $60,000. The bank has bonds in surety companies covering the defalcations to the amount of $140,000 and personal bonds to the amount of $10,000. This bank has been in existence 50 years, and $340,000,000 have been received on deposit, but this is the first time that anything of this kind has occurred."

Zollinhofer is in care of the surety companies, and has been temporarily relieved from duty.

GUS RUHLIN QUIT IN FIFTH ROUND

Jeffries Knocks All the Fight Out of His Antagonist in the Second, Although He Stayed Three More.

DECLARES HE RECEIVED A CHANCE BLOW IN STOMACH

The Loser, Dazed and Distressed, Went to His Corner and Refused to Continue the Battle—Police Jump Into the Ring to Stop a Riot in Which Referee Corbett Takes Part. Greatest Crowd Ever at a Ringside.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 15.—In one of the most unsatisfactory prize fights ever witnessed in this country, James J. Jeffries proved the victor tonight over Gus Ruhlin, the Akron giant. In the fifth round of what was to have been a 20-round struggle Ruhlin wilted and then surrendered, to the utter amazement and disgust of the assembled thousands.

No one was more surprised at the outcome than Jeffries himself, who asserted that while he had delivered one telling blow in the second round he did not expect to win the victory so easily. Ruhlin's sole explanation of the outcome of the fight is that he received a chance blow which utterly disabled him, and that Jeffries persisted in fighting him low.

While Ruhlin will make no absolute charge of Jeffries having committed a foul, he intimates that he was unfairly handled and injured as a result. Ruhlin receives the support of his seconds in this stand, who say his was a hopeless case after the second round.

When seen in his dressing room after the fight Champion Jeffries said:

Jeffries Expresses Astonishment.

"I was certainly surprised at my easy victory and Ruhlin's amazing defeat. While it is true that he did not pack me hard enough during the five rounds to cause me any alarm, I believed him strong and cautious up to the moment of his collapse, and was surprised when he quit. I certainly had no trouble in whipping him, and had the fight gone on the result must have been the same.

"Ruhlin was innocuous and in poor wind, and I cannot say he even had the courage and force that I expected to encounter in him. Ruhlin took a stiff punch in the stomach in the fourth round, which I presume gave him trouble; nevertheless, I expected him to lose harder than he did. Ruhlin can doubtless, best explain his own position, and as for myself, I am willing to meet Sharkey next month and thereafter to defend as best I can the title I hold."

Almost from the beginning of the fight Ruhlin appeared frightened. The fight was practically finished in the second round, when Jeffries landed a left hook on the jaw that took all the fight out of Ruhlin. Ruhlin claimed that a chance blow in the pit of the stomach rendered him unfit for fighting. His seconds complained bitterly, but Ruhlin insisted that he was the victim of an accident.

Jeffries walked to Ruhlin's corner, asked what was the matter, then turned in disgust and proceeded to his dressing room, while the spectators rose as one man and cheered the champion while they denounced Ruhlin as a quitter and a fakir. The police tumbled into the ring and stopped two fights in which Corbett, the referee, and officers of the club were involved. The utmost excitement prevailed, during which Ruhlin made his way out of the ring.

Ruhlin's Complaint.

When Ruhlin went to his dressing room he was followed by a very depressed retinue. The defeated man complained of no pain and frowned about without assistance. He said:

"I believed from the tap of the gong that I would win, but as the fight progressed I was beaten down until I received a blow on the stomach which I must say was very low. It may not have been a foul, and no living man could have survived it. Jeffries departed from the written rules and from the common regulations of boxing when he threw himself upon me and wrestled rather than sparred. I do believe that had I not received the stomach punch which ended me in the fifth round I would have worn down Jeffries a few rounds later and beaten him as a matter of endurance. I am ready to fight him again and believe that in time I will have the opportunity of showing that I can defeat him. That is all I can say now."

Suspicion of Fistic Swindle.

In the opinion of James Kennedy and Jack Gleason of the Twentieth Century club, which brought off the event, Ruhlin was trained too fine and went to pieces because of his great zeal in training.

Lou Houseman and George Siler, both of whom were at the ringside, together with George Harting, the official timekeeper for the club, declared after the fight that Ruhlin had been greatly overestimated; that his blows were weak and easily blocked, and that he was positively without endurance. While some expressions were heard in the throng after the fight, placing the stigma of a fake affair on the management, it was the consensus of opinion that Ruhlin fought a losing battle in order to obtain the short end of an enormous prize. Boxing in San Francisco has not been helped by this event. City supervisors at the ringside tonight expressed great dissatisfaction, and even went so far as to name a suspicion in their minds of a fistic swindle.

It is estimated that there was something over $40,000 realized at the box office, and of this 62½ per cent, divided in purses of 75 and 25 per cent, goes to the participants in tonight's event.

Round Two—Clinch. Ruhlin was hooked around neck with left. He accused Jeffries of foul fighting. The Akron man then shot in his right and found Jeffries' ribs, following this up with an intellectual left swing for the head. Jeffries waxed aggressive. Ruhlin planted right and left to the face, then rushed, landing on the body. The champion had no trouble with left and was countered. Ruhlin found Jeffries' head, and in a short exchange neither had the advantage. Jeffries men fought at closer range. Gus again landing on Jeffries' face and stopping the latter's attempt to retaliate with a strong right. Ruhlin feinted with right and shot straight left to Jeffries' nose, but the blow was partially blocked. The men were wrestling when the round closed. This was decidedly Ruhlin's round.

Round Three—The men came up strong and Ruhlin shot in right and left which were stopped. Jeffries showed his way back and finally caught the Akron man with terrific left to neck. Jeffries pursued Gus and swung with both hands. In a rush Jeffries landed with body blows. Ruhlin again appeals to referee. Gus fainted and came back with an intellectual short to jaw punch. Jeffries easily held the advantage, with Gus constantly complaining. The men closed in several times, Ruhlin fighting low and Jeffries apparently holding for a chance to land knockout punch. Ruhlin retreated about the ring until the spectators floored him. The round ended with terrific rain in favor of Jeffries, but with Ruhlin the pure pastime of the two.

Round Four—After short exchange at close, Ruhlin landed on face. He was forced back and Jeffries smiled as Ruhlin again rushed him. Jeffries landed left, bruising Gus' left eye, then pursued him, fighting at short range and palpably wearing the man down. Ruhlin backed into ropes, and refreshed as Jeffries swung left and right to face. Gus led for the face and Jeff pushed him across the ring. Then the champion walked Gus across the ring again and landed a fierce left on his jaw. Ruhlin shot out ineffectual lefts. Jeff walked in, whaling Ruhlin left and right. Gus went down and took the count. He came up apparently weak and the gong saved him. Ruhlin was plainly in the greatest distress when the round closed. This round much to Jeffries' favor.

Round Five—Ruhlin were a distressed appearance when he came up. Jeffries went in with straight arm blows, but was blocked. Jeffries landed light hook to jaw and short left to face. Ruhlin then settled to neck with right. A volley followed which in favor of the champion forced Gus with lefts to the ropes. Ruhlin ducked and retreated steadily. Jeffries followed up the advantage and bored in, touching Ruhlin beneath the chin with his right and forcing Ruhlin to the ropes, after which Gus went to the floor and at the count of five staggered to his feet. He ceased fighting and Jeffries went in for a knockout. Ruhlin was utterly dazed and missed wild swings, while Jeffries threw him against the ropes. In the last minute of the round Ruhlin attempted to stop a left lead for the head and he was forced back and struck squarely in the pit of the stomach. Jeffries was going at him very fiercely and when the gong sounded Ruhlin was seen to go to his corner. It looked as if the fight was practically ended. Ruhlin gave every appearance of being distressed. He said something to Billy Madden and then "Denver" Ed. Martin walked to the center of the ring and hailed Referee Corbett. "We give up," said Martin, and the fight was over.

The Crush at the Ringside.

Never in the history of San Francisco has there been such a crush of humanity at a pugilistic event. Hardly had the sun hidden itself behind the hills toward the ocean before the great pavilion began to fill with the crowd gathered to watch the championship contest. Thousands poured into the gallery when the doors were finally opened, and long before the first preliminary was called the upper portion of the pavilion was black with spectators. People coming from points between Vancouver and Mexico and embracing well-known state officials, members of the judiciary and prominent sporting people, early took possession of the high priced seats.

M. H. De Young, the millionaire editor; Mayor J. D. Phelan, Mayor-elect Schmitz and almost the entire bench of the county of San Francisco was early at the ringside. Billy Jordan, the veteran announcer, was early on the scene. When the preliminaries were announced and the first fight brought on, the assembled thousands betrayed in some part the extent of their excitement and wrought up feelings and cheered vociferously, although the curtain raisers were unimportant.

The police put some of the spectators out of the gallery, it being much overcrowded. At 9 o'clock people were turned away from the doors, and probably the greatest assemblage of people ever gathered to witness a prize fight was packed within.

The Preliminary Betting.

The betting at the ringside steadied down just before the struggle to odds of two to one, although there were bursts of enthusiasm from either side in which longer odds were offered. Ed Kelly, the Chicago bookmaker, had $3,000 which he sought to place at 10 to 4's. Of this sum $1,000 was covered by the Ruhlinites. A miner named Dell, just arrived from the Klondike, wagered $500 at the same odds. Aside from this the betting was commonplace.

When the second preliminary had been concluded, resulting in the victory of Spider Joe Welch over Joe Fields in four rounds, a corps of workmen poured into the ring, climbing ladders and taking other positions about the myriad of electric lights ranged along the border of a canopy above. The operator at the kinetoscope machine adjusted his instruments and a flash of light through the array of lamps proclaimed that all was in readiness as far as the company was concerned. A moment later a burst of limelight, 250,000 candle-power, illumined the vast reaches of the pavilion and further enthused the great host of spectators as the immediate forerunner of the championship struggle.

Arrival of the Fighters.

At 8:15 o'clock a stir at the east end of the pavilion indicated that one of the principals had arrived and was proceeding to his dressing room. The word was soon passed that Ruhlin had reached the scene of conflict from Blanken's six mile house and uproar ensued. Ruhlin went at once to his dressing room, accompanied by Billy Madden, Denver Ed Martin, Charlie Goff and Young Gibbs, who later appeared in his corner when the fight was called.

A runner from Oakland reached the crowd early in the evening that Jeffries had suffered an injury to one of his hands before starting for San Francisco, but popular sentiment condemned the story as a canard, and the betting at the ringside was not affected by the incident.

Jeffries, accompanied by Billy Delaney, Bob Armstrong, Kid Fagan, his brother Jack, and DeWitt Vancourt, left the Oakland side of the bay on the 7:30 train, reaching San Francisco shortly after 8 o'clock. The champion entered the building while the first preliminary was in progress, and as Capt. Whitman, in charge of the police detail, cleared the way, proceeded to his dressing room, while the throng that entered the building made a demonstration. In great impatience the crowd waited for the appearance of the two gladiators, taking but a passive interest in the eight-round bout between Billy Condon and Mike Gunfin, and in the encounter between Joe Fields and Spider Joe Welch.

THE FIGHTERS' CLAIMS BEFORE THE BATTLE.

Each Said He Would Force the Fighting and Was Confident of Victory.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 15.—Late this afternoon Jeffries and Ruhlin issued these signed statements:

While there is no doubt in my mind as to the outcome of the battle, I am going to take no chances. I will finish Ruhlin in the first round if possible. If not I will fight him until I do whip him, if it takes 20 rounds. While I shall be cautious, I shall not prolong the contest. By that I mean that I shall finish it as soon as I can. I have no idea how long the battle will last, and I will not venture a guess. I expect to enter the ring at 212 pounds. JAMES J. JEFFRIES.

I will endeavor to beat Jeffries from the start to the finish in our coming battle. Aside from that I have no idea how or when I will win. It may be in the first round or it may be in the 20th, but should the contest go the limit I will certainly expect to be returned the winner. Henry Blanken, who is a good prophet, says that I will win in 11 rounds. Perhaps he is right. However, whenever I step into the ring tonight it will be to put up the fight of my career, and I will not stop unless I am forced to do so.

DELEGATES UTTER FINE COMPLIMENTS

Graceful Expressions of a Mexican Orator at Pan-American Banquet.

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 15.—The toast delivered by Alfred Cahavero on behalf of the Mexican delegation at a banquet in honor of the Pan-American delegates of other nationalities was noteworthy on account of its friendliness to the United States. Mr. Cahavero said in part:

Without doubt you have come hither with the desire and aspiration of drawing closer the bonds of American fraternity by the meeting entertained by the republics which you specially represent, toward Mexico. And this makes us still prouder, for all of you together constitute a world. This good will is natural on the part of the nations of Central and South America on account of the similarity of origin and the identity of speech, for the peoples there found bound by similar institutions and a community of interests, but more intimately still by a historical bond that no one may unloose. The republic of the north, by astounding Europe by its progress, realized in less than a century's independent existence, and its industries and commerce, even on the increase, had begun to absorb the world, but just at that moment the southern states rebelled with the aim of seceding from the American union. Then Napoleon the Third conceived the idea which he characterized as the greatest of his reign. That idea was to invade Mexico to establish an empire; to support the secessionist states in order thus to bring republican government into disrepute and to cause the dismemberment of the great northern republic. The United States put down the rebellion and as soon as it succeeded in doing so it said Napoleon in his own words by insisting on the withdrawal of his army.

We already had the Monroe doctrine safeguard of the new world; the Diaz doctrine secured its independence, and the Diaz doctrine may be expressed in this apophthegm: 'The international law of America is founded on peace, which, in its turn, depends on the respect of the sovereignty, independence and territorial integrity of each and all the republics of America.'"

Jose Hygino Duarte Perira, vice president of the congress, and delegate from Brazil, made a speech in which he cordially reciprocated the friendly expressions of Mr. Cahavero.

W. I. Buchanan, the United States delegate, also spoke. He thanked Messrs. Cahavero and Duarte Perira for their friendly allusions.

HIGH SCHOOL GIRL FOUGHT OFF ABDUCTORS.

Used Feet, Fists and Voice, and Finally Succeeded in Escaping.

VINELAND, N. J., Nov. 15.—(Special.)—A bold attempt was made this evening to kidnap Miss Emma M. Veale, the pretty 17-year-old daughter of Charles M. Veale, the superintendent of the agricultural department of the New Jersey Training School for Feeble-Minded Girls and Boys at Vineland. Miss Veale, who is a popular high school girl, successfully resisted with all her strength the attack of the would-be kidnaper, who endeavored to drag her into a closed carriage.

While returning home after dark the girl saw a closed carriage attached to a pair of horses standing in the middle of the road. "Pardon me, young lady, can you direct us the way to Millville?" asked a man within the carriage.

"Why, certainly," replied Miss Veale as she stopped a few feet from the vehicle, "Go straight ahead. Millville is about six miles away."

Miss Veale then started toward her home and had about reached the sidewalk when one of the men seized her around the waist and essayed to carry her to the carriage, at the same time exclaiming: "We'll kill you if you make an outcry. You've got to come with us. Keep still and we won't hurt you."

Miss Veale, who is strong and well developed for her age, ignored their threats. She screamed and kicked and struggled with her assailant, who was gradually dragging her toward the team. The kidnaper had to withdraw his hand from her mouth, whereupon she screamed at the top of her voice. Her last cry was heard by the neighbors, who rushed toward the road followed by others. The would-be abductors whipped up their horses and sped away, leaving the young woman reduced to a fainting condition lying in the road.

Uniontown Postoffice Clerk Causes the Arrest of an Alleged Murderer.

UNIONTOWN, PA., Nov. 15.—(Special.)—Miss Margaret J. Hagans, money order clerk in the Uniontown postoffice, made a clever capture of an alleged murderer this evening. Pietro Boglietto, it is charged, killed Antonio Motto at Loyalhanna, Westmoreland county, recently, and a clue was obtained through a letter he wrote to Loyalhanna. County Detective Alex McNeth placed a decoy letter in the Uniontown postoffice for Boglietto and when the man called for it this evening there was no officer about.

Miss Hagan recognized the man from the description and had another clerk detain him on a pretext while she ran out on the street and brought an officer. She pointed out the man among a crowd of foreigners around the window and had him lodged in jail to await identification.

The tract adjoins the Thaw coal, which is being operated by the same company on a royalty, and will be mined through their openings.

The coal was owned by J. V. Thompson and other Uniontown capitalists, who when they purchased the coal from the Hankins interests in 1899, paid the top notch price up to that time of $200 an acre, but who realized a profit of $1,000 an acre by the transaction today.

An Ancient Foe

To health and happiness is Scrofula—as ugly as ever since time immemorial.

It causes bunches in the neck, disfigures the skin, inflames the mucous membrane, wastes the muscles, weakens the bones, reduces the power of resistance to disease and the capacity for recovery, and develops into consumption.

"A bunch appeared on the left side of my neck. It caused great pain, was lanced, and became a running sore. I went into a general decline. I was persuaded to try Hood's Sarsaparilla, and when I had taken six bottles my neck was healed, and I have never had any trouble of the kind since." MRS. K. T. SNYDER, Troy, Ohio.

Hood's Sarsaparilla and Pills will rid you of it, radically and permanently, as they have rid thousands.

A GIRL THREATENS TO ENTER SHAFT

The Bride-Elect of an Entombed Miner Is Driven to Desperation By Grief—Fate of Imprisoned Men Unknown.

(SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.)

POCAHONTAS, VA., Nov. 15.—Tonight the fire has in a measure abated in the drift shaft in the Baby mine, although the heat is still intense. Each moment furnishes some new development and all day relief parties have been endeavoring to push their way further into the recesses of the mountains. Just before sunset, by means of a chain of men linking their hands together, a point 75 yards within the main horizontal shaft was reached and three badly charred bodies recovered. It is believed that they are John Brenen, Wayne Harris, and Sank Roberts, although they are so badly disfigured that absolute identification is impossible. Graves have been dug for the bodies as fast as they have been recovered.

In addition to the foregoing the following are among the dead, making twelve fatalities, as far as known: Louis Woolwine, John Byron, John Urico, Henry Hale, James Hudson, Will Montgomery, John Barnesardt, M. D. Koontz, and an unknown Italian. Those injured are: H. P. Reese, member of fire department, burned; W. S. Lyons, secretary Young Men's Christian association, crushed; Frank Tabor, badly crushed; John Dyer, crushed and burned; Frank Tallisse, burned; Fate Irvin, burned; Edward Ross, crushed and burned; Norton McLaughton, burned about face and hands; William Smith, injured about head and burned; William Brewer, town sergeant, badly burned.

This evening the mine boss stated that there was not more than eighteen or twenty miners on the inside when the explosion occurred. The crowds about the entrance of the mine have not decreased in numbers. In spite of the fact that ropes have been put up in front of the mine, it is impossible to keep the people away.

Late this evening a sensational occurrence took place. A group of the mine operators had just warned the people back from the smoking entrance when a girl, scarce more than 18, rushed through the crowd, and half crazed with grief, declared that if no one else would she was going into the mine alone. It was Carrie Kelso, who was to be married in a few days to a young miner, who is now entombed in the burning mine. This is but one of the many heartrending incidents which are constantly happening here.

The best attention is being given to the various men who were injured in trying to effect an entrance into the mine. Today every mine in the field is practically idle. Men are flocking here from all sides with a determination to save the men, who are still held prisoners in the mines.

TOOK CARBOLIC ACID.

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—(Special.)—John Kelsey, 25 years old, a bookkeeper for his brother Albert Kelsey, a stock broker at 53 Broadway, committed suicide today in the home of his sister, Mrs. George E. Hopple, 251 West Ninety-fifth street, by taking carbolic acid. Mr. Hopple said the young man called his sister into the room and drank the acid, so he could die in her arms, she having been his favorite sister.

Kelsey came from Pittsburgh, where he left his aged parents, both over 70 years of age. He was the last of seven children to leave home. As soon as he came here he began to drink heavily. In trying to prevent him from drinking the acid, Mrs. Hopple was burned severely about the hands.

The name of Kelsey does not appear in the Pittsburgh directory.

BEST ARMOR AT LOWEST PRICES

SECRETARY LONG'S TRIBUTE TO AMERICAN MAKERS.

Yankee Coal Found to Fill the Bill Economically at Distant Foreign Stations — Vice Admiral Grade Wanted—Need of a Naval Reserve as Well as a Naval Militia Demonstrated by the Spanish War.

(SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 15.—But little is said in Secretary of the Navy Long's annual report, made public this afternoon, about armor plate matters, and no recommendations on that subject are made. Under that head the secretary contents himself with giving this piece of information:

The capacity of the armor plants is now about 7,500 tons a year of armor of the best quality, and at the instance of the department the manufacturers are making preparations to increase their output to 10,000 or 12,000 tons a year in order to complete deliveries in accordance with prior contracts, and when in order to be ready to provide armor for additional vessels should they be authorized by congress. They have already turned out more armor than was anticipated.

Under authority vested in the department by congress, contracts were signed November 28, 1900, for over 37,000 tons of armor required for vessels authorized and building. Changing the tests made in this country with reports of those made abroad, our armor seems to be the best that can at present be produced, and the price at which it is obtained is lower than that paid abroad. Deliveries amounting to nearly 2,000 tons have already been made under these contracts.

American Coal Fills the Bill.

American coal is given a good showing in the report. The secretary says:

Owing to the unusually large demands made upon our naval vessels, especially in the waters of the Philippines and Northern China, the quantity of coal used during the last year was greater than any year heretofore. While the best American coal was advanced more than 50 per cent on April 1, 1900, it is gratifying to state that the average cost to the navy during the past year only increased about 13 per cent over that for the previous year.

American coal from the Atlantic coast of the United States has been sent by the bureau to distant ports of the world, notably Yokohama, Japan, and Philippines Islands. Wherever suitable storage can be obtained for it. In the Philippines, American coal is now supplied almost to the exclusion of other coal, and when other than American coal from the Atlantic coast has been supplied to our coal depots at insular and foreign ports, it is due to exceptional circumstances making such action necessary.

The yearly arrangement for the supply of coal to our ships in foreign ports has been continued, with much advantage as to economy and certainty of supply. Fifty-nine ports are now covered by it. In the transportation of coal, it is impossible in some cases to obtain all the merchant tonnage needed to insure the needed coal supply. This difficulty has been overcome by the employment of navy colliers manned by merchant crews, of which there are now nine in commission. Three of these vessels have been of great use to the commander-in-chief of the Asiatic station for distributing coal from Manila to various ports in the Philippines and the China sea for ships of his fleet.

Need of a Naval Reserve.

The secretary renews his recommendation that the grade of vice admiral be revived, and also advocates several changes in the law relating to the personnel of the navy. Civil service reform in his department meets his hearty approval. He asks that the name of the navy yard at Philadelphia be changed from "League Island" to "Philadelphia." Concerning the national naval reserve Secretary Long says:

I have again called attention to the pressing need of a national naval reserve force from which to draw for sea service immediately upon an outbreak of war. The results of the Spanish-American war were such as to assure every one having knowledge of naval matters that steps should at once be taken to meet the one certain and positive contingent which will face the nation upon an outbreak of war—the immediate necessity at that exigent time, if it comes, of a large increase in the men of the navy for an existing force—an increase which must, in the main, be made from the seafaring class, who, having acquired the habit of the sea, are at home on the water. There is no better way of insuring such a reserve than by the measure urged. Our pressing need for such a reserve—a body to go to the front on board ship at once upon the outbreak of war, or when it is imminent.

Next to this will come the defense of the coast, and for such purpose the naval militia will be essential. I see reasons for both organizations, and have heretofore all possible to aid the coast defense militia—and to convince congress of the necessity for the authorization of the other—the national naval reserve.

Limit in Big Guns Reached.

Regarding guns the secretary says:

In order to gain greater energy, guns have been forced to greater and greater dimensions until it is believed that they have now reached a point beyond which it is inexpedient to go. Any further increase in their efficiency must be looked for in the use of heavier projectiles, and in the development of powders possessing higher ballistic properties than those now in use.

The report says the department is continuing its studies of wireless telegraphy, and speaks of the gratifying progress made in the manufacture of smokeless powder. Projects for naval stations in the Philippines, Porto Rico, Hawaii and Tutuila are described briefly. The secretary submits the department's proposals for the increase of the navy which has heretofore been published in The Gazette.

NO OFF YEAR IN WEST VIRGINIA

Candidates Already Hustling for the United States Senatorship.

THE ELECTION IS NOT UNTIL 1904

Senator Scott Is Out for Re-Election. Importance of Republican Hold-Overs in the Upper House of the State Legislature.

BY ED M. HEERMANS.
Staff Correspondent.

PARKERSBURG, W. VA., Nov. 15.—West Virginians are never so happy as when discussing politics, or in the midst of a lively campaign. Since the war times, when the men of this state stood firmly for a separation from the Old Dominion, the citizens have shown a keen relish for any sort of a political skirmish. This is what is commonly termed an "off year" in politics in West Virginia, but as the new year approaches one finds that the politicians are busy with plans for the coming year, in local and state issues, and that the voters find much to engage their time in discussion regarding the prospective candidates.

It is three years until a United States senator is to be chosen by the legislature. There will be a regular bi-ennial session of the legislature before the session of 1904 is held, at which a United States senator is to be elected. But it might be this winter that Senator N. B. Scott's term expires, if one were to judge by the lively discussion among the people, and in the state press. Senator Scott was elected in 1898, by the second Republican legislature which had been chosen in nearly 30 years. His colleague, Senator S. B. Elkins, was the first Republican senator to represent West Virginia for many years. Now that the Republicans have full away in the state, and their control of the legislature for the future is assured, senatorial candidates are abundant.

UNITED STATES SENATOR NATHAN B. SCOTT.

Active Worker for the Party.

Senator Scott gained much prominence by being one of the active members of the National Republican committee. He and Senator Elkins have done much toward advancing the interests of their state, both by securing political recognition and industrial development. The services of Senator Elkins were recognized by his constituents, and last winter he was elected for the second time.

The apparent lively interest that West Virginians are taking in politics in an "off year" is not premature, when one considers the situation. The legislature meets every two years, and the members of the house of delegates are elected biennially. Half of the thirty senators are elected for a term of four years, thus each senator serves during two terms. Next year fifteen senators, of which according to the new districts thirteen will be Republicans, are to be elected to serve during the term of the legislature which will choose a United States senator. Thus the battle is on, for the senatorial aspirants must look well to the selection of these fifteen senators, known as "holdovers."

Senator Scott is a candidate for re-election, and his friends urge that it is due to him in behalf of his services to his state and party, that he be returned to the senate with Senator Elkins.

Race Open to All.

I have not talked with Senator Scott recently, but the last time we talked he had little to say of his candidacy. He believes that the position is one to which any of his Republican friends in West Virginia have a right to aspire, and while he expects to make another race, he is in no way intimated that he disputes the right of others to contest for the honor. Recently Col. Henry Schumlbach of Wheeling, has been announced as a candidate for the United States senate. He admits the fact that he is a candidate, and being a Republican and living in Senator Scott's own city and district, he will receive a share of the support which Senator Scott has always received in the northern Panhandle. This makes the contest interesting right at the home of Senator Scott.

Southern West Virginia always has a candidate for every office to be filled in this state. It is one of the characteristics of the people down in that portion of the state, that they believe in pushing their own claims. By this persistence, southern West Virginia has come in for a good share of the political plums, and at the last legislature they seemed to have been able to capture more good places than their Republican brethren from northern West Virginia. So, according to the rule, southern West Virginia has a candidate for the senatorship. The candidate is none other than James L. Caldwell, a banker and lawyer of Huntington. He is a brother of Charles Caldwell, a lawyer of this city.

Entertained President Roosevelt.

James L. Caldwell has not been a professional politician, but has been identified with the Republican party as an influential and useful worker. He managed the entertainment of President Roosevelt when the latter was in Huntington last fall, and President Roosevelt personally complimented Mr. Caldwell upon the reception accorded him. It is whispered that Mr. Caldwell made known his ambition to the distinguished visitor at that time, and President Roosevelt is not in the habit of forgetting men, especially when they have been his hosts.

Mr. Caldwell will, of course, receive the support of many of the legislators from the southern part of the state. I asked him about his senatorial candidacy. He smiled, shook his head as if the matter was not to be discussed, and changed the subject. But the smile and the gesture did not strike me as having the same meaning. I gathered from his subsequent conversation with me upon the subject, thaat he was pleased with the idea if his friends thought well of it, but that the declination to discuss it, or asknowledge his candidacy now, was the part of prudence.

The latest Republican to be mentioned in this connection is Judge Nathan Goff of the United States district court, whose home is at Clarksburg.

Goff May Be a Candidate.

Judge Goff was urged to become a candidate when Senator Scott was chosen. He declined, after giving the matter due deliberation. I do not have it from Judge Goff himself, that he will allow his name to be used in this connection, but from a member of the family the information comes direct, that in due time Judge Goff will resign his position and become an active candidate for the senatorship. He has long been the idol of West Virginia Republicans, and his probable candidacy puts a new phase upon the senatorial situation.

Judge Goff for years was the Republican leader of the state, and came very nearly being elected governor at the time ex-Governor A. B. Fleming of Fairmont, was elected. His party leaders still insist that before the recount by the legislature that Judge Goff had the majority of ballots, but that is ancient history. If the judge becomes a candidate, he will arouse all the old-time enthusiasm among the voters, and can command a large following. The Republicans feel that the honor belongs to him, and if political contingencies do not arise, growing out of the obligations incurred by p[illegible] managers since Judge Goff retired [illegible] politics, it is quite possible that h[illegible] candidacy will alter the entire plans of the Republicans, and he may prove a strong factor in the senatorial campaign. Judge Goff was a union veteran during the war, and was once sentenced to death in a southern prison. I have no reason to doubt the authenticity of my information regarding the probability of Judge Goff becoming a candidate.

All Candidates Are Wealthy.

All four of these men mentioned here are wealthy, and will spend considerable money in the legitimate way of securing the support of the voters. Senator Scott made a fortune in western gold mines. James L. Caldwell has been well-to-do for years, and but recently added to his wealth by profitable investments in the Texas oil fields. Henry Schmulbach is a wealthy brewer, and has large real estate holdings in Wheeling. Judge Nathan Goff inherited a fortune and during the past three years made large sums in oil development in his native county.

Of course I am writing of the Republican situation, for that party is the only one which enters into the senatorial question in West Virginia. The best sort of authority for that conclusion is the statement made to me a few days ago by O. S. McKinney, former speaker of the house of delegates, and one of the recognized Democrat leaders of West Virginia. He said: "We expect the Republicans to control the next legislature, and by increased majorities in both branches. West Virginia will be Republican for years to come. They have things their way now. The 'gerrymander' passed by the last legislature insures the Republicans of electing the next United States senator."

Mr. McKinney said some more things about the alleged "gerrymander," which was in fact nothing less than a fair redistricting of the state, and he called it "iniquitous," but Mr. McKinney cannot have forgotten "gerrymanders" which his party passed in years gone by, and which made Republican success impossible long after the majorities were in the Republican column.

SAW 84 LEONIDS.

Star-Gazers May Yet Be Rewarded by the Promised Shower of Meteors.

UNIVERSITY OF VIRGINIA, VA., Nov. 15.—Charles P. Olivier, of the Leander McCormick observatory of the University of Virginia, while watching for the expected shower of Leonid meteors, observed 84 between 4:50 and full daybreak this morning. Until day broke an average of one per minute was seen in spite of adverse atmospheric conditions.

This shower was very much greater than that of either of the two preceding years and it is said may indicate that the great shower will yet come.

NORTHFIELD, MINN., Nov. 15.—Professors and students of Carleton college recorded and charted more than 1,000 meteors last night. The shower began about 11:30 o'clock and continued until sunrise. All meteors of any importance were charted upon specially prepared charts. The climax was reached at 5:18.02, when a brilliant meteor of magnitude minus 2 was seen to enter the constellation of Hydra. By accurate determination the trail persisted for 22 minutes. Several thousand large Leonids were seen at Goodsell last night.

KAISER'S NAVY GIVEN A SCARE

The Cause Is the Purchase of Steamship Bonds by an American Company--Directors Warned to Keep Foreigners at a Distance. Can't Pay for New Ships.

(SPECIAL CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.)

BERLIN, Nov. 15.—The directors of the North German Lloyd Steamship Company, which sold 5,000,000 marks' worth of debenture stocks to the Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York, had a conference today with representatives of the navy department. These officials made it plain to Director Ballin Wiegand that the German government expects the company to keep foreigners at a distance, because the entire German fleets are subject to war purposes.

While such uses are extremely remote, the great danger lies in the acquirement by Americans of a heavy lot of bonds, such as the Mutual Life seems to have secured; for whenever companies are unable to pay interest, the bondholders take possession of the entire property. No doubt, when such a contingency arises, the government would assume the company's liabilities.

The entire directorate of the Lloyd and Hamburg lines were closeted in secret session today. The discussion was on ways and means of relieving the financial needs of the company. The Gazette was informed that the particular embarrassment of each company is the inability to pay for the new ships ordered several years ago and now tendered by English and German builders. The contracts for these are said to represent 25,000,000 marks.

During the past fortnight Warburg & Co., stock brokers at Hamburg, have bought in behalf of their American principals between 2,000,000 and 3,000,000 marks' worth of Hamburg-American shares. The brokers are believed to be acting for the Kuhn-Loeb-Schiff combination of New York.

At the offices of the Mutual Life, the Gazette is told that the Lloyd bond purchase is a mere investment, without any idea of acquiring control of the company's affairs.

TRANSPORT WRECKED.

U. S. S. Hancock Runs Aground in Japanese Waters—Assisted by German Vessel.

NAGASAKI, JAPAN, Nov. 15.—The United States transport Hancock is ashore on the south side of Shimoneseki. A German gunboat is assisting her. The transport grounded on a sandy bottom.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—Orders were cabled from the war department today directing the quartermaster at Nagasaki to utilize the Sheridan to bring the passengers of the Hancock to the United States. The Sheridan will be ready to sail on the 17th, according to advices received at the department. It is expected that she will bring the congressional party, the sick and the important mail now on the Hancock.

The Hancock is the third United States transport to meet with a mishap in Japanese waters recently. First, the Sheridan, having on board a number of returning troops and the congressional party which has been visiting the Philippine Islands, was detained at Nagasaki by a broken tail shaft. Her passengers were transferred to the Warren, which sailed from Nagasaki Nov. 3. Two days later the Warren sustained damage in the inland sea, which made necessary to return and dock at Nagasaki. The Hancock was ordered to proceed from Manila to Nagasaki and take on board the delayed passengers, and it was expected that she would sail from the port named November 13 for San Francisco.

SOFIA, BULGARIA, Nov. 15.—Mr. Dickinson, consul general of the United States at Constantinople, has handed the foreign minister here his credentials as diplomatic agent of the United States to Bulgaria.

BERLIN, Nov. 15.—The Local Anzeiger today publishes a dispatch from Sofia to the effect that the husband of Miss Tsilka has received a letter from his wife in which she says Miss Stone and herself are still alive, but suffering great hardships. Mme. Tsilka expresses a belief that they both will be released shortly at or in the vicinity of Salonika. The letter is undated.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—(Special.)—Up to the close of office hours today the state department had received no confirmation of the rumors current that Miss Stone, the American missionary, has been released by her Bulgarian abductors.

His brother and lifelong business associate, John Brooks, died last Sunday, and thus within less than a week the two brothers have passed away. Both were taken sick about the same time. RECEIVER NOT NECESSARY.

Pan-American Exposition Creditors Will Arrange Settlement Among Themselves.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Nov. 15.—On the recommendation of the board of directors of the Pan-American Exposition Company the creditors have named committees to act in conjunction with their executive committee. The creditors divided themselves into three separate classes, representing the mortgage bondholders, those interested in construction claims and claimants for operating expenses. This action is said to practically assure the settlement of the affairs of the company without the appointment of a receiver.

In the statement of total liabilities of the company, amounting to $8,326,114, the capital stock was included. In the assets, however, the plant was not included. The total liabilities of the company, not including the capital stock, is $1,329,684.30.

SPAIN URGED TO IMITATE AMERICA

(SPECIAL CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.)

CADIZ, Nov. 15.—Louis Rubio Sibello, an ex-judge of the Spanish court of justice, has almost taken away the breath of patriotic Conservatives by declaring in a public address that Spain must seek its regeneration by adopting the ideas and educational methods of the United States.

"England and America are, undoubtedly, nations with a tremendous future," said the judge. "The English-speaking peoples are advancing in ever-widening areas of influence, and young Spain should join the procession. In imitating American progressiveness for a few years, the whole aspect of Spain can be changed."

GERMANS THROWING UP THEIR HANDS

Admit That American Coal and Iron Will Overrun Mediterranean

(SPECIAL CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.)

FRANKFORT, GERMANY, Nov. 15.—The big coal and iron interests on the Rhine and in the Westphalia provinces are in a ferment over the persistent efforts of the American manufacturers to seize the continental markets. Speaking in the Vossische Zeitung, Herr Essen, a magnate of the Ruhr district, remarks:

"In 10 or 15 years Yankee coal and iron dealers will overrun the Mediterranean markets and probably not a single competitor of another nation will be able to turn out the American productions, so enormous will they be. Transport conditions are so favorable that Americans avoid difficulty by securing enough return freight and constructing ships with water ballast, so that the ocean rates sink until they cease to be a decisive factor in international commerce.

"The only abiding question is, what country can produce the cheapest goods? However, we cannot stem the tide of American invasion, for America is infinitely rich and can retaliate by absolutely excluding all foreign production."

WAS WITH COXEY'S ARMY.

Alleged Bank Swindler Held in London to Await Papers From United States.

LONDON, Nov. 15.—H. St. John Dix was brought up on remand at the Bow street police court today, charged on provisional warrant with larceny committed in the United States, and was again remanded for a week.

It is alleged that H. St. John Dix obtained control of three banks in the state of Washington in 1900, and that he subsequently wrecked the Scandinavian-American bank at Whatcom, Wash., and disappeared with over $3,500.

St. John accompanied Coxey's army from Massilon, O., to Washington, as commissary general, acting at the same time as correspondent for a Chicago paper.

Later St. John formed a plan for the establishment of a string of banks to reach from Vancouver, B. C., to San Diego, Cal. He borrowed $9,000 from a Seattle bank with which to buy a controlling interest in the Scandinavian-American bank at Whatcom, paying $3,000 for the use of the money for eight days. He then took the deposits in the Scandinavian-American bank and purchased the Bank of Blaine, Wash., and bought the Citizens' National bank at Fairhaven, Wash. He also entered into negotiations for banks in Seattle, Tacoma and Everett, but eventually fled, telling his associates that he was going to get help and that he had a $100,000 insurance policy in London that has just matured.

A RUINOUS MARCH.

Chinese Impoverished by Entertaining the Suite of Imperial Travelers.

PEKING, Nov. 15.—The Chinese court has arrived at Kai Fong-Fu, capital of Ho-Nan, having left the people along its route of march half ruined by the contributions levied for entertainment, repairing of roads and decorations.

The ministers of the foreign powers are considering a suggestion from the Chinese officials to the effect that the ministers meet and formally welcome the emperor when he arrives at Peking.

Dady Gets Havana Contract.

TEXAS FUEL OIL TO TAKE EUROPE

First Shipment of That Grade of Petroleum Will Reach England Next Week--It Will Crowd Out the Borneo Product--May Work a Revolution.

(SPECIAL CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.)

LONDON, Nov. 15.—America's first shipment of fuel petroleum to Europe is expected to arrive here next week. The discoveries of the oil fields in Texas promise to revolutionize the fuel markets of England.

Borneo hitherto has been the chief importer of fuel petroleum, and, no doubt, Great Britain will abandon that field in favor of the United States. Borneo's last consignment landed in London today. The far east trading companies own the Borneo oil fields, as well as 40 of the largest tank steamers in the world, and in undertaking the transportation of the Texas product the two interests have agreed to divide the territory and thus prevent costly competition.

Dr. P. D. Vorkovitz, president of the Petroleum Institute, sees unlimited opportunities in Texas oil for Great Britain. He said:

"The American product, enjoying a shorter haul, can be sold in England for 55 shillings a ton, against Borneo's 60 shillings, and I believe shipments from Texas will induce railroads and manufacturers to try liquid fuel, particularly in view of the high prices of English coal."

DUTCH SURRENDER TO BOER COMMANDO.

Lord Kitchener Makes Report of Two Months' Operations in Africa.

MIDDELBURG, CAPE COLONY, Friday, Oct. 25.—One hundred and eighty district mounted troops, composed largely of Dutch with their arms and horses, surrendered to Smuts' Boer commando October 13. The district troops fired most of their ammunition at long range and then refused to fight further. Capt. Thornton, their commander, believes their surrender to have been prearranged.

LONDON, Nov. 15.—Two of Lord Kitchener's monthly reviews, dated August 8 and September 8, were published in the Gazette this evening. An astonishing number of horses were captured, those in August alone numbering 18,570. About 20 per cent of these were fit for remounts.

Those admitting the disappointing results of some of the operations, Lord Kitchener comments on them as follows:

"So long as this rate of progress can be maintained there can be little doubt of its ultimate effect, even on an enemy to whom no other form of argument seems to appeal."

A dispatch from Lord Kitchener, dated from Pretoria today says that a strong patrol of yeomanry while reconnoitering November 13 at Brakspruit, near Zeerust (in the Transvaal colony about 140 miles west of Pretoria) was surrounded by 300 Boers and lost six men killed and 16 wounded. Some of the troops were captured, but were subsequently released.

The rear guard of Col. Byng's column was attacked near Heilbron, Orange River colony, November 14 by 400 Boers, said to be under the command of Gen. DeWet. After two hours fighting the Boers retired, leaving eight dead on the field. Of Col. Byng's column, Lieut. Hughes and one man were killed, while three officers and nine men were wounded.

"FOR CATARRHAL TROUBLES

Pe-ru-na is of Great Benefit," SAYS Delegate R. W. Wilcox from Hawaii.

Hon. Robert W. Wilcox, Delegate from Hawaii and the Sandwich Islands, in a letter written from Washington, D. C., says:

"I have used Peruna for dyspepsia and I cheerfully give you this testimonial. Am satisfied if it is used properly it will be of great benefit to our people. I can conscientiously recommend it to anyone who is suffering with stomach or catarrhal troubles."—R. W. WILCOX.

Miss Sara McGahan, 197 Third street, Albany, N. Y., writes:

"A few months ago I suffered with a severe attack of influenza which nothing seemed to relieve. My hearing became bad, my eyes became irritated and feverish. Nothing seemed right, and nothing I ate tasted good.

"I do not know what Peruna is made of, but I know it is a wonderful medicine to drive away sickness and restore you to health. Within two weeks I was perfectly well, and now when any of my friends are sick I advise them to take Peruna."—Sara McGahan.

Mr. Benjamin D. Bowers, sailor, cook of Bank and Queen streets, Ottawa, Ont., writes as follows:

"Last winter I caught a severe cold which seemed to settle all over me. I did not know just what the trouble was; my head and back ached, my stomach refused food, and my general health seemed impaired.

"A catarrhal phlegm raised from my throat and lined my stomach. Four bottles of Peruna did more for me than all the doctor's medicines had done, for it cured me, built up my entire system and made me feel strong once more. Since that time I have never missed a meal, my sleep is restful, and my entire system in good condition."—Benjamin D. Bowers.

Mr. William Ratagan, 1042 River street, Detroit, Mich., is school inspector of Wayne county, Quartermaster General, Supreme Commander of the Knights of St. John. He writes:

"For years I dreaded the unreasonable winter weather with its shock, bringing colds and all kinds of trouble in its wake, and each winter I would have several weeks of sickness, laying me up for part of the time, and I suffered a great deal with stomach trouble. Last winter I was advised to take Peruna, when I had the first sign of illness, and in less than a week I was like a new man. I could hardly believe my senses, and felt that I would have a relapse, but the winter and spring passed and not another sick day did I have, and I have been in perfect health since, thanks to Peruna."—W. P. Ratagan.

Enjoy Perfect Health, Due to Pe-ru-na.

Mr. Willis Hughes, President of the Century Bicycle Club of Crown Point, Ind., writes the following:

"Peruna is very popular in Crown Point, but I must say that it deserves all the praise it gets. There is hardly a prejudice here against patent medicines, but Peruna has quietly yet permanently worked its way into hundreds of homes and is now a welcome visitor.

"I have found it an invaluable help, especially in cases of catarrh. I suffered with catarrh of the head and found that two weeks' treatment entirely cured me. I now enjoy perfect health, and Peruna has a staunch friend in me."—Willis Hughes.

There are some things which are as sure as fate and can be relied on to occur to at least one-half of the human family, unless means are taken to prevent.

First, the climate of fall and winter is sure to bring colds; second, colds, if not promptly cured as sure to cause catarrh; third, catarrh improperly treated is sure to make life short and miserable.

Catarrh spares no organ or function of the body. It is capable of destroying sight, taste, smell, hearing, digestion, secretion, assimilation and nutrition. It pervades every part of the human body, the head, throat, stomach, bronchial tubes, lungs, liver, kidneys, bladder and sexual organs.

Catarrh is the cause of at least one-half of the ills to which the human family is subject. Is there no way to escape it? There is.

Peruna never fails to cure a cold. Peruna never fails to cure catarrh in the first stage. Peruna cures catarrh in the second stage, nine cases out of ten. Peruna cures catarrh in its third and worst stages in the majority of cases, and never fails to benefit every case, however old.

Peruna also cures la grippe, coughs and consumption in the first stages with unfailing certainty.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case, and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Clark was walking along Fifth avenue, McKeesport, when he was stopped by a well-dressed negro who asked him if he would like a good job. The stranger said that he had been acting as janitor for "Mr. Carnegie" at Duquesne, but was going to quit and go west. He praised Mr. Carnegie as an employer and assured Clark it was a fine chance for a young man. He also told him to go home, put on his best clothes, and bring all the money he could raise, as Mr. Carnegie would want positive proof that he was a young man of saving habits. Clark hurried home, donned his Sunday clothes and met the stranger with $11 with which to startle the eyes of Mr. Carnegie. He took Clark over to Duquesne and told him to wait until he got his grip. Clark is waiting yet.

A TABLET TO M'KINLEY.

Pennsylvania Division Boys' Brigade Inaugurates Movement to Honor Dead President.

The Boys' Brigade of America will erect a tablet to the memory of McKinley. The movement was inaugurated yesterday at the eighth annual convention of the Pennsylvania division in the Central Presbyterian Church, Allegheny.

A committee was appointed to confer with the national council on a plan to enlist the interest of the 65,000 members throughout the United States. Each will be asked to contribute a small sum. The tablet to be bought with this popular fund will be erected either in one of the government buildings in Washington or in Independence hall, Philadelphia.

The annual election of officers resulted as follows: President, Gen. H. P. Spicer, Philadelphia; first vice-president, Col. H. P. Bope, Pittsburgh; second vice president, W. A. Credit, Philadelphia; third vice president, James I. Kay, Esq., Pittsburgh. Two papers were read during the business session, one by P. C. Waite on "The Benefits of the Boys' Brigade" and one by Gen. Spicer on "How to Win the Boys." Both were followed by spirited discussion.

A committee was appointed to hasten the merging of the state and national paper. The reports of the officers showed that the work has progressed very favorably during the year. Next year's convention will be held in Lancaster.

WILL OPEN MONDAY.

Duquesne Garden Is Ready for the Event of Skating and Basket Ball.

It has been definitely determined that the opening of Duquesne garden for the season of 1901-1902 will take place next Monday evening. There has been some misunderstanding as to whether the garden would continue as an amusement resort, but the directors and stockholders of the company which owns and controls the institution have decided not to withdraw it from Pittsburgh's places of diversion. They purpose continuing, as in the past, to provide a season of ice skating, during which there will be hockey games by the famous Canadian clubs which have been booked, the very best college teams in the United States and also home teams. There have been speed and fancy skaters, who are the most learned exponents of the art, engaged to give exhibitions. Basketball is to be one of the new features in which a great number will be interested.

During the fall the rink has undergone complete renovation, and Mr. James W. Conant, the manager, is authority for the statement that a better surface for skating will be available this season than ever before. Every attention is to be given to the comfort and well-being of the patrons, and the very best attractions will be presented.

Many innovations will be introduced as the season progresses; skating parties are being formed by different society sets, and on many occasions box parties will decorate the boxes occupied by their own crowd with the colors of their favorite team.

A BIG DEAL IS DECLARED OFF

Distilling Interests of the Country Were to Have Been Combined.

RYE WHISKY MAKERS DID NOT GO IN

The Distilling Company of America Has, However, Combined Sixty Per Cent of Bourbon and Spirit Distilleries—New Warehouse.

The deal for the combination of all the distilling interests of the country, with a capital of $200,000,000, has fallen through. The scheme, by which Thomas Dolan of Philadelphia was to combine all of the rye whisky distilling interests of Western Pennsylvania with $75,000,000 capital and subsequently to merge this company into the Distilling Company of America, has miscarried. Pittsburghers interested say it cannot be carried out, the individual distillers having as the chief cause of their trade their special brands of whisky.

The Distilling Company of America, with authorized capital of $125,000,000, has taken over more than 60 per cent of the existing concerns manufacturing Bourbon whisky and spirits. Among them are the following: American Spirits Manufacturing Company, capital $37,000,000; Hannis Distilling Company, Baltimore and Hannisville, Md., capital $1,000,000; Kentucky Distilleries and Warehouse Company, capital $32,000,000; Standard Distilling and Distributing Company, capital $24,000,000; Spirits Distributing Company, capital $8,450,000.

The company has issued of its authorized stocks $31,250,000 of the preferred and $46,252,000 of the common. A bond issue of $5,000,000 in 5 per cent securities also has been made. Philip Hamburger, head of the Hamburger Distilleries, limited, said yesterday that the combine has taken over about 60 per cent of the Bourbon and spirit concerns, and that the rye distilleries are no longer interested in the deal.

The Hamburger Distilleries, limited, have just placed a contract for the most modern distillery and warehouse in Western Pennsylvania. The building is 78x111 feet, and is to be erected by July 1 next. It will be a modern structure of seven stories and will be erected by George L. Bollinger & Co. of Pittsburgh at Brownsville. This plant, which is on the rack system, is 21 barrels high, will have storage capacity for 15,000 barrels. This will give the company storage capacity for 60,000 barrels, with the warehouses now in use at the works in Brownsville.

Their distilleries have a capacity of 15,000 barrels a year. The new storage plant will be of stone and brick. It will be equipped with a heating system of steam coils. The present storage plants are sufficiently isolated from each other to prevent fire taking in the entire property.

Decline of Political Isms.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 15.—(Special.)—When the Fifty-seventh congress meets next month it will contain no representatives of the People's party, so far as the senate is concerned. Neither will there be any free silver Republicans, but each member of the upper house will be classed either as a Republican or Democrat.

FIRST SIXTEEN YEARS

Determine Structure and Physical Health.

If parents could realize what a crime they commit in permitting children to have heavy drugs during their early life, such drugs, for instance, as coffee, which stunts their growth, prepares them for dyspepsia and nervous wrecks, they would do anything, go to any amount of trouble and care, to change the methods and give their children the advantages that nature demands to produce perfect specimens.

A sixty-year-old woman writes: "My overindulgent papa used to say, at the table, 'Why not let the child have what she likes; it won't hurt her any.' He referred particularly to my drinking coffee, which I was very fond of as a child. He honestly thought it didn't hurt me, for with his strong body, apparently without nerves, he was not consciously affected by coffee, but the effect on me—a bundle of nerves—was to develop restlessness and stunt my growth.

"The first effect after drinking coffee was that of delightful exhilaration and I felt courage and strength to attack almost any amount of active work, but in a few hours the reaction came, with misery in my chest, palpitation of the heart, and most unbearable pains in my stomach.

"Finally my attention was called to Postum Cereal Food Coffee, and we secured some of it. It was prepared according to directions, but breakfast being delayed, the Postum got an extra boiling, which developed all its virtues, and we all fell in love with it from the first moment. The change in our physical health, after drinking Postum, was something remarkable. We have as delicious coffee as any one could ask, but it is a perfectly healthy coffee, and the more we drink of it, in reason, the better we are. I am satisfied that the increasing amount of heart difficulty of late years, among young people, is directly attributable to the use of coffee, and it is a great blessing to have so safe and delicious a food coffee as Postum. Please omit my name from publication." ———, East Brookfield, Mass. Name given upon application to Postum Cereal Co., Ltd., Battle Creek, Mich.

CUT HIS THROAT WITH A RAZOR

A DESPONDENT EX-SAILOR ATTEMPTS HIS OWN LIFE.

Harry O'Donnell, Porter at the Hotel Schenley, Tried to Commit Suicide in Fifth Avenue, Oakland. Was Morose Because of His Discharge From United States Navy. Physicians Say He Will Recover.

Despondent because he had been discharged from the United States navy about three weeks ago, on account of ill health, Harry O'Donnell, 23 years of age, night porter at the Hotel Schenley, made a desperate attempt to commit suicide by cutting his throat with a razor, in front of the Oakland car barns of the Consolidated Traction Company, in Fifth avenue, Oakland, about 6 o'clock last night.

He was carried from the middle of the street by a motorman and conductor, and taken to the office of the traction company, where a physician dressed his wound and he was sent to the Mercy hospital in No. 4 patrol wagon.

O'Donnell has been drinking heavily for the past week, so it is said, and about 5 o'clock last night was very drunk. At the corner of Fifth and Oakland avenues, he encountered an officer in citizen's clothes, who remarked to him that he was drunk. O'Donnell replied: "That's the last time you'll ever say that."

When O'Donnell was removed to the office of the Consolidated Traction Company, it took six men to hold him. He insisted in tearing the bandages from his wound, and loudly called for his razor, "to finish the job." He had to be handcuffed before he was sent to the hospital.

O'Donnell came here from Bellaire, O., about three years ago. For two years he was employed as night nurse at St. Francis hospital, and got into the navy last July. He was sent to League Island Navy yard and never detailed for duty. His health failed him some time ago, and he was honorably discharged. About two weeks ago he secured a position as night porter at the Hotel Schenley. He roomed at the Hotel Shephard, but has not been there for the past week.

His wound on the left side of the neck is about two inches long and required two stitches. At the hospital last night it was stated that although very weak from the loss of blood, O'Donnell's condition was not serious. His brother J. E. O'Donnell, is head porter at the Monongahela house, and another brother lives in Wilkinsburg.

Ordinary Accidents Lead to Uterine Derangement—Mrs. Reiner's Suffering Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—My trouble was inflammation of the womb. Two months after my baby was born, I made a misstep in coming down stairs. EYER PULLS OUT OF FIGHT

Senator Muehlbronner Will Have No Opposition for Re-Election.

SLATES BEING FIXED IN ALLEGHENY

North Side Leaders Will Support the Flinn County Ticket in Return for Protection for the Candidacy of Richard Kopp.

Senator Charles A. Muehlbronner will have no Republican opposition for re-election.

Ex-Mayor Charles Geyer has announced his withdrawal from the contest. He does not declare, however, that he will not be a candidate for recorder to succeed John R. Murphy.

Samuel C. Grier and other North Side leaders say that they will not oppose the Flinn county ticket. They will go along with the Sixth avenue crowd to protect the candidacy of Richard Kopp for clerk of courts. What effect this will have in preventing the stalwarts from putting a county ticket in the field has not been decided.

The probability of early primaries is considerably increased by this action. Some of the North Side leaders are rather anxious to see all nominations made on January 19. The stalwarts will no doubt fight any attempt to bring the primaries forward.

Senator Muehlbronner announced Sunday that Senator Quay was in favor of his return to the state senate. The desires of the Beaver man were no doubt communicated to the Allegheny leaders. There was a quiet gathering at the home of S. C. Grier, Recorder John Murphy, Treasurer John Hetzel and others being present. It was decided that Mr. Muehlbronner should have no opposition. It also was determined that the North Side leaders should support Flinn's candidates for county offices, while the Pittsburghers would reciprocate by assisting Richard Kopp to get the nomination for clerk of courts and keep his hands off in the Allegheny senatorial nomination.

The conference also decided that Congressman W. H. Graham should have another term and slated Speaker William T. Marshall and John H. Henderson for assemblymen in the Second district. Mr. Grier says that it has not been determined who will represent the First district. The choice of candidates has been left to Recorder Murphy and some of the lesser lights. John Sauers and Henry P. Stavlig are looked upon as the probable nominees. This would mean the attempted cutting out of Representative Charles W. Neeb.

The slating of the North Side state delegates will be done later. In this connection it develops that the Flinn organization will attempt to elect the state delegates with the same district delegates that nominate members of the legislature. There is likelihood that there will be strenuous opposition to this scheme. Thomas S. Bigelow says that the stalwarts will have a full slate of state delegates in the field. He intends to go from the Fifth district. It is probable that he will be opposed by Senator William Flinn.

Ex-Mayor Geyer said that it was true that he would not be a candidate for senator. "My wife does not want me to go to the senate," said he, "and I have complied with her wishes. I am not withdrawing, however, as the result of any deal. The question as to my candidacy for the recordership is a matter of the future. I suppose that Mr. Muehlbronner will be without opposition."

Mr. Grier said that the withdrawal of Mr. Geyer gave Senator Muehlbronner a clear field. He is of the opinion that Senator Flinn will not attempt to put up opposition to Muehlbronner. When asked if the North Side leaders would support the county ticket now in the field, Mr. Grier said that he thought they would. "I will not go into any movement to nominate an opposition county slate. I did so once, and the results were not gratifying. We will have Mr. Kopp on the ticket from this side of the river."

Senator Muehlbronner said that he had been informed that he would not have any opposition. He appears to be well pleased with the new North Side deal.

FIGHT FOR RECOGNITION.

Coal Diggers Battling Against Reduction—Conference Was Futile and Strike May Result.

The contention of the miners for recognition in West Virginia is of much interest in the competitive fields here. On November 26 the West Virginia miners will again hold a convention at Huntington and, in the meantime, a test fight is being waged at the Tyreonnel mines, Rosemont, owned by the new Clarksburg Fuel Company. The Gazette has received the following communication from a committee of miners of the Tyreonnel mines, West Virginia:

"Please allow us room to give the miners' side of the situation here. At the time the reduction was made the miners were getting 40 cents per ton. Our cars brought us 84 cents each. The drivers were getting 18 cents an hour, and day labor was paid from 15½ to 18 cents and hour. The reduction cut the price per car to 65 cents; drivers were reduced to 16½ cents an hour; track hoisters 16 cents; other trackmen, 16 cents; all other labor, 14½ cents. The miners are unanimous in opposing the reduction, and we will not go to work at the cut rates. We cannot understand why the coal companies of our state cannot pay 40 cents a ton, when the companies of other states can pay double that sum.

"The Pittsburgh district miners' officials yesterday returned from Freeport, Pa., where a joint conference of miners and operators was on to adjust a wage scale for the West Penn and Allegheny Valley mining operations. An insufficient representation of the operators resulted in the appointment of a committee to draft a scale and present it to the operators. Failing to secure its adoption, the demand will be fought for, most of the men of these fields being members of the union and anxious to contest for recognition as union men.

TO FIGHT THE COMBINE.

Texas Oil and Pipe Line Co. in Which Pittsburghers Are Interested Refuses to Sell Out.

The Pittsburgh syndicate, interested in oil development in Texas, is much concerned in a move of the National Pipe Line Company, generally recognized as a Standard Oil interest, to take over all productive interests in the Texas field.

William J. Wilson, the Pittsburgh consulting engineer, who heads the Pittsburgh syndicate, said yesterday that the National interests are taking up everything in sight in the Texas field.

He said that the $2,000,000 syndicate of ex-Senator Charles A. Towne of Minnesota has withdrawn its stock from the market, and that it is generally understood to have been taken over by the Standard Oil syndicate. A proposition to take over the interests of the Texas Oil and Pipe Line Company, capitalized at $2,500,000, has been turned down, this company determining to fight out the trade rivalry in the Texas fields alone.

Mr. Wilson said yesterday that he has advices from W. S. Davidson, president of the First National bank of Beaumont, Tex., confirming the report of Capt. F. M. Brown, field manager of the company, that the great gusher is good for 200,000 barrels a day.

A pipe line of 16 miles will be built and the Texas company can with the facilities planned take its product to New York in quantities equal to the fuel qualities of a ton of coal for 25 cents. The ratio figured on is three and a half barrels of oil to a ton of coal.

Allegheny County Will Probably Present Two Measures to the Next Legislature, Putting Personal Registration of Voters Into Effect. County Commissioners Are Busily at Work and Chamber of Commerce May Take Action.

The next legislature will be called upon to enact a law putting into operation the new amendment to the constitution providing for personal registration in cities. From present indications a couple of bills will be prepared by Allegheny county people. The county commissioners are now at work on the subject, and it is probable that the chamber of commerce will ask George W. Guthrie to draft a bill.

Mr. Guthrie would abolish the poll tax and make each voter pay 5 cents to the register when his name is put on the lists. When this roll is finally passed upon by the courts, the lawyer believes that nothing but change of residence should bar those registered from voting.

Mr. Guthrie agrees with Commissioner Carson Mercer that every safeguard possible should be thrown about the registration. Mr. Mercer has long been an advocate of personal registration. He believes that it would do much to purify the ballot, and is also confident that it would greatly reduce the expenses of preparing for and conducting elections.

"We now have 197,000 voters on the registry lists," said Mr. Mercer. "These must be copied four times, and the cost of transcribing is great. In the last election about 50,000 votes were polled, but we had to prepare ballots for 197,000. The cost of unnecessary ballots and stationery was over $5,000.

Money Thrown Away.

"This was money thrown away, but under the law the expenditure could not be avoided.

"Everything possible to prevent fraud in personal registration should be done. Major W. H. Davis thinks that the blank should be somewhat similar to the one in use in the United States army. I agree with him. I believe that the person seeking registration should be compelled to answer these questions, at least:

"Name, residence, street and number, occupation, nativity, scars or other marks of distinction, complexion, height, mustache or clean shaven, ability to mark ballot. There are other questions that could be added. The extra work for the assessor is slight. With such a means of identification, it would be difficult for a fraudulent voter to impersonate an elector whose name is in the registry."

Mr. Guthrie thinks the above proposition a good one, and believes that too many means for identification cannot be given. He has given personal registration much study and is quite familiar with the methods in vogue in some states of the union and in foreign countries. He intends to make a collection of the various laws and will probably prepare a bill.

"I regret," he said, "that there is any tax qualification in the amendment. To my mind this is a bad feature of the present system, but is made necessary because of the constitutional requirement. My observation has been that the political machine takes advantage of the tax receipt feature.

Receipts Used as Bribes.

"It buys large quantities of receipts and uses them as a bribe for getting votes. By reason of failure to pay a poll tax thousands are annually disfranchised. The machine warns these men, if it is doubtful of their votes, that they will be prosecuted if there is an attempt to exercise their franchise.

"I would abolish the poll tax and this could be done without loss of revenue to the county. To meet the requirements of the constitution the voter could pay 1 cent or 5 cents to the register when his name is placed on the roll. This money should be turned into the county treasury. Upon payment of the nickel a receipt should be given the elector and this paper would be evidence on election day that he is entitled to vote. After the list has been properly purged in the courts and finally confirmed no one should be allowed to challenge a person on the roll unless it is proved that he had changed his residence after registration. The right to challenge should also be allowed where there is an attempt at impersonation. None but those on the registry should be allowed to cast a ballot.

"In France each elector is given a card showing that he is entitled to vote. When he has cast his ballot one of the election board tears the corner off the card. The pasteboard is returned to him, but he is entitled to another vote only in case that at the first election none of the candidates receive a clear majority. Under the law that I suggest for this state the election board would stamp the voter's registration receipt. The paper would then be valueless and its holder could not repeat."

WILL PROBE THE PLAGUE.

United States Officer Goes to Liverpool to Investigate.

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—(Special.)—Among the passengers sailing on the steamship Lucania for Liverpool tomorrow will be Assistant Surgeon John F. Anderson of the United States marine hospital service. Dr. Anderson has been detailed by President Roosevelt to go to Liverpool to investigate the recent outbreak there of bubonic plague.

He will report to Washington on the prevalence of the plague and the possibility of its continuance and spread and the danger of its transmission to this country. He will also make such recommendations as will protect the ports of this country from the plague.

CLUB SECRETS LET OUT.

Prominent Member of Union League Narrowly Escapes Expulsion.

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—(Special.)—By a small margin a prominent member of the Union League club narrowly escaped expulsion at a meeting which lasted into the early hours of this morning. The man was charged with making public last summer the fact that the Union League club had voted to substitute white for negro help. He was seen telephoning in the club and was marked as a publicity promoter. He was suspended from membership and last night his case came up for final disposition.

The meeting is described as one of the stormiest ever held by the Union league. The suspended man had numerous friends who made a good fight for him.

ASSISTANT CHIEF HONORED.

Presented With Fire Hose and Helmet by His Old Company.

A committee from Engine Company No. 1, the old company of which Assistant Fire Chief Peter Snyder was captain for years, escorted him to the company headquarters last evening, where he was surrounded by his old comrades and presented with a handsome fire helmet and coat as a remembrance from the boys of the company. Lieut. Reilly, of No. 1, made the presentation speech and addresses were made by Capt. B. J. Cowley of Chemical Engine Company No. 1, and Charles McCaffrey and Patrick Sullivan, of No. 1.

A delegation of the assistant chief's friends, headed by Councilman Thomas Delaney, of the First ward, was present, and there were reminiscences of past days among the city fire-fighters for hours. The meeting broke up with three cheers for the former captain.

CHURCH TO DRAW THE COLOR LINE

Methodist Episcopal Mission Conference Debates On Race Question.

SPEAKERS PREDICT A DIVISION

Separate Branch of Church for Colored Members is Advocated Discussion Will Be Renewed Today—Aid Distributed.

Bishops and other high dignitaries of the Methodist Episcopal church continued their deliberations yesterday in the general missionary commission. They appropriated funds for many of the conferences in the home mission field.

During the afternoon session a debate arose that indicated to what a large degree the mind of the church was being affected by the so-called "Negro Question." A motion was made that in effect distinguished between the white and colored schools of the south, which for a long time have been as one in the mind of the Methodist church. It was plainly intimated by some of the speakers that the time was coming when the negro would have to retire from the Methodist Episcopal church as a co-member with his white brother, and organize a branch of his own.

Bishop Andrews presided at the morning session, at which the attendance was the largest of any business session yet held.

Bishop J. W. Hamilton spoke about the work in Oklahoma. He told of the project to establish a university in that territory, and said that the Oklahoma bank has offered a site of 40 acres for the institution and $100,000 besides. He then asked the committee to appropriate $18,000 for Oklahoma, of which $5,000 shall be immediately available. The appropriation was made. Other appropriations made at the morning session, were: Northern Minnesota conference, $5,000; Northwest Iowa, $3,111; Northwest Kansas, $6,500; Northwest Nebraska, $3,110; South Kansas, $1,280; Southwest Kansas, $5,000; West Nebraska, $5,950; Arizona, $6,040; Colorado, $8,100; Idaho, $4,400; Nevada, $2,900; New Mexico, $5,100.

Some of these appropriations were challenged and lively debates resulted. It was largely due to Bishop McCabe that Nevada got as liberal an appropriation as she did.

Race Issue Brought Up.

A motion, hinting at a disposition of the Methodist Episcopal church to cast from its embrace the colored members both north and south, and to help them to start a denomination, whose membership shall be confined entirely to the colored race, caused a long and exciting discussion.

The motion was made by Bishop Foss, when the application for the Alabama conferences for missionary aid came up.

He moved that the applications for white work in the south (Maryland and Delaware excepted), and colored, mostly south, be referred to special committees for consideration.

No sooner had the motion been seconded than the Rev. Dr. W. H. Nelson, a colored presiding elder, scenting danger, secured the floor, and made an eloquent plea against the motion. He said the Methodist Episcopal church is the only church in the south, which stands for the fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man; that there is now a crusade of hate all through the south against the black man, and that the colored people down there are looking to the Methodist Episcopal church in the north for help.

He said if the church casts him and his colored brethren out, they would have to join the African Methodist Episcopal Zion or the African Methodist Episcopal church, neither of which they cared to enter. He said that he and the other colored members of the Methodist Episcopal church have the white man's God, the white man's religion, the white man's intelligence, and the white man's patriotism. "Don't, I implore you," he pleaded, "drive us from you. I speak for those of my race who are members of our church."

The Rev. J. F. Gouchie, D. D., of Baltimore, followed Dr. Nelson. He said that, while he was a friend of the colored man, he cannot help but know, that it is at this time impossible to successfully conduct mixed schools, colleges, or churches, especially in the south. "It is not the fault of the black man," he said, "it is his misfortune. They should have an organization of their own. In it they could feel that they were among their own people and kind, and would therefore be more happy and independent. Instead of the race prejudice growing less in the south it is growing larger and larger day by day, now that the sentiment over the abolition of slavery is dying out."

Dr. J. M. Buckley spoke against the motion. He thinks colored men develop intellectually much more rapidly when associated with their white brethren. He characterized a conference of the American Methodist Episcopal Zion church as a regular circus, too amusing for a man with a sense of the ridiculous to keep a straight face while attending it.

Bishops Hamilton and Walden spoke also against the motion. It was then laid over until this morning's session.

Another matter which caused considerable debate was the appropriation for Utah.

To Combat Mormonism.

On motion of Bishop Fowler $10,000 were appropriated for the schools of Utah. The home missions of that state got $8,565, the same amount as last year, minus the 8 per cent reduction. These liberal appropriations, for the work in Utah were due to the belief of most members of the committee that Mormonism is growing, and that the best way to combat it is through the education of the rising generations. Dr. J. M. Buckley and Bishop Fowler made interesting speeches on this work.

Other appropriations made at the afternoon meeting were as follows: North Montana conference, $4,400; Wyoming, $5,152; Alaska, $4,140; California, $4,988; English work in Honolulu, $500; Columbia river, $7,150; Oregon, $4,250; Puget Sound, $5,000; Southern California, $4,447; Western Norwegian-Danish, $6,000; North Pacific German, $4,000.

An invitation to visit the Carnegie steel works was extended to the committee at the close of this session, but was declined, the committee not having any leisure time at its disposal.

In the evening an enthusiastic platform meeting was held in Christ church and a similar meeting in the Methodist Episcopal church at New Brighton, Pa.

BANQUET ENDS THE REUNION.

MASONS HOLD BRILLIANT FEAST IN KENWOOD LAWN.

Forty-Ninth Annual Gathering of Ancient Accepted Scottish Rite Masons of the Northern Jurisdiction in the Valley of Pittsburgh Comes to a Delightful Close—Toast Responses.

The forty-ninth annual reunion of the Ancient, Accepted Scottish Rite of Freemasonry of the northern jurisdiction, held in the valley of Pittsburgh, closed last night with a grand banquet tendered to visitors by the Pennsylvania consistory in Kenwood Lawn, Larimer avenue.

The closing of this reunion, one of the most successful ever held by the Scottish Rite bodies, was a fitting climax. Seldom has a finer banquet been tendered in Pittsburgh to any visitors, and the number of distinguished members of the various consistories present made the occasion a notable one.

Arrangements were made for seating 1,352 guests, and almost every seat was filled. The tables were in the shape of a huge triple palmer's cross. Around the side wall of the building ran other tables, and up on the platform was another tier.

The great hall presented a beautiful appearance. The walls were covered with a thick screen of southern smilax, and hanging in graceful festoons from walls and ceiling were long green ropes of holly, the whole giving a softened effect to the electric lights.

On the tables huge vases of deep red roses, chrysanthemums of various shades, delicate orchids, sheeny green ferns and many other superb bits of bloom refreshed and soothed both eye and mind. The flowers were draped with graceful folds of ribbon, and at each seat was a boutonniere of the same flower as nodded from the vase in the center of the table. Huge palms marked off the various divisions in the room.

Menu Was Elaborate.

Overlooking the entire hall, from a balcony, was stationed Schstoff's Russian orchestra from New York city. It rendered a fine program.

The menu was most elaborate, and in spite of the great number of people to be fed, the service was perfect.

A splendid souvenir menu card was presented to each guest, the cover a deep buff color, bearing on it a fine photograph of James I. Buchanan. Inside, on embossed paper, with tasteful color and inscriptions, followed the menu, the toasts, the musical program, a list of the officers of the consistory, aand other bits of information. After the banquet framed autograph photographs of Judge Henry L. Palmer of Milwaukee, M. P. Sovereign, grand commander of the northern jurisdiction, were presented to each guest.

After coffee and cigars Toastmaster James I. Buchanan made a short address and introduced the other speakers. George W. Guthrie responded to the toast "Our Country;" William M. Hamilton, "The Grand Lodge of the Most Ancient and Honorable Fraternity of Free and Accepted Masons of Pennsylvania, and Masonic Jurisdiction Thereunto Belonging."

The Commander's Toast.

Judge Palmer responded to "The Supreme Council of Sovereign Grand Inspectors General of the Thirty-third and Last Degree of the Ancient Accepted Scottish Rite of Freemasonry for the Northern Masonic Jurisdiction of the United States of America;" Brenton D. Babcock to "Our Guests;" and a short silence was devoted to "Our Absent;" Judge George B. Orlady to "Our Veterans;" and George N. Chalfant of Pittsburgh, one of the new class just honored with the 32d degree, to "Our Young Members." William D. McIlroy spoke on "Our Ladies" and Harry W. Dunlap on "Our Valley." At every toast in the menu card appeared appropriate little quotations.

The officers of the Pennsylvania consistory are: James I. Buchanan, 33d degree, sovereign grand inspector general and deputy for Pennsylvania; George W. Guthrie, 32d degree, sovereign grand inspector general and an active member of the supreme council; Harry W. Dunlap, 33d degree, illustrious commander-in-chief, Pennsylvania consistory; George A. Howe, 32d degree, M. W. and P. M. Pittsburg chapter, Rose-Croix; Samuel Hamilton, M. E. Sov. F. M. G., Pennsylvania council, Princess of Jerusalem; Charles M. Barthberger, T. P. G. M., Gourgas lodge of Pittsburgh; Americus V. Holmes, grand treasurer; John E. Haines, grand secretary.

The cigars presented had been especially prepared with a label of the consistory, and matches wrapped in each package, containing two cigars. Every detail was complete, and the affair was voted one of the most successful of its kind ever attended by members of the northern jurisdiction. The committee to whom this excellence was due was composed of the following Pittsburghers: Herman Junker, Eli Edmundson, Jr., and George W. Wilson.

BLUE FOR MOLINEUX.

Prosecution Officials Think Hill's Argument Is Unanswerable.

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—(Special.)—The result of the Hill-Black argument in the case of R. B. Molineux was to create an impression today in the district attorney's office and in the minds of the lawyers who heard it, that Judge Newburger would be unable to come to any other conclusion than that the indictment must be sustained. It was said in the criminal courts building that ex-Gov. Hill's arguments, both on the technical points of the law and on the merits of the case, were practically unanswerable, and that, in truth, ex-Gov. Black had not answered them.

"After a careful consideration of the evidence in the case," said District Attorney Philbin, "I was obliged to come to the conclusion that the man was guilty; at least that there were sufficient circumstances pointing toward his guilt to make it incumbent upon the district attorney to place him on trial."

NO BAIL FOR JANE TOPPAN.

Hearing in the Celebrated Murder Case Postponed Until December 11.

BARNSTABLE, MASS., Nov. 15.—(Special.)—With her face wreathed in smiles and chatting merrily with her counsel—a great contrast to a week ago—Miss Jane Toppan, accused of the murder of Mrs. Mary D. Gibbs of Cataumet, entered the First District court this morning for a preliminary hearing.

The court did not open promptly, it being 9:10 before the prisoner was brought out of the jail.

As a result of the proceedings the hearing was further continued until December 11, the prisoner being committed to jail without bail.

ROCKY MOUNTAINS SHAKEN.

Earthquake Frightens Colorado People and Dislodges Boulders on Hillsides.

BUENA VISTA, COL., Nov. 15.—This town and surrounding country experienced an earthquake shock early today which lasted several seconds. Many people rushed from their residences fearing their homes would be demolished. Plate glass windows were cracked. It is reported that the waters of Cottonwood lake rose considerably. Many huge boulders on Mount Princeton and Mount Harvard were disiodged and rolled down the sides of the mountain.

The trembling seemed to travel from the southwest to the northeast and lasted about six seconds. This is the first earthquake ever felt at Buena Vista.

GREENSBURG, PA., Nov. 15.—(Special.)—The Greensburg branch of the Needlework Guild of America held its annual meeting today and between 1,200 and 1,300 articles of clothing, to be distributed among the poor of the county, were received. These officers were elected: President, Mrs. George F. Huff; vice presidents, Mrs. J. S. Moorhead, Mrs. J. A. Marchand, Mrs. Jacob Frees, Mrs. L. W. Doty; secretary, Miss Belle Armstrong; treasurer, Mrs. J. W. Moore. Two new directors are Mrs. W. B. Skelly of Irwin, and Miss Lizzie Pieffeym of Greensburg.

ALLEGHENIAN'S FIGHT FOR LIFE

Squalls Spills Sailing Party Into Freezing Water of Lake Ontario.

HEROIC EFFORT TO SAVE THE WOMEN

Benumbed With Cold One Releases Her Grip on Overturned Boat and Drowns—Boat Righted and Party Reaches Land.

George S. Humphrey of Race street, Allegheny, is at Wilson, N. Y., recovering from the effects of a boating accident. Last Wednesday Humphrey, Henry Loftus of Westerville, Franklin county, O., Miss Edith Kennedy of Toronto, Ont., and Miss Grace Bonham of Hamilton, Ont., tried to sail up the lake from Youngstown to Olcott in a small sailboat. When they were opposite Wilson, N. Y., and within sight of the American shore, a squall came up and overturned the boat. The occupants were precipitated into the icy water and only the two men could swim.

Humphrey and Loftus, each with one hand holding to the capsized boat, held fast to the young women. All four were quite heavily clad with long coats, and it was with difficulty that they kept their heads above the water. With a good deal of labor Humphrey managed to untangle part of a sail rope and with this tied Miss Kennedy to the boat, which was on its side and not completely upside down.

Miss Bonham Drowns.

Miss Bonham became benumbed with cold and let go. She sank before she could again be reached by the young men, who had left the place where she was clinging in order to make Miss Kennedy's position safe and as comfortable as possible. Miss Bonham had hung on for two hours before letting go. If she could have held fast for another hour she would have been saved.

After Miss Kennedy was tied to the boat an effort was made to cut away the sail and separate the mast from the craft. With a heavy sea to contend with and with hands and bodies so cold and wet that they could hardly move, the job was exceedingly difficult. The mast was finally released, and with its weight taken from the side the men managed to turn the boat back to its correct position.

While doing this Miss Kennedy narrowly escaped drowning. When the craft was turned back to an upright position she was let down into the water. She did not lose consciousness, however, but did much to help herself. She was the first to get into the boat, which was two-thirds full of water. A pair of oars, which was in the bottom of the boat when the party left Youngstown, was not lost. This proved very fortunate for the survivors.

Used Hats for Bailers.

It was also fortunate that Loftus and Humphrey did not become separated from their derby hats while they were in the water. Without these it would have been impossible for them to have bailed the water out of the boat. Part of this work had to be done before both men could get into the boat, as it was almost waterlogged.

It was late at night before the trio finally struck land. The lights in the homes and on the streets of Wilson guided them to terra firma. They made a landing half a mile from the town. More dead than alive they managed to get to the home of George Clifford, which is near the lake shore.

The Cliffords are farmers. When the door opened they were confronted by three dripping, shivering strangers. The wet garments were hustled off their bodies and they were put in warm beds and fed on hot ginger tea. They are still at the home of the Cliffords, and it is probable that they will remain there for several days, as none of them is in a condition to leave.

Humphrey and Loftus are traveling men. They became acquainted with the two young women recently at the Pan-American exposition and met them at Youngstown by appointment. Miss Bonham was the daughter of a farmer who resides four miles west of Hamilton between that city and a small town called Dundas. The three survivors are out of danger.

QUIET AT MADISONVILLE.

Federal Officers Serve Order Forbidding Intimidations on Striking Miners.

EARLINGTON, KY., Nov. 15.—United States Marshal Larue arrived at Madisonville today and is looking for the officers and members of the United Mine Workers of America for the purpose of serving the federal court order against assembling in camps or gatherings for the purpose of intimidation.

Most of the leading district officials of the union are still absent attending the state meeting of the Federation of Labor at Lexington. The union camps are being closely patrolled and visitors were excluded. Fewer men are reported at the Nortonville camp than for several days, but at the Madisonville camp there are a number of men.

If any decision has been reached by the governor as to sending troops it cannot be learned. Everything was quiet last night and all the mines are being worked today.

HIGGINS OIL RECEIVERSHIP.

An Auditor to Look After Plaintiff's Interests in Texas Case.

BEAUMONT, TEX., Nov. 15—(Special.)—While official announcement of this will probably not be made before the 28th inst. it is reported that the auditor for the receivership case of Annie E. Snow et al. vs. the Higgins Oil & Fuel Company et al. has been decided upon. It is said E. C. Weiss of Beaumont has been slated for that position. The receivership is in a modified form and provides for an auditor to check up and look after the plaintiff's interests. Had it been granted in the straight receivership form, one man would have had every one's interest in hand and the larger companies would have suffered a great deal on account of the competitive and conflicting interests.

The suit asked for a receivership for the Veatch survey, which contains nearly all the oil gusheers.

STRIKE ON AT UNION STATION

USE OF NON-UNION LABOR SENDS 150 MEN OUT

Stone, Tile and Marble Setters, Painters, Decorators and Electricians Lay Down Their Tools Because Workmen on the Trainshed Are Not Organized—Several Affiliated Trades Indorse the Action.

The trouble at the new Union station over the attempt to put up the big trainshed with non-union labor assumed a threatening phase yesterday. The matter was taken up by the building trades council and about 150 men employed on the interior of the station stopped work.

They included the stone, mosaic tile and marble setters, the painters and decorators, the electricians and the helpers of all these classes. Today it is expected that the remainder of the 500 men employed on the work in and about the station will strike unless the matter is settled at once.

The cause of the trouble is the arrival of non-union men from other cities to work for Andrew Brant, the contractor for the Pennsylvania Railroad Company on the trainshed work. Brant was defeated in a similar strike on the Fort Wayne approaches to the station, the company turning the work over to the American Bridge Company to finish with union men.

The men hint at trouble unless similar action is taken in this case. In the meantime the approaches to the Pennsylvania trains from the station are torn up, and there is no protection from inclement weather. The structural iron workers, metal men and several other of the affiliated trades met last night in the Wylie avenue hall and indorsed the strike. Business Agent George Boyd was present. It was decided that none of their trades would work with non-union men in any part of the city.

THE ORCHESTRA CONCERT.

New Music Proves Very Popular, and Soloist Jean Gerardy Scores a Great Success.

A fine audience was present at Carnegie hall last night to listen to the second orchestra concert of the season. The hall presented an appearance but little less brilliant than on the opening night, and a notable increase over the crowds of last year, indicated an enlarged subscription list.

The program was a novel one, presenting several pieces entirely new to Pittsburgh. Of these the most popular proved to be Tsaichowsky's fairy suite, "The Sleeping Beauty in the Wood," modeled on the fairy tale from Andrew Lang's Blue Fairy Book.

The closing number was "Marche Joyeuse," by Chabrier. It is very French in spirit and very noisy in orchestration.

Jean Gerardy, the soloist of the evening, proved himself all that anticipatory notices had painted him, and a little more.

His first number was a concerto by Lalo, with fire and enthusiasm, and later a Bach aria with inimitable grace. "Am Springbrunnen" illustrated his command of the technique of his instrument admirably, and to an insistent encore he rendered a dainty little composition of Herbert's, to which the genial conductor played the piano accompaniment.

The program, interesting, because of its novelty, proved a very popular one, and brought forth many compliments from the audience. It will be repeated this afternoon, with Monsieur Gerardy as soloist.

LEGALITY IS DOUBTFUL.

Polish Boy From Schoenville Sent to Jail for Ten Days—A Pitiable Case.

According to the law passed by the last legislature, John Novak, a Polish boy, of Schoenville, is out of the jurisdiction of police. This fact, however, did not deter Justice Nicholson of Esplen from committing the boy to jail last night for 10 days. He was caught in the Lake Erie yards, near Schoenville, picking coal with which to give warmth to a cheerless home.

The boy was in a pitiable condition when brought to the jail, having no coat and scant clothing of any kind to protect him. Deputy Warden John McNeill was astounded when the constable came in with the boy. The lad was put in a cell to begin his 10-day service.

Deputy Warden McNeill stated that he was aware of a law prohibiting the sending of youths to jail under the age of 14, but that the case pertained to Squire Nicholson and the courts. The boy's father had his foot taken off three weeks ago and has been unable to work; the mother has been sick for some time, and yesterday morning the attending physician said her case was a hopeless one and that his services would not be required again.

Some time in the forenoon John went out to gather some coal with which to light a fire, and while on the tracks was arrested by a Lake Erie policeman. A charge of trespass was made against him, and Squire Nicholson sent him to jail for 10 days.

The Business Situation.

The manner in which the volume of trade is maintained is certainly surprising. Presumably profits are also good, although there is no way of measuring these. Ever since last August, when the government crop report indicated the smallest yield of corn for years, there has been a feeling that business had passed the floodtide. This feeling was strengthened when subsequent reports not only confirmed the shortage of corn, but showed that the yield of other important crops was below the average. The rushing of grain and livestock to market, in order to realize profits and avoid the expense of carrying through the winter, helped to swell railroad earnings during September, but no one was optimistic enough to predict that such earnings could be maintained.

Another factor which encouraged the view that the ebb had begun was the change which took place in our foreign commerce. There was a falling off in exports and an increase in imports of merchandise, and the balance of trade, while still favorable, was not so large as earlier in the year. The expansion in bank loans and the shifting of the international financial current foreshadowed higher rates of discount, which would have a tendency to check new enterprises and delay the settlement of railroad deals which were thought to be essential to the continued prosperity of the transportation interests.

Experience had taught that these were infallible signs of a reaction in finance and trade, and hence the general feeling that the past gait could not be maintained. But all the commercial reports of the past two weeks show no evidence of a let-up. On the contrary, bank exchanges and railway traffic returns continue to show gains over the best records for any corresponding period in previous years. Forty-odd roads which have reported earnings for the first week in November show a gain of about 11 per cent. Sales of wool have been the largest of the year. Orders for steel rails continue to pour in upon the manufacturers. The only instances where there has been a decrease in production and distribution have been due to the inability of the railroads to furnish cars and motive power to move the freight offered. The situation is almost without a parallel, considering what has gone before.

The only important developments in financial circles were the revival of activity and strength in the stock market and the heavy exports of gold. The latter aggregated $4,600,000 for the week. The movement is altogether out of the ordinary at this season. Thus far there has been no adequate explanation for it.

Europe usually sends us gold during the latter part of the year in payment of cotton and grain, and while the exports of these have been liberal, the effect has evidently been offset by operations, the real character of which is not yet apparent. While the situation thus defies precedent, the conservative feeling referred to acts as a safeguard against any wild speculation such as was witnessed last May, and also tends to check any disposition to overtrade.

Population in the West.

The discussions by the members of the general missionary committee of the Methodist Episcopal church, now in session in Pittsburgh, throw a great deal of light on the population of the west and conditions of life in some of the distant commonwealths. The census reports have given statistics from these states and territories, but the reports from the bishops who have lately been among the people of whom they speak have virility and freshness that come from actual contact with the life of the communities.

It is interesting to learn from Bishop McCabe, for example, that Nevada is not losing its population, but pathetic to hear that the people cannot support their ministers. He says the preachers are nearly starved, and that hod-carriers in Pittsburgh would strike if they had to live on the salaries of Nevada clergymen. A side-light on the scarcity of ministers in that state was thrown by the statement that in two towns the bishop visited there was no minister of any denomination, and that funeral services were conducted by young women who had belonged to the Epworth league. Although there are so few ministers in the state, their work has driven lawlessness from the mining camps and established order.

Bishop Goodsell acknowledged that the population of Arizona was declining, but Bishop McCabe said that many new towns were springing up. In this territory there seems to be a considerable shifting of population, due to the discovery of mines in fresh localities.

Oklahoma has had the largest influx of new residents. Bishop Hamilton says that 150,000 people have lately poured into that territory. Towns spring up with marvelous rapidity and the organization of counties is progressing apace. The denominations find it exceedingly difficult to keep up with the march of pioneers into Oklahoma, but the present is the very best time to select sites for churches and to organize congregations.

The Great Show in Town.

It is pleasing to learn that the fat stock show that opened yesterday at the Central stock yards is the best that has been held in Pittsburgh. It shows that interest in such exhibits is growing. Pittsburgh is one of the best markets on earth for the juicy sirloin and porterhouse and the many and various products of beef, veal, mutton, lamb and pork. In these things our citizens confess large and abiding joy that finds free expression in liberal purchases. But there has been less concern about beefsteaks, veal cutlets, lamb chops and pork tenderloins and sausages on the hoof. Pittsburghers have always had a more intimate acquaintance with pig iron than with live pig or any other raw material of the stockraiser, withholding their enthusiasm for the manufactured product, ready for the kitchen, or its higher development hot from the kitchen range and the ministrations of the cook. But tastes are broadening now, and there must be a growing interest in prime live stock when people come hundreds of miles to exhibit and to see, and when the Central stock yards are made gay for the occasion with flags and bunting. We welcome the stockmen. They are our friends. They make and contrive for our physical comfort and well-being and we are glad to reciprocate by making them sharers in our prosperity.

The Dirt Nuisance in Court.

Pittsburgh's material well-being is based entirely on the productiveness and prosperity of its mills and furnaces. Smoke is inseparable from the operation of these enterprises, and dirt and grime are unavoidable consequences. Our citizens understand the situation and are slow to complain. Should our mills close and our furnaces cease to refine ore our last state would be worse than the present. The properties now distressed by soot particles and ore dust would no longer suffer from these causes but from being damaged by them would pass on to the ruin that unfailingly overtakes homes from which the tenant has departed. For this there could be no redress. But it is not in human nature to submit to the avoidable or sit down under conditions that may be rendered more tolerable. If the business of mill or furnace can be carried on successfully with less waste from the stack to annoy the homemaker and housekeeper it is a matter of public concern that the remedy be sought and applied. The suits brought in common pleas No. 2 by the Real Estate Construction Company and by G. P. Ecker will doubtless develop and determine whether the existing ills of the Oakland district may be cured. The outcome will be awaited with interest, not to say anxiety, as there is much at stake on each side.

A Worthy Charity.

The appeal in behalf of the industrial home at Oakdale merits the attention of all who are interested in efforts to make useful citizens out of boys who have been thrown upon the charity of the community or have been the victims of cruel circumstances. The managers of the Oakdale home need $10,000 to carry on their work by the addition and equipment of an industrial department, and in order to secure that sum they have appealed to the public for aid.

Such institutions as that proposed have passed beyond the experimental stage, and are now recognized as a great power for good. It is the intention of those in charge at Oakdale to care for orphan boys of respectable parentage, boys rescued from unworthy parents or guardians, and boys not yet criminals, but who will become such if left in their present surroundings, the object being to bring them under Christian influences, teach them self-support and train them to lead lives of usefulness. When there are so many evil influences besetting the youth of the land any effort to save them and lead them in the way of good citizenship deserves moral and financial encouragement, and, therefore, there should be prompt and sufficient response to the appeal that comes from the management of the Oakdale home. Look out for the boys, and the men will look out for themselves.

Pennsylvania Is Wise.

Because Pennsylvania refused to go Democratic a Boston Democratic paper declares that the people of the Keystone state are "joined to their idols." Without referring to the Massachusetts vote in any way, and sticking closely to the text supplied by our Boston contemporary, it may be enough to reply that the voters of Pennsylvania have been taught wisdom and have learned its lessons. They have been through Democratic experiences that they have not forgotten and are in consequence firmly convinced that it is much better to be joined to their idols than to idleness.

The Season of Fires.

The season marked by the rekindling of fires in the homes is also the season when much property is consumed by flames. There has long been a thorough established connection between cold weather and the devouring element, and the record of fires thus far this autumn shows that the relationship is being maintained. Every day the newspapers contain reports of fires, both at home and abroad, in which the property losses are as a rule heavy, and often attended with loss of human life.

Much of this destruction is due to carelessness or lack of vigilance after the long period of disuse of fireplaces, stoves and furnaces. Fires are rekindled without removal of soot from pipes and flues, without examination of gas connections for possible leaks, and without the exercise of precautions as to surroundings; stoves are allowed to become overheated, and the stuffing in chimneys is forgotten. The result of this lack of ordinary care is seen in destroyed homes, stores, and frequently in the sweeping away of a large portion of a town. Were the heating appliances subjected to proper examination before again being brought into use there would be a decided reduction in the number of destructive fires.

We publish this morning a communication from our esteemed friend, Capt. Dravo, which makes some strictures upon the attitude of the press as regards the river trade. The Gazette is particularly exposed to the brunt of his criticism from the active part it took in opposing the project for raising the Allegheny river bridges. As regards this it suffices to say that the Gazette considers the interests of the community as a whole, and from that point of view it finds reasons for congratulation that the bridge raising project was defeated. The Gazette is and has always been diligent in service to the river trade as tributary to Pittsburgh, but to obstruct and oppress all land traffic to provide unnecessary accommodations to river traffic would be an injustice to the community and would thus react upon the prosperity of the river trade in whose supposed interest the scheme was advocated.

From the bankruptcy statement published in London, paying his debts does not seem to have been included as one of the Marquis of Queensbury's rules.

If Miss Jane Toppan resembles the pictures of her that are being published in the papers her chances for proving an alibi are exceedingly small.

Mayor-elect Low of New York talks like a man who feels pretty confident that he is able to play a lone hand and win all the points.

Now that Denmark seems disposed to make a bargain-day sale of those islands, Uncle Sam had better get in the rush.

Mr. Bryan continues to insist that obscurity is not a necessary qualification for the nominee of the Democratic party in 1904.

Mr. Carnegie finds time amid his big acts of philanthropy to slip in an organ or a library occasionally.

What the governor of Indiana said to the governor of Kentucky was not convivial at any rate.

The shooting stars are not very reliable in playing their return dates.

The prospect is that Thanksgiving will not be wholly a winterless affair.

Ancient Writings Found.

From Current Literature.

During the late renovation of the Omsjaden Mosque at Damascus a discovery was made of several important ancient manuscripts. The writer, a German scholar, had the opportunity of a short inspection of a few of the documents, chiefly Hebrew and early Christian. The Mohammedan clergy who serve the mosque, as soon as they learned that these treasures were likely to be examined in the interests of western science, ordered that the manuscripts should be restored to the tower in which they were found, and there walled up with strong masonry. There is some hope, according to the writer, that an appeal to the Turkish government may induce it to intervene with these barbarous custodians and make the documents accessible to duly accredited scholars.

No White House for Watterson.

From the Louisville Courier-Journal.

In truth, the White House is no place to live in. At best it is but a splendid misery. Redolent of tragic memories, it is a veritable haunted house. Long, long ago it should have been converted into an administrative office, and a dwelling erected somewhere else for the use of the president and his family. One can scarcely think of it without seeing ghosts. They stalk through its darkened corridors by night. In the noonday sun they hide among its nooks and corners, the place brooding and the spirit daunting. Men grow old in the White House before their time.

BROADWAY BLACK AND YELLOW WITH COLLEGE BOYS.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Herald Building, Herald Square.
NEW YORK, NOV. 15.

Broadway is yellow and black tonight. Princeton is here in force, and the colors of old Nassau are to be seen pinned to the bosoms of hundreds of sturdy young men and on the bodices of scores of dainty young women. The big football contest with Yale is scheduled for tomorrow in New Haven. Princeton men have said that they will not eat, drink or sleep in New Haven this year, and New York has them tonight. They were too excited to remain in Princeton. Even if it would have been convenient to start for the battleground from their own city tomorrow morning in time to meet Yale on the gridiron it would have been much duller there than in Broadway. The actual players are not in evidence. Their trainer takes care of that. But there is no reason why their supporters should not take in the town, and they are doing it in good, old-fashioned university style. Every theater has its squad of young fellows displaying the tiger colors, while in the boxes are plenty of sisters, cousins and sweethearts, demurely dividing their attention between the stage and the "boys" in front, and all wearing college pins or streaming ribbons bearing the same tawny and black stripes that have made this a Princeton town for the time being. There is no boisterousness that could be called such. That may come tomorrow evening. The game will have been lost and won by that time, and the world will know whether the Yale blue or the Princeton black-and-yellow has triumphed. It is the intention of the Princeton cohorts to leave New Haven as soon as the referee's decision is hurled across the field, without waiting for any hospitality in the City of Elms. They will take dinner on the special train and reach New York in time for the fun in the evening. It will make little difference to them which side wins. There will be the theaters, the electric lights, the smart restaurants, the promenaders on Broadway, and all the rest of the attractions that the white light district offers to the flower of American youth, whether it comes from Princeton, Yale, Pennsylvania, Harvard, Cornell, or any other of the classical temples whose names are household words. Tonight's demonstration is only a preliminary canter.

A Ballot Machine Legal Complication.

There was an unusual post-election dispute here today. In one of the Brooklyn districts a voting machine was used and it seemed to work successfully. The dispute today was over the ownership of the apparatus. According to the law, all ballots should be kept for six months after election so that if any disputes should arise in that period the court can order that the ballots shall be recounted. On this ground the election board refused to give up the machine. The company owning the contrivance tell the court they lent it to the people of the district for election day only, and they expected it to be returned. The court took the view of the owners of the machine and ordered that it be returned. If there should be a dispute in that particular district it will have to be settled without the aid of the voting machine.

Verdict Too Small to Please Justice.

In contradistinction to the opinion expressed by a Brooklyn judge two or three years ago, that a child's life was not worth more than $1, Justice O'Gorman in the supreme court today set aside a verdict which gave $500 damages for the death of a 5-year-old boy by being run down by a car of the Metropolitan Railway Company. The justice said the "verdict is perverse and the damages arbitrarily and capriciously fixed at such a low figure as to shock the moral sense." So he ordered a new trial at the company's expense and would not grant its counsel time to appeal against the granting of a new trial.

Governor and Mayor-Elect Chummy.

Gov. Odell is a great deal in this city just now. Mayor-elect Low and he are great friends, and they have many consultations on the future municipal administration. The governor attended the dinner at the Metropolitan club tonight given in his honor by a number of gentlemen not in politics, prominent among whom was J. W. Alexander. He will go back to Newburg tomorrow morning. He would not talk about municipal politics while here, but that [illegible] expected.

Mayor-Elect Low Independent.

Part of the agony of officeseeking in this city is over at all events. When Mayor-Elect Low announced today that he had appointed George L. Rives to be corporation counsel, and that Mr. Rives had accepted the office, a great strain was removed. It was generally believed that the position would be tendered to District Attorney Philbin. Mr. Low has his own ideas about public offices, however, and it looks as if he means to adhere strictly to the course he laid down in his letter of acceptance of appointing to office men that are fit for the particular positions under consideration. He may not have liked Philbin less, but certainly he seems to have loved Rives more.

Gathmann Gun a Disappointment.

The big Gathmann gun went off today. The weather conditions were satisfactory at last, and there was nothing to prevent the discharge of the immense "barker." It sent forth a projectile 18 inches in diameter and six feet in length containing a charge of 500 pounds of wet gun-cotton, the whole, including the shell, weighing 1,850 pounds. It was expected that the shell would knock the target to smithereens, but it did not. The gun is a good one, but it does not seem able to carry out its inventor's expectation of disabling any battleship in existence at 3,500 yards. It is not supposed that the test of today is to be conclusive, but it is good to know that the gun was discharged after so much annoying delay. It will be remembered that there were a number of schooners anchored off Sandy Hook in such a position that it would be unsafe to discharge the guns. The wind shifted today, the schooners got out of the way, and away went the gun.

White Wings Out of a Job.

Percy Nagle, the street cleaning commissioner, whose request for some thousands of dollars for his department was sat down upon the other day, was bound to get even with somebody. He has discharged 500 of his street sweepers, and there is weeping and wailing among the white wings. Nagle said he had not money to pay their wages, and that there was no work for them anyhow. He got them to sign a release from the city, so that there should not be suits for damages. His principal reliance on their quiet acceptance of the discharge, however, was based on their hope of being engaged by the new street cleaning commissioner, whoever he may be. It will be natural for the new man to prefer to have laborers who know the business, and it is supposed that the whole 500 men will be engaged as soon as the new administration has taken charge. In the meantime they will be out of employment at an uncomfortable time—in the Thanksgiving and Christmas holidays.

A Test Case on Ticket Speculation.

Two theater ticket speculators were sent to Blackwells island today. They were convicted of violating the law by selling tickets in front of the Manhattan theater, where Mrs. Fiske is playing in "Miranda of the Balcony." The men were fined, but they refused to pay under advice of counsel, the purpose being to make a test case of it. There has been a continuous controversy on the rights of speculators for several years, and this test case is a good thing for both sides. Ticket speculators pay a license fee, and have always insisted that they have a right to ply their calling, whether the managers or public like it or not. There have been charges that the theater managers were in collusion with the speculators, and the indignant denials of both sides has not removed the suspicion. One thing is certain, and that is that the ticket speculators are a great nuisance to persons visiting theaters in this city.

Snow Flurries in Sight.

Snow is expected in New York city before morning. The official weather prophets say that there will be snow flurries, most likely, with freezing temperature tomorrow. New York has had nearly two months of beautiful weather and the threat of a few snow flurries and a day or two of frost does not frighten us in the least. We are surfeited with balmy breezes and warm sunshine.

The Glassy Stare Explained.

The startling assertion is made, on what is said to be good authority, that there are 12,000 artificial eyes worn in New York city. For the whole country, the number of artificial eye wearers is placed at 240,000. The retail price for eyes ranges from $5 to $15. The number of eyes of glass worn in this city may account for the fixed and glassy stare so common in street cars on the "L" and in ferryboats. It has been remarked by many visitors to this city that New Yorkers can tell one with a vacant gaze for many minutes at a time with an industry and steady purpose that is seldom seen away from Piccadilly on a fine afternoon. In Piccadilly it is easy to account for the stare. The heavy swells there usually have a monocle glued into one of their eye sockets. In New York no one could explain the habit on any other ground than vacancy of mind. But it seems now that it is on account of the fact that 12,000 of us wear a glass eye apiece.

Actors' Hotel No More.

The Aulic, the famous actors' hotel, is nothing but a heap of rubbish tonight. A week ago the house was doing business as a house of entertainment for "man and beast," as one actor expressed it, explaining that by "beast" he meant the vaudevillian. Today it passed away in a cloud of lime dust, and there is no place on the corner for the actor to pose. No wonder Dan Daly, at the Herald Square theater, across the street, says that he cannot sing any because his throat is coated with mortar.

Carnegies' Daily Afternoon Walk.

Andrew Carnegie is remaining quietly at his home in West Fifty-first street this week. He is not seen outside much, and is not taking part in public functions to any extent. He seems to be glad to be in his own cosy library, after his traveling and hard work of last week, and he will not allow himself to be seen except by intimates. He has a way of taking a constitutional nearly every afternoon, and he does it in the humdrum-like manner he carries out all tasks he may set himself. With Mrs. Carnegie, he steps out of his front door and goes around the corner to Fifth avenue. Then he steps out briskly, with Mrs. Carnegie by his side, and they walk up to a point somewhere in the sixties. Then, turning around, they come back at the same healthful pace. There is no sauntering for them. They evidently enjoy the walk for its own sake, and they are not disposed to spoil it by dawdling. A great many persons recognize and bow to Mr. Carnegie, and he returns every salutation in the cordial manner characteristic of him. The chances are he does not know 10 per cent of people he meets, but that makes no difference in the pleasant response of his response to their bow. It does not take Mr. and Mrs. Carnegie long to walk up to about Sixty-sixth street and back, and when they return to their home in Fifty-first street both look as if they could do it several times over if necessary. This is about the only time Mr. Carnegie is seen walking, although he goes here and there in a carriage whenever there is anything to claim his attention, as the busy man that he is, notwithstanding that he is supposed to have retired from active business as represented by manufacture and commerce.

The President Socially.

From the Waterbury (Conn.) American.

We have never had a president like Roosevelt before. This is said often and is true in several respects. It is especially true socially. He knows so many people in other than a political way. There is almost no part of the country where he cannot go and find friends other than political ones. If he goes on a hunting expedition in the far west he finds college mates to entertain him. If he comes to Farmington he finds relatives. If he stops at New Haven he falls into a group which includes a Rough Rider or two. When he comes over to New York he puts up with his own people, and after dinner goes to the Century club and spends an evening, as any member might. What other president have we had who was at home everywhere in such associations as these? Mr. McKinley, as the result of a public experience of 25 years, knew men in all parts of the country, but they were mostly politicians and statesmen. If he went anywhere he was entertained with more or less state stiffness and had little of the freedom of the private citizen. There is no president we have ever had who everywhere could get the hospitality which is extended to the man and not the president, who, therefore, could enjoy more or less social privacy and could conceal himself from the exposure to which a president is subjected, as President Roosevelt can.

For the first time we were married Wednesday. We have contemplated this step for a long time, but lack of funds has always prevented, until we finally decided to get married and trust to Providence for the rest. The subscription rates of the Record will remain at the same price. Only the immediate relatives were present at the ceremony. Our views on the money question will remain the same, only we need more of it.—Muscotah Record.

The people of Pittsburgh, by a majority of nearly 30,000 at the recent election, declared that the ripper bill was no bad thing. Their action at the polls proved the assertion of the friends of the new charter that such legislation was demanded by a large majority of her people. If Pittsburgh is satisfied, and regards the new charter as a bill of rights which relieves them from political thraldom, why should outsiders blubber about it and call it an outrage?—Punxsutawney Spirit.

The city girls can now go away back and sit down. At a meeting of the Crescent Literary society of the Rochester high school, held Friday afternoon, the question—"Resolved, That Country Girls Make Better Wives Than City Girls," was debated by Miss Ethel Carey and Miss Amalia Brobeck, the former affirming and the latter denying the proposition. The judges, in the persons of James Fleming, William Jackson and William Thomas, decided the affirmative had the best of the argument.—Beaver Falls Review.

While cleaning out the cellar of the Spirit office last week W. F. Brady of this place found a full grown cat completely mummified. So perfectly had it retained its form and features that any beholder might fancy it was one of the sacred cats resurrected from the ancient Egyptian tombs of the fourth dynasty, under Snofru and Menkara. But the more probable theory is that it was simply the traditional "office cat," which died of indigestion after disposing of some anonymous contributions. Mr. Brady gave the mummy a decent burial and should any dime museum fakir want a relic that he can easily palm off as having been found in the tomb of Menkara, he can possibly secure it from Mr. Brady on reasonable terms.—Punxsutawney Spirit.

Artificial Light and Fuel Gas.

From the Greensburg Press.

An industrial problem of great importance to Westmoreland county has been solved at Irwin. Pittsburgh moneyed men have discovered that an excellent quality of gas can be made from slack coal. The tests have been going on for six weeks, and the fondest hopes have been realized. It has been proven that a good gas for commercial and manufacturing purposes can be made and that too at a less expense than for what natural gas can be piped from any of the big fields of Western Pennsylvania. The discovery opens up a brilliant future for industries in Westmoreland county. It means that a plant may be located near a mine and the slack that is ordinarily sold for a mere nothing can be utilized with profit. With the waning supply of natural gas throughout this district the successful experiments are all the more opportune. Westmoreland has hundreds of mines near which similar gas plants may be built and the poorest grade of the coal may be transferred to the hoppers of the gas plants without a single cent of expenditure for freight. It is claimed exceedingly low prices can be quoted for gas for manufacturing purposes, and the possibilities of Westmoreland as one of the greatest industrial centers of the United States are unlimited.

THE SUNDAY GAZETTE.

All Pronounce the First Issue Good, but the Second Will Be Better.

Blairsville's reception of the Sunday edition of The Pittsburgh Gazette was enthusiastic. All who saw it at once declared that the "old ladies" competitors must get a move on if they are to stay in the ring. The first issue was really a magnificent one. It was full to overflowing with general and local news, excellent literary features, handsome illustrations and special features that none of the others had. The owners of The Gazette have set a high standard for themselves and if they succeed in getting out an edition that will compare favorably with this first attempt it will be a huge task, but one which the newspaper reading public will appreciate and reward with generous patronage.—Blairsville Courier.

The oldest newspaper in the city of Pittsburgh has resumed the name of The Pittsburgh Gazette. Established in 1786 under that designation, and consolidated in 1877 with the Commercial, the Commercial Gazette now becomes The Gazette again.—Venago Citizen-Press.

One of the best newspapers in Pennsylvania is The Pittsburgh Gazette. It was founded 113 years ago and is a pioneer in American journalism. It has improved with age and today has a magnificent plant, the respect and confidence of the public and a growing circulation. The Gazette is ably edited, prosperous and progressive. It fully deserved its good fortune.—Bradford Era.

The Pittsburgh Commercial-Gazette has dropped its hyphenated cognomen and will appear hereafter under its old name of The Gazette. It has also commenced the publication of a Sunday edition, which is a model in every way and a credit to all engaged in its preparation. The Gazette was founded 116 years ago, but it long since learned that the fundamental principle of success was in always keeping abreast of the times. It has a newspaper plant second to none in the country, and it has ever been recognized as among the foremost journals of Pennsylvania. The Gazette has maintained the confidence of the people for over a century by always thoroughly deserving it and its prosperity constitutes a wonderful tribute to able and intelligent management and steadfast devotion to what it knows to be right.—Oil City Derrick.

The first number of The Pittsburgh Gazette's Sunday edition reached our desk on Monday morning. We doff our hat to The Gazette and its management, for they are entitled to great praise. It is truly a twentieth-century newspaper, and the issuing of a Sunday paper places it in the front ranks of Pennsylvania newspapers. It has done away with the hyphenated name, which is another step forward. The Gazette is newsy, carefully edited and is replete with real literary worth. Like all Sunday newspapers it is replete with good illustrations and also has the customary pages of humorous matter with brightly colored engravings. The Gazette has now come what all large papers have found to be an absolute necessity, the issuing of a Sunday paper. Success to the old Gazette in new form, may it continue to grow and wax fat.—Meyersdale Republican.

The Pittsburgh Gazette issued its first Sunday edition last Sunday and it was superb in every respect. Of course it has the colored supplement, or art supplement, but it is indeed a work of art compared with the usual dash of colors that passes for an art (?) supplement with Sunday papers. The Gazette was established in 1786 by John Scull and has been issued regularly ever since. It supported George Washington for the presidency and has not deviated from its early line of policy. It is a great paper, systematically and successfully managed and its projectors and managers may well feel proud of the success they have attained.—Oakdale Times.

The veteran newspaper of Pittsburgh, known in recent years as the Commercial-Gazette, on Saturday evening last celebrated its installation in the magnificent new building erected for its use, and on this occasion resumed its original name, The Pittsburgh Gazette, discarding the prefix adopted in 1877 on its consolidation with the Pittsburgh Commercial. Since it came under the present management this sterling newspaper has been vastly improved in every department, and now upon occupying its new edifice it is possessed of one of the very finest and best newspaper equipments in the country. A Sunday edition hereafter be published by The Gazette.—Butler County Record.

The "Devil's Own."

From the St. James Gazette.

Who is the patron saint of lawyers? Is a question that might pertinently be asked on a day when both bench and bar attend their devotions prior to the opening of the law courts. According to one old story a famous Brittany lawyer once appealed to Rome for the appointment of a saint. The pope proposed that he should go around a certain church blindfolded, and lay hold of the saint nearest to him. Following this suggestion he stopped and grasped a certain figure, crying: "This is our patron saint!" When the bandage was removed from his eyes he found that, though he had stopped before the altar of St. Michael, to his horror he had laid hold first of St. Michael, but of the figure under St. Michael's feet, the devil! Hence, of course, the nickname of the Isle of Court Volunteers, the "Devil's Own."

PERSONAL.

C. O. Malone, vice president of the Ione Sicné Company of Cleveland is the Monongahela house. "Our business," said Mr. Malone last evening, "never was better than it has been for the past two years. We have been shipping our material to all parts of the United States and have been unable to fill all of our orders. The stone for the new annex of the Charleston (W. Va.) state house and the Martinsville court house and college buildings has been furnished by us. We have just closed a contract for Judge Goff's hotel in Clarksburg, W. Va., which will be one of the finest buildings in the west when finished. Judge Goff will spend a half million on this hotel, which will be constructed of stone throughout. Our firm is furnishing the stone for many Pennsylvania skyscrapers, churches and colleges. In Waterloo, Pa., we are furnishing the stone for the new court house and university buildings, and at Trenton, N. J., the stone for the new public building is being sent from our quarries. Our firm has just closed a contract to furnish the stone for the West Baden Springs hotel in Indiana, which when completed will be one of the finest hotels in the world. We have also large marble quarries in South Dover, New York, and ship our marble to all points in the country."

Simon O'Donnell, general manager of the Pittsburgh stock yards in East Liberty, visited all the leading hotels last night, to engage rooms for the delegates to the cattle show. He said: "There are a thousand delegates coming to the show, and I am trying to get accommodations for them. They come from points east and west of the Mississippi valley, as well as from the granite states of New England. We have in progress the greatest cattle show ever held in the United States, and it is attracting cattlemen from all over the country. The exhibit of different breeds of cattle, hogs and sheep has never been surpassed in any country."

S. Harrison, an engraver of bank notes, whose residence is in London, England, was a passenger on the limited last night. It is his first trip to America, and he was charmed with the scenery on the Pennsylvania railroad. "We have nothing like it in England," he said, "but I expect to be much more surprised before I reach the coast. Conditions in South Africa are to be deplored, and it is a shame that the common people of England are being killed off in fighting there for a few politicians."

G. S. Back of Youngstown, contractor of wood and mill work, is registered at the Griswold. "We have been putting in the false work at the Fort Wayne bridge. The raising of this railroad bridge will be one of the greatest feats in the history of engineering. We are now engaged in putting in the frame work for the Rochester-Pittsburgh bridge, and expect to complete the work this winter. Our firm is also putting in the frame work for the Oliver but and bolt works on the South Side."

Ewing C. Searight, a member of the well-known Democratic family of Uniontown, is registered at the Griswold. He is in the city attending the session of the United States court. He is interested in placing a history of the old National pike, its incidents, accidents and anecdotes

CROWDS VISIT FAT STOCK SHOW

Cold Weather Does Not Affect Enthusiasm of Stockmen and Visitors.

TWO HUNDRED CARLOADS ON EXHIBITION

Exhibits Were Slow in Arriving, and Far Western Contingent Arrived First — Many Old Prize Winners Now On Hand.

The East Liberty Central stock yards presented a lively scene yesterday morning, when the third annual fat stock show was opened. The show has become an event of importance among stockmen and drovers the country over, and the crowd present yesterday morning included representatives from almost every county within 200 miles of Pittsburgh.

The yards had been prettily decorated for the occasion, bunting and flags being draped over the stalls in which the exhibits are placed. There was considerable delay yesterday in the arrival of the stock and the stalls were mostly empty. Last night, however, the bulk of the animals arrived and were housed in their stalls.

The exhibitors from the far west had their stock on hand first, and when the show opened about 30 carloads of cattle and many cars of sheep and hogs had already been placed. The exhibits are the finest yet shown in this city, and indications are that the show this year will be far above those of the two previous seasons.

The hotels in the East End are already filled with the visitors, and the late comers will be forced to come down town for accommodations. Yesterday's crowd, in spite of the cold weather, was larger than ever before, and the visiting stockmen, after looking over the exhibits already installed, circulated among the offices of the commission men, which had been decorated and prepared for the accommodation of the visiting throngs.

To Receive the Visitors.

The reception committee numbers 70 members, and is composed as follows: Elliott McCall chairman, A. H. Neadhamer, J. H. Conrad, S. W. Jeffries, J. M. Devo, Jack Newburn, Michael Joyce, C. H. Lauer, C. H. Baumgardner, William Hazlewood, Robert Reineker, W. H. Wood, Wesley Beck, Philip J. Brinkman, H. W. Parker, A. B. Tolin, James T. Ewing, E. J. Ryan, Ira F. Brainard, S. Redsecker, Edward Brainard, Charles Schmitz and Robert Phillips.

The exhibition will continue today and Monday it will be at its height. The day will be known as Pittsburgh day, and if the elements are favorable it is expected that a crowd of almost 25,000 persons will visit the show.

Valuable Prizes to Winners.

On Monday, the closing day of the exhibition, the prizes will be awarded as follows: At 9 a. m., prizes for sheep and lambs; at 10 a. m., prizes for cattle and hogs; and at noon the auction sale of all the prize winners will begin. The affair will close Monday afternoon with a grand banquet to visiting stockmen at the East End hotel. This will be tendered by General Manager Simon O'Donnell of the Central live stock yards, and the Hon. Frank McLain of Lancaster will preside as toastmaster. The premiums this year aggregate $3,775.

The judges on cattle are: Abraham Lenehan, Baltimore; William E. Housman, Baltimore; D. G. Culver, New York; Charles Harlan, Philadelphia; Louis Samuels and Mayer Meyers, New York. The judges on hogs are: Louis Burke, Philadelphia, and E. A. Blackshere, Baltimore. The judges on sheep are: Frank A. Harrington, Jersey City; Frank Clark, Philadelphia, and Henry Eckert, Baltimore.

The third annual live stock exhibition held in Pittsburgh will be the greatest local show ever held in the world. Already over 200 cars of live stock have been entered. Local entries will not begin to arrive until this morning, and all stock will be in the yards and placed by Saturday afternoon.

CONDEMNED POLICEMAN.

Many Citizens Want to Testify for Driver Thomas Ready, Who Was Arrested Yesterday.

The arrest of Thomas Ready, a driver for W. A. Nimick & Co., at Sixth avenue and Smithfield street, at 4:30 o'clock yesterday, caused a great deal of excitement. Over a hundred citizens followed Officer George Ellsworth and his prisoner to Central station, and, crowding into the court room, demanded that Sergeant Adolph Metz take their names, as they wished to testify in Ready's favor.

The sergeant took a few names, and told the others to appear at the hearing this morning. In the crowd were several councilmen who strongly criticised the officer's action.

Ready was charged with violating a city ordinance. The officer, who is a corner man, says he gave Ready the signal to hold his team, but instead Ready continued across the street. Ready says he did not get a signal to stop. When his team was almost across, the policeman ran out, caught hold of the horses' head, and pulled them around.

The team, being young and fiery, started to prance about, and Ready called to the policemen to let go, and he would go to the station house. Ellsworth, it is said, pulled the team sharply around, almost upsetting the heavy wagon.

Then he let go and the horses plunged forward. Ready pulled them up.

It is said that the officer then jumped on the wagon and struck Ready, who was trying to quiet the team.

Citizens cried out in protest and followed the wagon to the station house. Ready was soon bailed out. He lives on Mt. Washington.

PRISCILLA'S PENCIL

Caught a very pretty story in a downtown shop yesterday. Two little girls were stating their wants to a salesman in a linen department. The elder, not more than nine years, was impressing him with the fact of some stamping, and although he smiled, I saw he was earnestly taking heed. After the tots had gone away, stating severe things which might happen if the stamped somethings were not on hand the next day, I asked the man the reason for his smile, and he told me that the little ladies had come to buy a Christmas gift for mamma; they had saved $10 from various occasions, and as they had heard her say she needed a tablecloth they had ordered one. But they wished to work something on it and had ordered stamped in one corner "Darling Mamma." He had tried to tell them that such a sign was not suitable for a tablecloth, but the younger child told him severely that he did not know their mamma; she "was a darling all the time, tablecloth or none." And so the design was taken and one mother will doubtless be pleased and astonished on Christmas morning at her gift.

Some Pretty Flats—

In the East End were in dangerous proximity to a fire the other night, and a proud young father, looking about to select the most valuable articles to take out, seized the tiny white crib, his baby and the lace-trimmed basket prepared for his baby, and fled to a place of safety with them under his arm, while his wife packed silverware and jewels, and numberless treasures gathered abroad were left unnoticed and untouched.

A College Girl—

Who will take active part in the holiday festivities planned for the young set has her room at home generously decorated with the flags of college friends. All the college colors known in the country are mustered there, with an occasional oar which figured in some famous victory and and a football or two, rough and tousled from a fierce fight, to give variety. The family call it "the souvenir room," as every article in it has a history. In fact, nothing is admitted which cannot boast some tale or tradition to give it interest.

Short Skirts—

Are as much in evidence now as in the summer days when we all went walking or golfing at least once a day. The teacher wears them to her class; the saleswoman finds them convenient behind her counter; the shopper knows them to be invaluable when both hands are laden with parcels, and the woman who is none of these, but just a loiterer, realizes that they are chic and becoming under all circumstances, and so wears them whenever she can find the slightest excuse.

The Popular Muff—

This winter is of light colored sable, big and broad and round, with just a hint of peach pink satin or velvet lining peeping out at one side. Girls who had grandmas are in clover, for every well-regulated grandma has left just such a muff to her favorite descendant.

A Scarlet Wool Waist—

Is the proper thing to wear with the long black ulsters which are the favorite wraps nowadays. The swagger girl unbuttons hers as soon as she gets into a car or shop and the bright red peeping from the somber wrappings gives a very cheerful air.

AFTERNOON HAT.

THE picking out of the winner in the semi-annual whist tournament at the Twentieth Century club caused more concentrated interest in the second round, played yesterday, than in that on the preceding day. The final round will be played this afternoon.

The team from the Duquesne Whist club is in the lead, having defeated the teams from all the other clubs. The team from the Pittsburgh Whist club is second. The result of the tournament thus far in placing the Duquesne club team in the lead is a general surprise, for, though it has some of the best whist players in Pittsburgh, it never yet has won the trophy, and luck seems to have been against its players when entering in tournaments in other cities. The Duquesne Whist club team is composed of Miss Guthrie, captain, Miss Fannie Reed, Mrs. Albert H. Childs and Mrs. O. D. Thompson. The team from the Pittsburgh Whist club is composed of Mrs. George H. Roberts, captain, Mrs. Charles L. Taylor, Mrs. R. W. Patterson and Mrs. Henry Balken.

The Pittsburgh Whist club team made the best match score.

The scores of the teams from the clubs composing the Pittsburgh Whist league that are playing in the tournament which will close today place them as follows: First, Duquesne Whist club; second, Pittsburgh Whist club; third, Monday Afternoon Whist club; fourth, Sewickley Whist club, and fifth, the Allegheny Whist club.

The best trick score was made by Miss Guthrie and Miss Reed, 64 east and west. Mrs. Balken and Mrs. Patterson made the best score north and south, 36.

Changes in Hunt Club Events.

The hour for the weekly meetings of the Pittsburgh Hunt club on Saturday afternoons has been changed from 4 o'clock to 3. Plans are being made for the annual fox hunt of the club in Greene county. It was intended to hold it next week, but the preparations of many of the members to attend the horse show in New York caused a postponement until early in December. The outing will probably last two weeks this year.

Members of the club are completing preparations for the Thanksgiving day ride. A number of invitations have been issued. The start will be at 10 a. m., and luncheon will be served at the club house at the close of the ride.

A Bellevue Concert.

A concert will be given in the Methodist Episcopal church, Bellevue, Thanksgiving evening, under the auspices of the Epworth league. The program will be presented by Mrs. Kaethe P. Walker, 'cellist; Mrs. Vida McCullough McClure, soprano; Miss Mary I. Johnston, pianist, and George Viernan.

Arrangements for Tickets.

The selection of season tickets for the Mozart club concerts takes place next Tuesday. A new plan will be put into operation. Holders of season tickets are requested to call at the box office, 319 Fifth avenue, at that time and select the location of their seats for the season. Tickets for the first concert only will be given out at this time, but the corresponding tickets for each of the concerts will be mailed to subscribers before each concert. The first concert is announced for November 26, at Carnegie Music hall.

Club Choral Rehearsals.

The Tuesday Musical club choral began its regular rehearsals at the studio of James Stephen Martin last evening. Membership is limited this year to 32 voices, divided as follows: Nine first sopranos, nine second altos, seven second sopranos and seven first altos. The soprano list is filled and there is already a waiting list. There is a vacancy for one alto, however. Mrs. W. McClay Hall is chairman of the society this year.

Mrs. Todd's Luncheon.

Mrs. James Todd of Sewickley, has as her house guest, Miss Phelps of New Haven, Pa., for whom she gave an elaborate luncheon yesterday, the guests including only the younger set. This is the first entertaining Mrs. Todd has done in her handsome new stone house in Beaver street, having been in mourning for her father, the late Judge Slagle. Her sister, Miss Millie Slagle, shared the honors with Miss Phelps.

Musicale at the Association.

Miss Elizabeth Webster, chairman of the music committe of the Young Women's Christian association, has arranged a musicale to be given at the association rooms, 120 Fifth street, Tuesday, December 10. An interesting program will be rendered by Mrs. Myron W. Stowell, Miss Martha Groff, Miss Nellie Bender, Miss Etta Bender and Miss Clara E. McLain.

Advanced Pupils Recital.

The Friday Afternoon recital at the Pittsburgh Conservatory of Music yesterday was given by the advanced students of piano and members of the faculty, and the program was of unusual interest and variety. The participants were Misses Grace Gittens, Claudia Hay, Grace Martin, Charlotte Pendleton, Grace Walker, Mary I. Johnston and Martha Groff, and Stephen H. Leyshon.

Pittsburg Girls in the East.

A large number of society women of the two cities are shopping in New York. Others will go later in the month for the Thanksgiving season. Yesterday Miss Elizabeth Burd Thaw went to New York to be away a couple of weeks. Miss Rebecca Darlington is in New York and Miss Alice Painter expects to return from Philadelphia, where she has been visiting a school friend, in about a week.

House Party at Mercer.

Attorney General and Mrs. John P. Elkin of Indiana, and Judge and Mrs. Cyrus Gordon of Clearfield, compose a house party, guests of ex-Senator and Mrs. G. W. Wright of Mercer, Pa., and will remain until the first of the week.

For Allegheny Guests.

Monday evening Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Wilson of Saltsburg, gave an informal reception in honor of their guests, the Rev. and Mrs. William A. Kinter of the Providence church, Allegheny. Among those present were the Rev. and Mrs. George Ryall, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Fair, Mr. and Mrs. William H. MacColl, Miss Mary Lee Wallace, Sidney Morton, William Flaherty and Andrew McIntosh.

Wedding Invitations.

Mr. and Mrs. John A. Waddle of Saltsburg, have issued invitations for the marriage of their daughter, Lulu Mae, to Ralph C. Lemon. The wedding, which will take place on Wednesday, November 20, at high noon, will be one of the social events of the month, as both the bride and groom belong to old Saltsburg families and have a host of friends.

Prof. Root to Marry.

COLUMBIA, MO., Nov. 15.—Dr. Oren Root, professor of mathematics in Hamilton college, Clinton, N. Y., and Mrs. Anne Ray Quisenbery, principal of the public schools in Carrollton, Mo., will be married December 16. Dr. Root is a brother of Secretary of War Root, and Mrs. Quisenbery is a daughter of ex-Chief Justice Robert D. Ray, of the Missouri supreme court.

CHARGES WILL GO TO COURT.

Bribery Investigating Committee of Allegheny Councils Will Prepare Ordinances.

After a lapse of two weeks the bribery investigating committee of Allegheny councils convened yesterday afternoon. While their action did not bring out any evidence which would convict those alleged to have received bribes, yet it shows that the committee made some effort to bring the matter into the courts. Their action of yesterday will doubtless place them in a little better light before their constituents.

At yesterday's meeting it was decided to present a joint resolution to councils, requesting the city solicitor to place the matter before the quarter sessions court, and requesting councils to authorize the expenditure of $2,000 to be used in a search for evidence. But little hope is held out for any conviction, but it was the only method open to the committee. This resolution was presented by Mr. Trimble.

When the committee convened, the report of the city solicitor was given. He had conferred with District Attorney John C. Haymaker, and while he had no written opinion from that officer, he gave the verbal opinion that the grand jury had no power to act in the case.

Mr. Henricks quoted a portion of law governing the old city charter passed in 1870, to the effect that where a member was specifically charged, that council could compell the attendance of witnesses, but Mr. Lang said it had no bearing in the present case.

Mr. Henricks presented an amendment to Mr. Trimble's resolution, naming a sub-committee consisting of the city solicitor, John M. Goehring, and Mr. Trimble's attorneys, L. C. Beatty and J. M. Stoner, to prepare the ordinance in such a manner as the law would require. The committee then adjourned.

GOLF EVENTS OF THE DAY.

Handicap for Phipps Cup and Caddies' Team Match at Highland.

The 18-hole handicap scheduled for the Schenley course of the Pittsburgh Golf club this afternoon has been postponed, and instead the bogey contest for the cup offered by N. Holmes will be decided. This event was scheduled for next Saturday. There will also take place on this course the second match contest between the caddies of the Highland and Pittsburgh clubs. The first played last Saturday was won by Highland by a score of 17 to 0.

On the Highland course the fourth monthly handicap contest for the Phipps trophy, which must be won twice for possession, will be played. It is held from last month by S. J. Graham.

The Edgewood club's only competition will be the play off of the tie between W. S. Dalzell and Blaine Robinson for last Saturday's cup. Each returned a net of 77, Dalzell from a handicap of 11 strokes and Robinson with an allowance of 13.

A kickers' handicap is scheduled for the Logans Ferry course of the Westmoreland Country club, but if the weather is severe there may be no contest.

BURGESS MUST PAY DAMAGES

OFFICERS ACTED WITHOUT JURISDICTION

Plaintiff Held Without a Warrant in Connection With the D. O. Prisor Robbery in Millvale. Was Not Given a Hearing.

The jury in the case of William Dillman against Burgess Edward B. Wyeschine and Policeman John Kuhn of Millvale, yesterday returned a verdict, finding for the plaintiff in the sum of $1,000. In October, 1900, D. O. Prison was held up and robbed of $2,400 and Dillman was arrested for the offense. He was first committed to jail for five days as a suspicious character, when he was released on habeas corpus proceedings.

In the charge by Judge J. A. Evans he touched upon the fact that Dillman had not been given a hearing, and as there was no information the burgess acted out of his jurisdiction, also that he had no right to commit Dillman. The court said that if either of the defendants were guilty, both must be convicted, as it was Kuhn's duty to look at the commitment and see it was properly made out.

SUIT TO ABATE SMOKE.

Bill in Equity Filed Against Jones & Laughlins Alleging Nuisance.

A bill in equity was filed yesterday by Attorney George R. Wallace in behalf of the United Real Estate and Construction Company against Jones & Laughlins, limited, to compel the firm to abate a nuisance. The company has built several houses upon a tract of land lying near Craft avenue and Niagara streets at a cost of $500,000 and upward, and it is alleged the smoke and fumes arising from the defendants' furnaces along Second avenue is an annoyance. At the time the houses were built, it is alleged, the smoke was of no consequence, but a change has been made in the operation of the plant, and there is no demand for houses in that vicinity.

The case of George P. Ecker against Jones & Laughlins, limited, was continued to common pleas court No. 2. Ecker lives in Chatsworth avenue and claims damages to his property by reason of the alleged nuisance the construction company wants abated.

BOUND FOR DETROIT.

The All-Pittsburgh Eleven Starts After a Victory.

Flushed with highest anticipations for a fine game and a victory for the Smoky City, the All-Pittsburgh team left for Detroit last night. The boys have looked forward with a great deal of pleasure to the ensuing contest, and today they will meet the strongest of western athletic association teams. Detroit holds a fine record, and claim the strongest team outside of the U. of M. in the Wolverine State. The Pittsburgh team is a husky bunch of gridiron fiends, and Detroit will run up against the real thing this afternoon.

The All-Pittsburgh team was organized under the management of Ralph S. Langley, who tried so hard to make the ex-collegiate team a success. Mr. Langley scheduled Detroit A. C. several weeks ago, but when the ex-collegiate team was disbanded Langley arranged a consolidation of the best material in Latrobe A. C. and the old team, and with Mr. J. F. Lalor's sturdy support, a team that Pittsburgh may well be proud of has been developed. Sandes, the old Pardus star, so well remembered by Detroiters in the game against U. of M. last year, will play at left end for the Pittsburgh team. Sandes was probably the best end in the northwest last year, playing his star game against the University of Chicago. The Detroit team is composed mostly of old U. of M. men.

ST. LOUIS TEAM SURE.

Ban Johnson and Comiskey Are Looking Up Grounds.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 15.—Ban Johnson of the American league, who is here with Charles Comiskey, announced today that the St. Louis American league club was a certainty for next season.

"We have made almost all arrangements to enter St. Louis," said Mr. Johnson, "and have concluded all details with the sole exception of the closing of the deal for a ball park. Mr. Comiskey and myself are in St. Louis for the purpose of settling that matter.

"The St. Louis team is practically made up. Wallace, Holdrige, Bullpitt, Padden, Powell and Harper have affixed their signatures to contracts. The talk of their going back to the National league is entirely unfounded."

"Will the Detroit team or such part of it as is needed be brought here?" Mr. Johnson was asked.

"I anticipate that several members of that team will be in the St. Louis team make-up next season," he replied. "Though we have signed still other National league players than the St. Louis National league men."

Doctor Charged With Malpractice.

Blanche V. Steenson, through Attorney W. J. Fulton, entered suit against Dr. Frank L. Todd for $50,000 damages. The plaintiff is the wife of Robert J. Steenson of Allegheny. She alleges the defendant was called to her home December 19, 1900, to attend her in childbirth, and that he carelessly and negligently treated her, and then abandoned her while she was suffering great agony, to catch a car. She says although notified the defendant did not visit her again for three weeks, and that by his actions she was compelled to remain in bed for three months, and to go to New York for treatment at a cost of $3,000.

A suit was entered yesterday which may result in letter sidewalks in Baldwin township. J. W. Bradshaw sued Henry Sill for $1,000 damages. He claims that he was caught in the board walk in front of the defendant's house, and was so injured that he could not carry on his business for some time.

A petition in bankruptcy was filed against John J. Muller, Jr., of Natrona. An affidavit of defense was filed in the case of the Congregation Beth Israel against the Austria-Hungarian Congregation Focie Zedick. The plaintiff was the owner of a church on Crawford street, which was sold to the defendant. The defendant congregation refused to allow this and action was brought for the amount of the furnishings. The defendant congregation now denies an arrangement was made.

Frank T. Murray of Chicago, the Union Bank Trust Company of Nashville, Tenn., and the Corn Exchange National Bank of Philadelphia filed a petition in bankruptcy against Daniel & Collin Company of Pittsburgh. It is alleged in the petition that the defendant company while insolvent transferred notes and accounts amounting to $1,000 to the National City Bank of Grand Rapids, Mich., with intent to prefer such creditor, and further that they permitted certain creditors to attach certain property in Virginia, which has since been sold and the proceeds distributed.

PHILIPPINES NOT FOREIGN.

Secretary Gage Induces Commissioner Yerkes to Reverse Ruling.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 15.—Commissioner of Internal Revenue Yerkes decided today that beer manufactured in the United States and shipped to the Philippines is subject to the internal revenue tax. This ruling is a reversal of the one made by the commissioner several weeks ago, when he held the Philippines to be foreign territory and exempted beer, whisky and tobacco shipped thither from the internal revenue tax.

Secretary Gage seems to have taken the other side of the case, and it is his view that prevailed with the commissioner and resulted in the reversal of the former opinion.

MERIT DECIDES, NOT POLITICS

Roosevelt Makes It Known That Army Changes Will Be Guided by Record.

THE POLITICAL PULL IS A DEAD LETTER

It Is Worse Than Useless for the Candidate to Send Senators and Representatives to the White House to Annoy the President.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
605 Fifteenth St., N. W.,
WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 15.

Political influence is to be mainly ignored in the making of appointments in the war and navy departments, and for civil positions in the dependencies. The president was emphatic in a statement to that effect made to the cabinet at its meeting today. Mr. Roosevelt reiterated what he said to William Dudley Foulke, the new civil service commissioner, and Clinton Rodgers Woodruff of the National Civil Service Reform league, on this subject yesterday, that so long as he is president the war and navy departments and the government of the dependencies should be kept free from politics.

The general subject of the federal appointments was discussed by the cabinet to the exclusion of all other business of importance. Since President Roosevelt entered upon the duties of his office he has had almost as many applications for appointment as if he had recently been elected to the office instead of succeeding to it by the death of his predecessor. Besides the individual applications there have been many recommendations for appointments from senators, the great pressure for places coming from men who are eager to succeed officials who were appointed by President McKinley early in his administration and who, therefore, have served four years.

Hard to Rely on Recommendations.

President Roosevelt recognizes the claims of members of the senate, but is opposite to an indiscriminate turning out of federal officials who have served faithfully and efficiently for four years, and who desire to be reappointed. The president philosophized to the cabinet members today on the conflicting stories told him by different people as to the characters and attitude of men who are under discussion for office, and even after appointments have been made. The president is getting heartily sick of this. He says he can hardly make an appointment before he receives telegrams from unknown people telling him that a mistake has been made; what a bad man has been selected, and what a good man the other fellow was. All this confirms the president in the view that the harder he seeks to find good men for offices the more likely he is to encounter opposition to them.

The following official declaration was made public today:

The secretary of war and the president have had informal discussions on army matters on several occasions, and it is understood that the president has expressed himself most positively on the use of political and social influence by officers for the purpose of obtaining changes of stations, leaves of absence, modifications of orders, etc. Of course, it is understood that officers often deem it necessary to have attention called to their cases by political friends for appointments, especially cases of the young volunteer officers who recently have been appointed.

The Recent Reorganization.

It is safe to say, however, that at no period in the history of our government has the matter of record been used to such good purpose as during the present reorganization of the army, when the greatest possible care has been taken in the selection of persons for appointment in the reorganized army.

The president has not hesitated to inform senators and others who have applied to him that no officer will improve his chances by sending his friends to annoy the president in his behalf. On the contrary, the effect which will be produced probably will be directly opposite to that which the candidate hopes for. Several senators and representatives have had some disappointment because the persons in whom they are interested have not received the appointments and stations applied for by them, but the administration as a whole is evidently of the opinion that the good sense and judgment of public men will lead them to the same conclusion as that arrived at by the president and secretary of war—that is, if a system of records be thoroughly established at the war department showing the progressive work of officers from year to year, it will be better for the officers and men, as well as public officials, that such a register be made the guide for selections, details, etc., rather than influence. CHARLES W. METZGAR.

Revolutionary Battle Anniversary.

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—(Special.)—The battle of Fort Washington, which took place 125 years ago tomorrow, will be commemorated by the Empire state society of the Sons of the American Revolution and the American Scenic and Historical Preservation society. A handsome memorial of granite, marble and bronze will be dedicated to mark the site of the historic fort.

The Right Thing.

A New Catarrh Cure, Which Is Rapidly Coming to the Front.

For several years, Eucalyptol, Guaiacol and Hydrastin have been recognized as standard remedies for catarrhal troubles, but they have always been given separately and only very recently an ingenious chemist succeeded in combining them, together with other antiseptics into a pleasant, effective tablet.

Druggists sell the remedy under the name of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets and it has met with remarkable success in the cure of nasal catarrh, bronchial and throat catarrh and in catarrh of the stomach.

Mr. F. N. Benton, whose address is care of Clark House, Troy, N. Y., says: "When I run up against anything that is good I like to tell people of it. I have been troubled with catarrh more or less for some time. Last winter more than ever. Tried several so-called cures, but did not get any benefit from them. About six weeks ago I bought a 50 cent box of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets and am glad to say that they have done wonders for me and I do not hesitate to let all my friends know that Stuart's Catarrh Tablets are the right thing."

Mr. Geo. J. Cassanova of Hotel Griffon, West 9th street, New York city, writes: "I have commenced using Stuart's Catarrh Tablets and already they have given me better results than any catarrh cure I have ever tried."

A leading physician of Pittsburgh advises the use of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets in preference to any other treatment for catarrh of the head, throat or stomach.

He claims they are far superior to inhalers, salves, lotions or powder, and are much more convenient and pleasant to take and are so harmless that little children take them with benefit as they contain no opiate, cocaine or any poisonous drugs.

All druggists sell Stuart's Catarrh Tablets at 50 cents for full size package and they are probably the safest and most reliable cure for any form of catarrh. 1114xzg

AWFUL RACKET SMALL DAMAGE

GATHMANN GUN TRIED, BUT FAILS TO FULFILL PROMISE.

Inventor Claims an Imperfect Detonation of Fuse, Which Naval People Deny—A Second Test Today. Regular Midvale Shell in Smaller Gun Plays Havoc With a Duplicate Target.

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—The test of the Gathmann gun and shell took place this afternoon at the army proving ground on Sandy Hook and resulted in failure. The shell did no material damage to the target. The failure of inventor Gathmann's theory is ascribed by him to an imperfect detonation of the fuse in the interior of the shell. The army officers, however, say they have found convincing proof to the contrary, and that everything in connection with the test was as perfect as it was possible to make it, in accordance with the inventor's ideas.

The board has decided to give a second trial, to which the inventor is entitled, tomorrow morning. The second Gathmann shell for tomorrow's test will be overhauled in the presence of Mr. Gathmann to guard against imperfections.

The test made later in the day with the regulation gun on the duplicate target was a complete success.

The Gathmann gun test took place at 2:15 o'clock this afternoon. When everything was in readiness Lieut Morton of the ordnance department pressed the electric button.

A roar from the gun was followed by the explosion of the torpedo against the 11-inch Krupp plate, fragments of the shell flying in all directions. The plate, however, was found uninjured, except for a slight indentation on the face of the metal. The position of the target was slightly changed, but the change was not material.

The gun used today was a specially-built piece of ordnance six inches larger in bore and several feet longer than any now in use, being of 18-inch bore and 44 feet in length. The projectile was a shell 18 inches in diameter and six feet in length, containing a charge of 500 pounds of wet gun cotton, the whole, including the shell, weighing 1,850 pounds. The claim of the inventor was that with a charge of 310 pounds of powder his shell or torpedo would disable any battleship in existence at a distance of 3,500 yards.

The target used in today's test consisted of a Kruppized steel plate 11 inches thick, backed by five feet of steel. To the rear of the target was a bank of sand eight feet high and 60 feet long. The gun was mounted upon a temporary structure 200 feet from the target, which was located several hundred yards below the regular proving grounds. The powder charge was reduced in this test so as to represent the distance of 3,500 yards.

The duplicate target, on which the regulation 12-inch breechloading rifle with a 12-inch Midvale armor-piercing shell loaded with the government high explosive "D," was used, was tested at 4 o'clock. The projectile pierced the 11-inch Kruppized plate. It made a perfectly clean entrance and exploded after passing through the plate, making a most deplorable wreck of the interior.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 15.—A private test was made at Indian Head today of an armor plate made by the Carbon Steel Company under patents of cast metal. The purpose is to combine a backing of low-grade soft and tough cast steel with a high carbon cast steel face, which may be made of any proportionate thickness. This plate is six inches thick and was attacked by a six-inch gun, both shots cracking the plate. The inventors claim to be satisfied with the demonstration of the success of their plan.

I was troubled with what doctors called indigestion and dyspepsia. One called it heart disease. There was sick headache and pains in the stomach, more so after eating. A relation told me to try Ripans Tabules, for she said they were cheap and it would not hurt me to try them. I purchased a package at the drug store and used them as directed, and they are the best medicine I ever used. I can eat almost anything now, and have gained fifteen pounds. I was very delicate, and some people thought I had consumption. I am only 19 years of age, and my friends are asking me what has made the change, and I tell one and all Ripans Tabules.

EAT DEMAND FOR PIG IRON

Furnace Stocks Decrease in Spite of the Increased Production.

CAR SHORTAGE STILL CONTINUES

Healthy Demand for Merchandise of All Kinds and Record-Breaking Holiday Trade is Predicted. Exports of Wheat Are Heavy.

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade tomorrow will say:

A few months ago injury to the corn crop aroused fears that the railroads would be seriously handicapped by the loss of tonnage, yet the season of grain traffic has not only failed to produce decreased earnings, but there is such a scarcity of rolling stock and motive power that numerous industries are badly demoralized. In so far as these interests are concerned, the reduction in corn freight proves a blessing. Railway earnings in October were 11.3 per cent greater than last year and 21.2 per cent over 1899, while those roads reporting for the first week of November show an average gain of 8.8 per cent.

A healthy demand is reported throughout the country in all leading lines of merchandise, while sales of winter goods have attained normal proportions and holiday business promises to surpass all records. In manufacturing there was never before such well-sustained activity, with contracts running past the middle of next year.

This is especially true in the case of steel rails and many other products of iron, while in building material, felt, footwear and most textile branches there is little prospect of idleness. Money circulates freely, making collections satisfactory in most sections. Bank exchanges in New York for the week were 8.3 per cent larger than a year ago and 32.1 per cent over 1899, while at other leading cities the gains were 10.2 and 9.2, respectively.

Great Demand for Pig Iron.

Unprecedented conditions in the iron and steel industry are shown by the statistics of pig iron on November 1, as published by the Iron Age. Furnaces in blast were producing at the rate of 320,824 tons weekly, which far surpasses all previous records. With a production of 10,000 tons weekly above the previous top point it might be expected that supplies would increase, or at least remain stationary. On the contrary, furnace stocks on November 1 were 276,251 tons, or much less than a single week's output, and a decrease of 88,342 for the month of October. Carrying the comparison back a year gives an idea of the marvelous strides made in this industry. Since November, 1900, the weekly capacity of furnaces in blast has increased from 215,304 tons to 320,824, while furnace stocks have declined from 641,466 to 276,281 tons. Yet there has been no inflation of prices, and the speculative element is entirely lacking, a sign that no disastrous collapse is to be feared.

While shipments of footwear from Boston continue far in excess of previous years and factories are well employed, the situation is not satisfactory. Prices are not maintained at a profitable point, owing to the phenomenal strength of raw material and the stubborn resistance of buyers.

Print cloths at Fall River are quiet, recent unusual events having produced a tendency to await developments. Both buyers and sellers made sufficient concessions on brown goods to secure large sport sales. Further gains are recorded in woolens, business reaching the best of the season.

Failures for the week numbered 215 in the United States, against 217 last year, and 27 in Canada, against 33 last year.

From the Central Railway club of Buffalo a letter was received congratulating the organization upon its start.

Plans were discussed for the monthly magazine of the club to contain a report of proceedings and discussions. The first number will appear early in December.

J. E. Simons, superintendent of rolling stock of the Pittsburgh Coal Company, read a paper upon the relations of young men to the club. Col. D. P. Jones, late of the United States navy, gave an address.

The report of the secretary showed a membership of 185, 135 persons having joined the organization in the month since it was organized. The president of the club, J. H. McConnell, general manager of the Pittsburgh locomotive works, presided. The next meeting will be held at the Lincoln, November 27.

TO SHORTEN THE P. & W.

Brice Route from Niles and Ravenna Under Consideration.

Negotiations have been resumed, it is said, for building the part of the old Brice survey, between Niles and Ravenna, O., to take the place of the present line of the Pittsburgh & Western between those two points. The present route is 90 miles long, while the new one will be but 24, and will save a number of bad curves. It will give the Pittsburgh & Western a line to Cleveland from Pittsburgh only 137 miles long, as compared with 135 for the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie and 140 for the Fort Wayne, by way of Alliance.

The scheme was considered some years ago, and the officials of the road were at one time almost ready to put it into effect. The plan is made feasible now by the fact that the Pennsylvania controls both the Pittsburgh & Western and the Brice right of way, which it is proposed to use. It is thought assured that this part, at least, of the old Brice route will be used.

Many New Trains on Ft. Wayne.

Official announcement was made yesterday of the changes to be made on the northwest system of the Pennsylvania lines by the new time-card. All times given are central. There will be a new Toledo train leaving this city at 9:30 p. m., and carrying the Detroit sleeper, heretofore on the Pennsylvania limited. It reaches Toledo at 5:35 a. m. Two new trains from Pittsburgh to Youngstown will be put on with a two-hour schedule, one leaving this city at 6:30 a. m., and the other at 4 p. m. For the New Castle-South Sharon commuters, a new train will leave Mahoningtown at 11:55 a. m., and arrive at Sharon at 12:45. Through sleeping-car service, from New Castle to Chicago, is given by a connection with Train 15. The new train will leave New Castle at 7 p. m. Train No. 15, the Chicago express leaving here at 7:30 p. m., will arrive at Chicago at 8 a. m. instead of 7:45 as now, and the second section will hereafter be run as a separate train to be called No. 25.

B. & O. May Enter Kansas City.

The organization, by John W. Gates, of the Kansas City, Peoria & Chicago railroad, using several small Missouri lines as the basis, has revived the rumor that the Baltimore & Ohio will enter Kansas City. Mr. Gates is said to have had the company chartered only in order to find a purchaser, and overtures have been made to the Baltimore & Ohio management. Inasmuch as the road would prove a competitor to the Wabash, in that territory, and in a measure, retaliate for the Pittsburgh entrance of that road, the plan is said to be receiving serious consideration.

To Move B. & O. Freight Offices.

Plans are making for housing the Pittsburgh freight offices of the Baltimore & Ohio, in the new building, now being erected on Smithfield street, opposite the Monongahela House. The present offices occupy the third floor of the Water street station building, but owing to the growth of business, the present quarters have been found inadequate. The other departments of the road also need additional room. The change will be made, it is said, as soon as the new quarters are completed.

Fast Service to Hot Springs.

Fred H. Tristram, central passenger agent of the Wabash, announces that Sunday, November 17, that road will resume its through sleeping-car lines between Chicago and Hot Springs. The daily train will leave Chicago at 11:03 a. m., and arrive at Hot Springs at 8 o'clock the following morning. The service of the Wabash 14 in connection with the Iron Mountain route, and the Little Rock & Hot Springs Western railway.

Extension of Turtle Creek Valley.

There is great rejoicing in Saltsburg over the confirmation of the report that the Turtle Creek Valley railroad, now being extended from Export to Delmont, will be continued to Saltsburg early in the coming year. It will penetrate the great coal field, owned by the Cambria Steel Company, and from here coal will be shipped directly to that company's big mills in Johnstown.

RAILROAD NOTES.

J. C. Bland, engineer of bridges of the Pennsylvania lines west, is on his annual inspection of the bridges of the system.

The jurisdiction of E. L. Brendel, trainmaster of the Somerset & Cambria, and Berlin & Salisbury branches of the Baltimore & Ohio, has been extended over the main line and the Chesapeake & Ohio branches of the Connellsville division.

The Seaboard Company, a New Jersey corporation, chartered two days ago, will acquire control of a majority of the stocks of the Seaboard Air Line, receiving as absolute control of the road as the Pennsylvania Company has of the lines west of Pittsburgh.

Monday the annual meeting of the Baltimore & Ohio will be held. The past year has been the most eventful in the history of the road for many years, and much important business is to come before the board, which the voting trust formerly transacted.

"Old 999," once the pride of the New York Central, and by general admission the fastest engine in the world, will hereafter draw a milk-train along the banks of the Hudson, instead of the famous Empire State Express. A fast life, the pace that kills, has brought "Old 999" to degradation.

Senator Stephen G. Elkins of West Virginia and a party of Gould representatives are reported to have spent the past week in Baltimore, studying the dock facilities of the Western Maryland, which is included in the scheme to secure a Gould trunk line.

N. Tanguwon, the Japanese engineer, who came to Pittsburgh to study materials for use in the new palace of the crown prince of Japan, spent part of yesterday in the new general offices of the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie, studying the system of ventilation used there. All air entering the building is washed and dried.

Here's a Pointer.

Take a postal card, address it to the Cranitonic Hair Food Co., 320 West Broadway, New York City, and write on the reverse side something like this: "Please send me a copy of the 48 page illustrated book entitled Hair Care and a sample of the Cranitonic Hair Food Products, which the Commercial Gazette says you are sending free and postpaid to people who ask for them." Sign your name, give your address, street and number and mail the card. Then wait a few days and you will receive by mail a sample of the most exquisite French toilet preparation ever offered to the public.

If you will write a letter, enclosing a small lock of hair or a sample of the daily combings, and state if you have falling hair, dandruff or itching scalp, the physicians of the Cranitonic Institute will make a microscopical examination of the hair, send you a report upon its condition and prescribe curative treatment free of charge. DECISION DAY IN THE COUNTY

Sunday School Children Will Be Urged to Become Church Members.

DISTINGUISHED CLERGYMEN TO PREACH

Methodist Episcopal Pulpits Will Be Filled by Delegates to the Semi-Annual Meeting of the General Missionary Committee

Tomorrow will be observed as "decision day" in nearly all the churches of the city, all evangelical denominations being included.

During the summer months Hugh Cork, field secretary of the Allegheny County Sunday School association, urged the observance of a day in November for the purpose of making special efforts to get the pupils in the Sunday school to unite with the church. The subject has been carefully considered since then in all the industrial gatherings, and arrangements made to observe November 17 in this way. Decision day was widely observed last year and 3,000 children became members of the church. A feature this year will be the distribution of cards, called "McKinley cards," on which the pupil who wishes to decide the momentous question may sign his name. The card is headed: "McKinley's decision is mine."

The cards further state that "at the age of 15 William McKinley stood up in church and made this confession, that explains how he could live such a life and die such a death as he did." It is expected that tomorrow, the country over, there will be hundreds of young people who will decide to unite with some church and will signify their intention by handing in one of these cards with the name signed to it. About 20,000 cards had been distributed up to noon yesterday.

In many pulpits of the city bishops and other distinguished Methodist Episcopal clergymen, who are in Pittsburgh, attending the meeting of the general missionary committee, will be heard. Among the bishops who are attending and who will speak are Bishop F. M. Thoburn, who was formerly a member of the Pittsburgh conference and is now a bishop to India, and Bishop Charles C. McCabe, the jovial chaplain. Allegheny will get both of these. Bishop Thoburn will preach in Calvary church, and Bishop McCabe in Arch street.

The assignments of the visitors are as follows:

TO STRENGTHEN OUR FINANCES

MONETARY LEGISLATION BY NEXT SESSION OF CONGRESS.

Overstreet and Lovering Bills to Be Presented—First Requires Treasury to Exchange Gold Coin for Silver Dollars—Lovering Bill Aims at Expansion of the Currency by Means of National Bank Notes.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU, 603 Fifteenth St., N. W., WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 15.

The propoganda initiated several years ago by the Indianapolis Monetary committee which resulted in the passage of the gold standard law of March 14, 1900 will be continued this winter. On the first day of the session two bills that have the approval of the committee will be introduced in the house. They will be known respectively as the Overstreet and the Lovering bills.

The purpose of the Overstreet bill is to strengthen the existing law by requiring the secretary of the treasury to exchange on demand gold coin for silver dollars, thus maintaining all forms of government money, greenbacks, treasury notes, and silver at parity with gold. Under the law as it now stands it is the "duty" of the secretary of the treasury to maintain parity, but the Overstreet bill makes it compulsory and thus prevents a hostile secretary from sending gold to a premium by paying public dues in silver. Some of the Republican leaders in the senate fear that such legislation would too heavily burden the gold reserve, but this fear is not shared by economists of distinction, by the Indianapolis Monetary committee or by the secretary of the treasury.

Purpose of Lovering Bill.

The Lovering bill has a two-fold purpose: first to give greater elasticity to the bank note circulation and secondly to expand the paper currency during the crop moving periods, and at other times when more than the ordinary demand for money exists. Its author is William C. Lovering of Massachusetts, a cotton manufacturer of Taunton and a business man of wide experience. It permits national banks for a period of three years to issue unsecured notes—that is to say notes that rest upon their assets and are not secured by deposits of government bonds—to the extent of 10 per cent of their capital. After three years, and until six years after the passage of the act, banks may issue 20 per cent and, after six years 40 per cent.

Such a law would put into immediate circulation $70,000,000. With the increase of national bank capital to $1,000,000,000 it would under the 40 per cent provision, permit an expansion of $400,000,000. Aside from this circumstance it would, during the autumn months, lessen the strain upon the large city banks by making the country banks practically independent of them.

Providing for Bank Failures.

It should be explained in passing that the so-called unsecured notes would rest, not alone upon the assets of the bank, but upon a guarantee fund in the treasury department to which every bank would contribute legal tender money equal to 5 per cent of its issue. For example, a bank with a capital of $100,000 might for the first three years issue $10,000 in notes by depositing $500 with the United States treasurer. During the second three years, when the 20 per cent limitation is in force, it might issue $20,000 by depositing $1,000. And during the following years, $40,000 by depositing $2,000, the deposits to be returned to the bank upon the withdrawal of the notes. The bill places a tax of one-half of one per cent per annum on all unsecured note issues, the proceeds of the tax to be added to the guarantee fund which fund is to be used exclusively to pay the notes of failed banks. It provides in addition that when the guarantee fund has thus been drawn upon it shall, when the bank goes into liquidation, share ratably with other creditors of the bank but shall not have a prior lien upon the assets.

General Support Expected.

A measure differing so widely in character from existing law is certain to provoke criticism from representatives and senators who have not studied the question, and especially from those who will confuse it with the "wildcat" banking that existed in parts of the west and south in ante-bellum days. It is believed, however, that when its provisions are thoroughly understood it will receive the approval of Republicans and Democrats alike; for its merits are numerous and the safety of the note holder is assured to a degree little if any less than under the present system.

Both the Overstreet and the Lovering bills were carefully considered by the committee on banking and currency last winter, and favorably reported to the house. The shortness of the session prevented action upon them but they will be introduced again this winter and a vigorous effort will be made to enact them into law before the end of the fifty-seventh congress.

OLD TIME ENTHUSIASM IS MISSING

There Was No Demonstration and but Little Betting at Yale's Home. Will Be a Contest Between Crippled Elevens.

NEW HAVEN, CONN., Nov. 15.—The situation on the eve of the championship football contest between Yale and Princeton is anomalous. The early hours of evening disclosed almost none of the enthusiasm generally witnessed on the night before the annual battle between the Tigers and the sons of Eli. This condition may probably be accounted for by the fact that very few Princeton men have reached New Haven yet.

The members of the Yale team retired early. No hard work was done this afternoon, the men being sent through signal practice and punt catching for an hour or more at Yale infield. The Yale spirit of pluck and grit is evident on the campus, but the withdrawal of the crack freshman guard, Glass, has given rise to misgivings as to the outcome of the game. The feeling on all sides tonight seemed to find expression in the belief that while tomorrow's game would prove a hard-fought one, the contest would in reality not reach old-time proportions of skill and general excellence.

In other words, as one Yale authority put it, the battle would be one between crippled elevens. The usual "night before the battle" crowd did not materialize and the hotels and cafes were not overcrowded. Betting was extremely scarce, and the few wagers posted were insignificant in size. The prevailing odds were 10 to 9, with Yale the favorite.

Yale's Team Will Avoid the Crowd.

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 15.—(Special.)—On the Yale gridiron this afternoon the blue's players for an hour and a half rehearsed the tricks and signals which they will use against Princeton in the great championship game tomorrow afternoon.

Tomorrow the team will go out to the New Haven Country club in order to avoid the crowd. The players will lunch there and then go direct to the field, for the game will be called at 2 o'clock. After the eleven which will start in tomorrow had been put through all of the signals and tricks the subs were called out and tried at the various places.

A surprise was sprung when Capt. Gould dropped back of the line as first substitute for right halfback. Gould has played a few times in the back field this fall, but no one had supposed that he had any intention of going into the game. Gould will be a candidate for center tomorrow. In case Chadwick is injured, Gould will take his place. Gould is a first-class end rush. To take him away from his position will weaken the end of the line and put a man in the back field who is not accustomed to that position.

After the practice Head Coach Stillman said: "I am satisfied with the condition of the team. Everything seems to be all right. The players are in good shape physically and are able to put up their very best game."

The Tigers Are Full of Life.

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 15.—(Special.)—The Tigers who will give battle with the Yale bulldogs tomorrow afternoon took their last practice today behind closed doors. The bracing air, together with the rest given the men, acted like an elixir of life on their spirits. The dash and spirit shown in the signal practice drive one to think that the Tigers are in topnotch condition. The staying power of the men during the season has been superb, and, barring the unavoidable injuries, no former Princeton team ever went into a gridiron struggle more fit. Trainer Robinson has got men in shape five Harvard elevens, six Yale teams, and this makes the tenth Princeton team.

Mills, who injured his ankle in the Cornell game, has been speedily rounded into form. He was in the line-up today and will play in his old position at left guard. With Mills and Dana in the guards' positions, the prospects for the Tigers' success is much more hopeful.

Dwyer Will Manage Detroit.

DETROIT, Nov. 15.—Frank Dwyer, the former Cincinnati pitcher and umpire, after a conference with the new management of the Detroit baseball club tonight, signed a contract as playing manager of the club and he at once began his work of organizing the team by signing Jimmie Barrett as one of the outfielders. The interests of Mr. Stallings in the club have not yet been acquired by the new managers. Two conferences were held between Mr. Stallings and Secretary Cook today, but without result.

Gans Knocked Hanlon Out.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 15.—Joe Gans of this city, knocked out Jack Hanlon of Philadelphia, in the second round of a bout scheduled to go 20 rounds before the Eureka Athletic club tonight.

LITTLE LOCAL BETTING ON YALE-PRINCETON GAME

Contrary to general expectation there was very little betting in this city yesterday on the result of the Yale-Princeton football game at New Haven today. In previous years the betting on this event has always been lively, but there was a change of conditions yesterday and betting men could not understand it.

What little betting there was done had Yale as the favorite at odds of 10 to 8. Shad Gwilliam, who can always be looked for to have a bunch of money on events of this kind, was a Yale admirer and had placed one or two bets of $100 to $80, and he let it go at that, not caring to risk any more money. The trouble seemed to be that the football experts could not form any true line on the elevens, so that they would not venture their money without having some "dope" to back them up.

Arthur Poe, who is an ex-Princeton star, received a letter during the day from his brother, Gresham Poe, who expects to get a chance to play on the Tiger team today. After reading the letter carefully Arthur said it was all over, and that a victory might just as well be counted for the Tiger team. He joked his fellow players considerably, particularly Perry Hale, the ex-Yale star. Speaking seriously Poe said that he felt certain of a Princeton victory, but did not look for a large score. In his opinion Princeton will win by a score of 6 to 0, or else 12 to 6. He was pleased to hear that his brother Gresham was to get a chance, as he is the only Poe so far who has failed to make a record at Princeton.

Perry Hale did not care to be quoted as to the probable result. He thinks all things considered the teams are very evenly matched and the battle will be one of the hardest ever fought between Yale and Princeton teams.

STRONG TEAM FOR SHADYSIDE

HAS PLENTY OF MATERIAL FROM WHICH TO PICK A SEVEN.

Many of the Football Stars Will Play Hockey This Season—The Four Club League Promises to Produce Some Very Exciting Sport on the Ice—Championship Fight Will Be a Very Hot One.

Now that for the first time in the history of local hockey a four-club interscholastic league is assured, the skaters of the Pittsburgh school district are impatiently awaiting the time when the ice will be ready for practice. Then will commence active training for what promises to be the liveliest season for local school honors that the ice game has witnessed since its introduction to the energies of the Smoky City youth. The first hockey contest of the season will be played on the night of November 26 between the four teams of the league, Shadyside Academy, Pittsburgh High school, East Liberty Academy and the new member of the league, Western University of Pennsylvania. Two of the teams will take part in each half.

The Shadyside Academy team won the series for the championship played last season with Pittsburgh High School, there being no league, and as the High School team had before been the interscholastic champions, a warm struggle can be looked for this season between the two schools, the one to retain its former honored position, and the academy to retain in hockey the post position which for several years it has held undisputed on the football gridiron.

Shadyside has a strong bunch of skaters from last season's championship aggregation, and should certainly have a good look in for the honor. James Darsie, the fast sprinter and star of the football team, will be a candidate for center; Arch Williams, the former boy wonder of the local bicycle track, will be manager of the team.

Charles Able, the speedy captain of the championship football eleven, is one of the wingmen, while Clarence Overend is another skater for the same position. Syl Preston, who was a strong skater on the High School bunch last season, will be a welcome addition as cover point; Roy Hutchinson will be played at forward and Hans Rose at wing. The Shadyside boys claim that with only the point and goal positions to fill and a strong bunch of new candidates for these places, the academy is assured of the strongest ice seven it has had in years.

Of the large field of candidates O'Brien, Armstrong and Lawrence Beggs, well-known members of the football team, are in the front rank, Armstrong excelling at whatever branch of the game he undertakes. He did a lion's share of the work for the track team, and was a tower of strength at fullback for the eleven. Gibson, Dravo and F. W. Kay, the boy golfer who won the second cup in the open championship tournament, are other candidates.

STATE AND LEHIGH.

Center County Is All Worked Up Over This Game.

STATE COLLEGE, PA., Nov. 15.—(Special.)—Almost as great interest is felt here in the football game tomorrow between State and Lehigh at Williamsport as was generally shown in the annual contests between State and Bucknell. State's team left this afternoon for Williamsport, where they will spend the night resting for the game. Tomorrow a special train will go from here, and fully 500 rooters from this place and Bellefonte will go down to the lumber city to cheer State to expected victory.

Manager Zorn and Coach Golden took along the full complement of players, and the line-up for the game will likely be as follows: Left end, Cummings; left tackle, Arbuthnot; left guard, Junk; center, Swope; right guard, Dodge; right tackle, Scholl; right half, Whitworth; fullback, Smith; subs, Beisicker, Murray, Dean, Thompson and Holloway. Naturally State anticipates winning this, the first regular series of annual games arranged with Lehigh. State's work thus far this season has been of excellent quality, and the practice of the last few weeks has shown no deterioration whatever. All the men are in the best of physical condition; Sweet, Scholl, Beisicker and Smith having recovered from the slight injuries received two weeks ago in the game with Homestead. As to Lehigh, while she has not been successful so far this season in winning many victories, it was principally because she had a stroke of hard luck from the beginning. But her team is in better shape now, and State expects a good, hard game.

SLAGLE FOR CHICAGO.

The Midget Outfielder to Become a Remnant.

CHICAGO, Nov. 15.—(Special.)—The addition of Jimmy Slagle to the ranks of the Chicago National league club seems practically assured. Speaking of the player, James A. Hart said yesterday: "This Slagle is one of the best outfielders in the country. He is naturally a .310 or .315 point hitter in fast company, and is fast on the bases. Last season he had much trouble with his eyes, and was also bothered by the foul-strike rule. I think that under proper handling he will pick up and show himself good enough for any team."

Several Cincinnati critics assert that Leonard Jordan Swormstedt, a local pitcher, has accepted terms from Chicago, and Swormstedt himself confirms the story. The splendid like Hart, however, merely smiled and said that Swormstedt was a good man, but there were lots of others just like him.

"I am not going to the baseball pow-wow now in progress at New York," said Mr. Hart, "and, in fact, did not know it was going on till I saw the New York dispatches."

The Chicago president thinks the 16-men rule will be again enforced next season. "The public likes it," said Brother Hart, "and it would be a good thing if the teams could be made even smaller. When a team is down to a small number the crowd knows whom it will see, and is not kept guessing."

WILL HOLD THEIR PLAYERS.

Detroit Will Not Contribute Men to St. Louis.

DETROIT, MICH., Nov. 15.—Secretary Frank C. Cook of the Detroit baseball club denies with great positiveness that any of the members of the Detroit team will be transferred to the St. Louis American league team next season. "Instead of letting any of our players go to another club," said he, "we intend to strengthen the Detroit team by the acquisition of several new men. I am of the opinion that Mr. Johnson was misquoted in stating that any of the Detroit men would be sent to St. Louis."

President Postal of the Washington American league team also expressed the opinion that President Johnson had been misquoted. "It is absurd," said he, "to say that Detroit team will be robbed to strengthen St. Louis."

Kenna's Shoulder Bone Broken.

MORGANTOWN, W. VA., Nov. 15.—(Special.)—A surgical examination of the injuries sustained by quarterback Kenna of the university football team, in the game against Washington and Jefferson on Wednesday, reveals a broken shoulder bone, and he will probably be out of the game for the remainder of the season. Peck will play the position in the game against the California normal school tomorrow.

Basket Ball at Geneva.

BEAVER FALLS, PA., Nov. 15.—(Special.)—Manager McKean of the Geneva college basketball team stated today that he expected to have a stronger team on the field this year than that which represented the college for the past two seasons. Last year, under the leadership of Joe Thompson, a former captain of the D. C. & A. C., Geneva met and defeated some of the best teams in the western part of the state. Of last year's team Patterson, center, and Elliott, guard, have graduated. Several new men will come in from whom much is expected. Among these are E. Martin of the Pittsburgh high school team and R. Georga, a former member of the Geneva team, who has returned to school. Mr. McKean has already arranged games with State college, Bucknell, D. C. & A. C. and several other strong teams.

Blooded Horses for the Block.

HELENA, MONT., Nov. 15.—Two special trains, bearing 282 head of blooded horses raised on the Bitter Root stock farm of the late Marcus Daly, left here today for New York. The horses will be sold at Madison Square garden. These are the last horses that will be sold from the ranch, all blooded animals having been shipped away.

STARS LOOK FOR HARD CONTEST

PERRY HALE WILL BE IN THE GAME

The ex-Yale Star Will Be Given a Chance in the Second Half—Captain Fultz and His Men Are Ready for a Stiff Battle.

The contest which the Homestead Stars have been looking forward to as their strongest game of the season will be played at Exposition park this afternoon when the Stars will face the Lafayette college eleven. This contest will undoubtedly be the hardest one of the season on the local gridiron and there is great interest in its outcome.

The local followers of the sport believe that the outcome of today's game may be used as a basis upon which to form an estimate of the relative strength of the Homestead and Philadelphia Star teams. The college eleven lined up against the Quaker Stars three weeks ago and was beaten by a score of 23 to 0. It should be remembered, however, that on that occasion the Lafayette team was handicapped by injured players, as the eleven had just finished some hard games. It is also a fact that the college team having some hard contests on its schedule did not use its best men.

Since that time the team has in a measure enjoyed a season of rest, as its games were only light ones. The injured players are in shape again and the eleven will be out in its full strength today. Capt. Bachman says that his team has not been in better shape at any time this season. This means a whole lot, because Lafayette when it was in proper trim, gave the Princeton Tigers a hard run for a victory and the Tigers only won by a score of 6 to 0.

The Stars are in the best of shape and ready to show their speed against the strong college eleven. Capt. Fultz had his men out for a light practice at Exposition park yesterday and most of the time was spent in running down the field under punts and tackling the man with the ball. After this there was a signal practice in which every player was given a chance. It was rather a cold afternoon for such work, but the players seemed to enjoy the bracing air and they added more vigor to their practice.

Previous to the regular practice the players indulged in batting, and among the crowd was Perry Hale, whose kicking far outshone the others. Hale was stationed on the 65-yard line and some of his punts were up against the grandstand, back of the eastern goal posts. Of course he was kicking with the wind, and there was a stiff breeze blowing at the time. The majority of these kicks were of the spiral kind and the players who were catching the punts found it extremely difficult to judge the ball.

Capt. Fultz said last night that he intended starting the game with his regular team, which means that Crollus will be at fullback, but in the second half he will make a change and put Hale in the position. This will give the spectators a chance to see both players at work. The advance sale of seats has been very brisk and there promises to be a large crowd at the game. The teams will line up as follows:

Homestead.		Lafayette.

SAYS IT IS BRUTAL.

Humane Agent Condemns the Six-Day Race.

There were still 11 of the original 22 entries in the walking match on the track last night. Supt. T. M. Porter of the Western Pennsylvania Humane society condemned the exhibition as brutal yesterday, but said his organization had no jurisdiction over such cases. As the men entered the contest voluntarily he said he could not interfere. The midnight score was.

STROBEL IN THE WAY.

Western Association Has Hard Problem at Toledo.

TOLEDO, O., Nov. 15.—J. W. Gunnells, who has been offered a franchise and the Toledo territory in the Western association, has declined to accept it, and has so notified President Power. He says he will not stand in the way of C. B. Strobel, the owner of the Toledo club, securing a franchise in the Western league. The Western association claims the Toledo territory, but it is quite evident that no manager can be found who will place a team here in that league.

Strong Basketball Teams Will Meet.

The Manchester Jr. basketball team will play the strong McKeesport Jrs. next Monday evening, November 18, at Manchester Turner hall. These teams have never met before. The Manchester boys are practicing hard, and believe that work will be more perfect and, no doubt, more effective in the coming contest than it was in the game with Sharpsburg last Monday. Manager Roth issues a challenge to all first-class junior teams in Western Pennsylvania and Eastern Ohio. Address William Roth, 923 Western avenue, Allegheny.

West Virginia Vs. State Normal.

COAL CENTER, PA., Nov. 15.—(Special.)—The football game for tomorrow afternoon at the college grounds, California, Pa., between the State normals and West Virginia university of Morgantown, W. Va., promises to be an exciting contest, as both teams are in fine condition.

UNION OF CUSTOMS EMPLOYES.

Will Form National Organization for Mutual Benefit.

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—Civil service employes in the local customs service, including those in the departments of the collector surveror, appraisers' stores and the naval office, will meet at the customhouse tomorrow afternoon, when steps will be taken to organize a national association for the purpose of mutual benefit. It is the aim of the projectors to form an association of all employes in the service through the country.

Congress will be petitioned at the coming session to so amend the civil service laws as to give legal support to the proposed organization. The money necessary to pension disabled or aged employes will come from contributions or fees to be levied upon each member of the association. It is claimed that 3 per cent of the annual salary of each member will create a fund sufficient for the purpose outlined.

SEEKING AID IN PITTSBURGH

THE A. A. U. INSURGENTS ARE MAKING A WARM FIGHT

They Are After the Sullivan Crowd, and the Annual Meeting Next Week Promises to Be a Very Exciting Affair—The Atlantic Association Is Backed Up By Strong New York Athletic Clubs.

A warm time is promised for the annual meeting of the Amateur Athletic Union of the United States at New York on Monday and the aid of the Pittsburgh clubs is being earnestly sought by the insurgent element in the fight to force the union to terms, with the alternative of a new body opposed to the A. A. U.

T. H. Laidley, Jr., vice president of the Atlantic association of the A. A. U., prior to the trouble which the Pittsburgh athletes had with the parent body last winter, is in receipt of numerous letters from the "rebel" forces. The Middle Atlantic association is an independent organization, receiving its chief strength from the Baltimore clubs and hand in hand with the Atlantic association in the fight. The following extracts are from a letter received by Mr. Laidley from R. C. Niles, the secretary and treasurer of the association:

Many Strong Clubs in Line.

"I have received your favor and it gives me a great deal of satisfaction to know that there is somebody with us. We are well organized in this city and have the best of the athletes with us. We broke away from the major organization about two years ago and since then have given numerous sets of games with great success. Our men have been allowed to run in different college games in this part of the country by the Intercollegiate association in spite of the efforts of Sullivan to the contrary."

In the fight against the A. A. U. which opens Monday the strong Atlantic association is joined by ten of the strongest clubs of the Metropolitan association, including the Pastime and the New York A. C., and by the Middle States association. The chief demands are that the Y. M. C. A. definition of an amateur be adopted and that the official handicappers of the association be elected by vote of the members of the A. A. U. instead of being chosen by delegates. By the delegate system it is claimed James Sullivan has practically selected the handicappers for the Metropolitan district by dictating the delegates.

Sullivan Wanted to Make Up.

Laidley is also in receipt of a letter from President Boyle, of the Pastime Athletic club, and the leader of the rebels of the Metropolitan association. Boyle seeks the aid of the Pittsburgh element in the fight to be opened on Monday and tells of efforts of Sullivan to have him withdrawn as a delegate to the meeting and of later efforts to have make peace with him. The Pastime members unanimously voted to sustain Boyle in his fight with other sections of the country against the methods in vogue of late years in the A. A. U.

Part of Boyle's letter is as follows:

"Sullivan has sent personal friends to see both myself and J. Frawley in an effort to have us attend a dinner at which matters would be patched up. It has gone too far for this, however. Instead of our meeting him at a dinner, we propose to hold a dinner of "rebels" on next Saturday night, to prepare our plan of battle for Monday, when the A. A. P. meets. Can you not come on to this meeting or sent some one?"

Where the Local Kick Comes In.

R. C. Niles, the secretary and treasurer of the Middle States association, also urges Laidley to stand out for a new apportioning of the Atlantic division, giving the Atlantic territory north of the Mason and Dixon line and the Middle the ground south. The letter concludes: "If we can only concentrate our strength and assert our claims I feel sure that the time has come when honest athletics will win."

The split of the local factions with the A. A. U. took place last winter when the Union accused the local representatives of retaining some of the receipts of the national championship boxing tourney and insulted the local managers by sending a special representative on to countermany of the receipts. The Union conducted everything in such a niggardly manner that the Duquesne Country and Athletic club, which managed the affair, lost money and went out of existence.

Among the Amateurs.

FREIGHT CONGESTION.

Captain Dravo Upon the Situation. River Improvement a Means of Relief.

To the Editor of the Commercial Gazette.

The vast commercial and industrial interests of our city are in a phenomenal condition. A giant corporation covering almost every possible avenue of inlet and outlet rules the situation and issues its orders "to its freight agents throughout the country to accept no freight for Pittsburgh. Too much is already here to be handled and no more is wanted." As a consequence commercial and industrial enterprises are crippled along all lines, furnaces are banked, fuel, so essential a factor, fills tracks and yards at points of production. Parties who dare give voice to the embarrassed condition of affairs are loud and long in complaints. All who are interested in the movements of commerce are aware that this city of immense tonnage needs, imperiously needs, larger carrying facilities. In all the domain of the republic there cannot be found a parallel to the city's unfortunate dilemma. With a tonnage that exceeds any locality in the United States, vast as are their interests, they are practically subject to the will of a single carrying corporation. Notwithstanding the most pressing demands for additional outlets, increasing the facilities for the movement of merchandise, yet when the Wabash system, asking no financial aid, but on its own motion seeks to enter the city, it is met by the indifference of councils and the secret if not open antagonism of corporate influence, and yet such indifference and opposition only moves the public press to a feeble advocacy to this most important proposed addition to the facilities for tonnage movement. The writer confesses to very little sympathy for the city in its hampered distribution of mill and shop products. The existing trade limitations are due to neglect of nature's highways, which if properly developed and protected would have been in a condition to very largely relieve, if not wholly prevent, present congestion of the city's trade. The stupendous aggregation of manufacturing and commercial interests, representing enormous capital, if those in charge had the courage of their convictions, could provide against the recurrence of such disastrous conditions as now prevail—securing greater growth and larger prosperity. It is pertinent to inquire what is the great army of merchants and manufacturers doing to mend matters? Who can doubt that if our contiguous rivers were relieved of existing obstructions and made navigable the year round that such a freight congestion, so detrimental to all lines of industry, could exist. What help is the great body of citizens rendering to secure the full and larger use of the waterways which may be utilized in solving present disturbing problems? Our rivers are obstructed by bridges with narrow channel ways, imposing tax on commerce amounting to millions of dollars. Yet how feeble the voice of the public press in protest, how indifferent trade circles; if one-tenth of the time and means expended for political ends were given to the improvements of our rivers, which so vitally concern the present and future of our city, every natural and artificial hindrance to the best possible navigable conditions would be speedily removed or overcome; but nearly all of this great work is left to river men, who in the past have been compelled to give largely of time and means to protect these great highways from destructive encroachment. If some giant corporation seeks to continue for all time to come the crippled condition of one of our rivers by the erection of a low bridge with a destructive channel way and opposition is made by those who have some conception of the present importance and the greater future importance of these commercial agencies of nature, the city press in part at least is quick to lend its influence and support to corporate monopoly whose bridge structure will handicap the commerce of the river for all time. Surely it is time such a fatal policy should give way to broader views, enlisting the influence and energies for the preservation of our rivers from encroachment and their improvement to the utmost limits of human skill for the free and unrestricted use of commerce. The Wabash bridge, now under construction across the Monongahela river, providing for a channel passage over 800 feet, removes all reasonable ground of opposition for narrow bridge channelways. Eight hundred feet spans are practicable. If the cost is somewhat greater that is no reason why railway corporations should, in order to save the expenditure of a larger sum, be permitted to cripple the commerce of our rivers. It is to the credit of the Wabash people that they did not ask for a less span than 800 feet, and there is no conceivable reason, except parsimony, or a desire to restrict competition, why other bridge or railway corporations should ask for or be permitted to do less.

JOHN F. DRAVO.

HILL ON TOP IN THE NEW DEAL

To Surprise of Wall Street, He Is President of Securities Company.

UNION PACIFIC CUTS A SMALL FIGURE

Bank Statement May Yield a Gratifying Surprise—Cut in Iron Bars Explained—Bolt and Nut Combine Rumor Wrong.

(By Private Wire to The Pittsburgh Gazette.)

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—The Northern Pacific-Burlington settlement, in a second stage of development, today yielded Wall street another surprise, when, upon its being formally organized, the Northern Securities Company, which is to take over the Northern Pacific and Great Northern, assumed a very Hillish complexion. The directors elected yesterday met today and elected the following gentlemen to the offices named: James J. Hill president, John S. Kennedy vice president, George F. Baker second vice president, D. William James third vice president, W. P. Clough, fourth vice president, E. T. Nichols secretary and treasurer and W. P. Clough general counsel. Mr. Kennedy, the first vice president, is one of Mr. Hill's oldest business associates; Mr. Baker co-worked with Mr. Hill when Hill was managing the acquisition of the Burlington; Mr. Clough is then president of the Great Northern and Mr. James is a director of Northern Pacific and presumably friendly to Hill.

There were many in Wall street who expected to see Mr. Harriman made president of the new company. And the apparent ascendency of Hill in this was a surprise to everybody. The executive committee has yet to be named, but it is doubted now whether Mr. Harriman will be chairman of that, as was at first expected. Indeed the Union Pacific interests do not seem to have the representation in this Northern Securities Company to which their victory was understood to entitle them. They have only one distinct director in each of the three classes, whereas eight of the 15 are out-and-out Hill men. This may be only in line with the general conciliatory policy understood to have been agreed upon. The lately militant spirits seem to be vieing with each other in the work of back-scratching. When it is viewed in another light, it is enough, perhaps, for the Union Pacific interest to get a strong voice in the management of Burlington. How strong it will be, yet remains to be seen.

The shares of the new Northern Securities Company will be listed here and abroad as soon as possible. Mr. Morgan, it is said, has undertaken to introduce the stock on the London stock exchange, as he introduced United States Steel. It is understood further that the Northern Securities Company will be managed much on the order of the United States Steel Corporation. There is not likely to be many important changes in the official personnel of the Northern Pacific and Great Northern companies.

Bank Statement May Be Good.

It is highly probable that the bank statement tomorrow will convey a gratifying surprise to Wall street. Notwithstanding the exportation of $4,602,800 gold, it is understood that when the banks street their averages today they found themselves actually to have gained perhaps as much as $1,000,000 on the total of their transactions since last Friday. This was been due, of course, largely to the payment of checks drawn against gold deposits at Pacific coast points and to bond purchases by the United States treasury. During the current week the banks received new gold to the amount of $3,168,400, of which $720,500 was by assay office checks, $1,983,700 on San Francisco mint checks and $465,200 on Seattle assay office checks. Government disbursement on bonds presented at the sub-treasury for redemption amounted to $3,745,300. Receipts from the interior gave a balance in favor of the banks and enabled them, it is said, to stow a net gain on all accounts of quite $1,000,000.

The averages struck today did not include a credit in behalf of the banks amounting to nearly $1,000,000, paid out this morning for government bonds purchased yesterday. Only a very small percentage of this will be reflected in the bank statement tomorrow.

The upward tendency of money in New York market further determined the movement of funds from the interior hither, and receipts from this source were a providential offset to gold exports. Bankers say that as long as call money rates ranging from 4½ to 5 per cent obtain in this market, the domestic movement of money will continue in this direction.

The financial operations this week have been so very complicated that it is no wonder experts hopelessly disagree in their forecasts on the bank statement tomorrow. Granted that the banks may shown an increase in cash holdings, there is left considerable uncertainty as to the condition of the loan account. The fact that no bills of exchange were sold this week against gold exports, suggests that loans have been materially reduced, while a number of outstanding accommodations were called this week incident to the rise of call money from around 3½ to a maximum of 5 per cent.

Cut in Iron Bars Explained.

Producers of iron bars insist that the cut of $1 a ton in the price of the product is not significant of any weakness in the market. It was made merely to correct what had been an abnormal trade condition. For a considerable period steel bars had been selling $1 a ton lower than iron bars, and so long as this was true consumers gave steel bars the preference. The cut in the price of iron bars, therefore, was made to equalize matters.

The initiative is understood to have been taken by the Republic Iron and Steel Company, which is the largest producer of iron bars in the country. Whether or not an agreement had been made with other producers is a question of very little importance, since the others had to follow action of Republic Iron. The cut by no means commits the producers in advance of what may be agreed upon by representatives of the eastern and western association at the Pittsburgh meeting next week. It is expected after that to advance prices both iron and steel bars can be advanced together. The level of prices had nothing to do with the unequal relations of iron and steel bars hitherto existing.

Rumored Bolt and Nut Combine.

The announcement today of a meeting of nut and bolt manufacturers to be held in this city on the 19th and 20th, next week, was made the basis for reports of a contemplated consolidation of these interests. There seems to be no tangible warrant for such reports, although, to be sure, the importance of the nut and bolt branch of the industry is well understood and a consolidation of manufacturing companies might be to the advantage of all if it could be effected on satisfactory terms. It cannot be established in fact, however, that the manufacturers are agreed in advance with any notion of forming a combine.

The chief object of the meeting is said to be a free discussion of prices. It is denied that important price changes are contemplated, but certain inequalities in the existing schedule might be eliminated to mutual benefit. It is understood that the nut and bolt manufacturers have tacitly agreed to follow the example set by the United States Steel Corporation and work together greater stability of prices rather than in the direction of higher prices.

Steel Combine's Salutary Policy.

Touching upon the condition of the iron and steel trade, and having particular reference to the policy of the combine, a prominent interest today said:

"The United States Steel Corporation is responsible for the existing strength of and prosperity of the iron and steel industry. The demand is so enormously large that efforts to prevent prices from reaching an exaggerated level would be futile were it not for the conservative influence of the combine. United States Steel interests, having more at stake, realize better than others that wild fluctuations in prices would soon lead to demoralization. It is for this reason that they are so desirous of maintaining prices on a fair level, and no higher. This policy seems to me to best insure the permanency of our present prosperity. Not much more than a year ago iron and steel prices were soaring high, and this was taken to indicate unparalleled prosperity as it did, for a time. But naturally consumers were driven from the market by the exorbitant prices then obtaining, and the inevitable result was an enormous accumulation of products. It is different now. Notwithstanding the extent of our prosperity, prices remain unchanged."

NEWS FROM THE MINES.

Latest Finds in Gold, Silver, Copper and Other Metals in the Far Western States.

(By Private Wire to The Pittsburgh Gazette.)

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—The Park Gold Mining Company, operating in Piute county, Utah, has struck at a depth of 60 feet ore that assays 200 ounces of silver and $152 gold to the ton.

Advices from Dawson note that an Indiana syndicate has bought 214 Gold Hill claims in the Klondike for $750,000.

Ore in the Horseshoe, in the Lardeau (B. C.) district, is reported remarkably rich. Recent assays gave returns of 8,025 ounces of silver valued at $1,840, to the ton.

A vein 24 inches wide has been cut on the Sunset group, near Ouray, Col. Assays disclose from 350 to 500 ounces silver, from 5 to 10 per cent copper and as high as $120 gold.

The Lead King, Lead Queen and Salina Peak mines in the San Andreas mountains, N. M., have been acquired by the General Concentrators Company of New York. The cash payment is $37,000, and royalty payments will amount to $65,000.

Eighty-seven tons of ore from the Butte, at Randsburg, Cal., milled $5,244, an average of about $60 a ton. The ore came from the 375-foot level. Since June last year the total production of the mine was $73,500.

The Dexter-Tuscarora Mining Company at Tuscarora, Nev., is considering the best means of working some 30,000 tons of gold-bearing slimes that have accumulated at the mines.

The bulk assay value of the ore product from the Consolidated California and Virginia mine last week represents over $14,000 gold value, a daily average of more than $2,000.

The bars on Snake river, between Canon Creek and the mouth of Powder Creek, Ore., carry coarse gold from the size of a pin head to $10 and $20 nuggets. Three men working above Billards Landing have been averaging $50 a day apiece with primitive appliances.

PROFIT-TAKING IS COMPLETED

Prices Refuse to Yield Further and the Shorts Covered Their Contracts.

NEW YORK TRACTIONS A STRONG FEATURE

Copper Stocks Make Good Recoveries On Reports of Better Conditions in the Trade—Pacific Coast Issues Advance Strongly.

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—There was some further effort by professional bears during the early hours of to-day's stock market to renew the decline in prices which was in force yesterday, but the evidence was pretty conclusive that the urgent selling to realize profits was completed, and the bears renewed the covering of shorts, which was a feature of the last hour of yesterday's market. The demand to cover short contracts was a considerable factor all day in the strength of the market, but there were evidences here and there of a renewal of the speculation for a rise or of buying of a substantial character for reasons not disclosed. This was notably true in the local traction group. Metropolitan Street Railway rising 5%, Manhattan 2% and Brooklyn Transit 1%. The buying of the Reading stocks was on a large scale and caused sympathetic strength in some of the other coalers. The copper stocks made strong recoveries to the accompaniment of reports of improved conditions in the trade. Amalgamated Copper was lifted over 2 points and Anaconda 1¾. There was also an advance of 3¼ in American Smelting and of 2¼ in the preferred. The Pacific coast stocks made notable recoveries from recent heavy declines, and there were points of decided strength among the southwesterns. The more cheerful prospect in the money market was the dominant influence in the recovery of prices. That the gold is not engaged for export to London to-morrow relieved an apprehension on that score, a further lowering in the buying price of gold from London this morning, and the easier tone of London money market tending to put the margin of profit on the transaction. It is evident that London is not uneasy over the sufficiency of its present money resources so long as Paris refrains from withdrawing credits. The belief is prevalent that further gold will go from New York to Paris next week, although there is a relaxation of the pressure at that point for gold, reflected in the advance in sterling exchange today of a full centime in the pound sterling. The higher rate for money in New York is also a deterrent influence. But foreign exchange in New York continues very strong, both for sterling and Paris cheques. Judged by today's preliminary estimates the heavy gold exports by Thursday next will have been more than offset by receipts from other sources, so that the banks are likely to show a cash gain in tomorrow's statement. Up to Thursday night the banks had lost to the sub-treasury, including the payments for the 2s, $850,000, and this did not include the credit to the banks on account of yesterday's government bond redemptions, which involved the payment by the sub-treasury of about $1,000,000. By the time the movement to the interior the banks have gained on balances about $1,500,000, the receipts for the week having increased to about double those of last week while the shipments were considerably less. The loan item of the banks remains to be reckoned with. The market closed firm at considerable net gains scattered through the list.

The railroad bond market was moderately active and irregular in its changes. Total sales, par value, $3,275,000. United States bonds were all unchanged on the last call.

Foreign Bourses.

LONDON, Nov. 15.—Money was in less demand today, the price was fairly maintained and it was not plentiful. Discounts were firm. Business on the stock exchange was dull, partly in sympathy with the break in Americans, but mainly owing to the small, all round support. The fact that there was no confirmation of the reports of wholesale purchases by bears in South Africa disappointed other sections besides Kaffirs. Consols were kept in a state of suspense pending the monetary outlook. They had not fully recovered from yesterday's depression in consequence of vague rumors of gold going out to the continent. American rails were dull and weak in response to New York. Union Pacifics were the weakest, but improved. At the close prices were firm. Rio tintos were steady. Argentines and Brazilians were weak. This was attributed to the difficulties of a South American house in Paris.

PARIS, Nov. 15.—Prices on the bourse today opened dull and remained so throughout. Later prices grew firmer on the cheapness of money and closed irregular. Brazilians improved. Sosnovice was active and toward the close were strong. Thomson-Houston was freely offered and fell sharply. Tramways and Metropolitans were weak. Rio tintos were adversely influenced by unsatisfactory New York advices. Diamonds remained dull owing to London offers. Kaffirs were quiet and closed weaker.

The private rate of discount is unchanged at 2 11-16 per cent.

BERLIN, Nov. 15.—Prices on the bourse today were irregular. Argentines were easier. Turks improved. Northern Pacific preferred was weak. Locals fluctuated, closing easier.

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—Tin, locally, had another decided advance today on spot, chiefly due to a corner in supplies. The market was active all day and the close was strong at $26 75@27 25. The Rapid Fluctuations in American Window Glass Common Keep the Trade Guessing

Produce Markets Growing Much Firmer

LOCAL STOCKS DULL BUT FIRM

Window Glass Led the Market in Point of Activity.

THE STOCK UNDER MANIPULATION

Pressed Steel Car Preferred Strong and Higher — Good Buying of Pittsburgh Coal Preferred—The Westinghouse Shares Quiet.

The rather violent fluctuations in American Window Glass common keeps traders guessing what the next movement will be. In yesterday's dull market the stock led in point of activity and was at times feverish. It opened a fraction lower, selling at 55¾, but was quickly bid up to 56⅛, and while that price was the highest of the day, at one time 56⅜ was bid for 100 shares. Later in the day it sold off to 56¼, but recovered to 56⅜ and closed at a net gain of ⅜. Manipulation is apparent in the stock, but it is an unsettled question whether it is for the purpose of cultivating a short interest or to unload long stock. The impression prevails that there is a considerable short interest in the stock, and heretofore pronounced bulls display a willingness to lend the stock to anyone who wants to sell it short. A great deal of interest is felt in the coming meeting of representatives of the producers and their distributing agents, which will be held in Chicago next week. Some people profess to see a fight ahead, which may result in a slashing of prices; and there are others who knowingly intimate that all such talk is for the purpose of influencing the stock market. These diverse opinions serve to keep the stock feverish.

Pittsburgh Coal preferred was second in point of activity, selling at 92@92⅛. The selling was confined almost exclusively to one house, while the buying was well distributed. River Coal preferred was firmer in the bid price at the close. The common shares of both companies were unchanged.

The feature in the iron and steel group was the strength of Pressed Steel Car preferred, which advanced to 87 bid at the close. The stock was fairly active in the east, and the buying is based upon the knowledge that large orders have been placed for cars and that the scarcity in rolling stock all over the country will force the railroads to increase their equipment. United States Steel common was fractionally higher at 43½, and there was a good demand for the bonds of the company, 113½ and accrued interest being bid for a block of $100,000. Crucible Steel stocks closed a fraction higher, but trading in them was light.

In the Westinghouse group, Airbrake was firm and a fraction higher, while Electric second preferred was weak and lower. At one time during the day 1,000 shares were offered at 70¾, and at the close smaller lots were offered at 70⅝. In the remainder of the list Consolidated Ice and National Fire Proofing advanced a small fraction and were in better demand. An isolated public transaction in Fayette County Gas was made at 80. The par value of the stock is $100, and the amount outstanding $800,000. At the annual meeting this week the report showed that the company was approaching a dividend basis. Luster Mining sold at 7 and advanced to 8 bid at the close. A block of 500 shares of Bessemer Railroad changed hands at 35, an advance of ¼ over the last previous sale, and the same price was bid for more. In the bank list Exchange National Bank sold at 83¼. Mercantile Trust at 200 and South Side Trust at 110, all unchanged from the last previous sale. The market closed dull but generally firm.

Coffee and Sugar Market.

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—Coffee futures opened steady in tone with prices 5 to 10 points higher on covering, German buying and support from a well-known bull combination, prompted by strong early French cables and falling off in interior Brazilian receipts. Havre later lost its improvement, the decline being responded to locally by a drop of 5 points from opening prices, subsequently the market stiffened again on renewed investment buying and covering. Shortly before the close active bull buying and covering developed, the market being finally firm in tone, with prices 15 points higher. Total sales were 60,505 bags, including December at 6.40@6.50c; January at 6.50@6.65c; March at 6.65@6.80c; May at 6.85@7.00c; July at 7.05@7.15c; September at 7.15@7.20c. BANK CLEARINGS.

Gain of More Than $1,312,000 Yesterday.

The gain in Pittsburg bank exchanges yesterday amounted to $1,312,703 41. The figures are being maintained at a very gratifying rate, and would be even larger but for the fact that so many lines of business are affected to some extent by the inability of the railroads to handle the freight offered to them. Local bankers are keeping a close watch upon the eastern money market, and rates remain steady; to firm at 5@6 per cent. Following are the clearing house comparisons:

PITTSBURGH PRICES FOR FARM PRODUCTS

Hay, Grain and Feed.

A revival of the bull spirit in the wheat pit at Chicago on Thursday influenced the markets for grain all over the country and our corn responded in a sympathetic manner very quickly. Local prices went forward a cent; receipts here being light and demand active. Oats are also very strong; lower grades having advanced the advance made on No. 2 white on Thursday. Hay is steady and selling with moderate activity, but quotations are unchanged.

Groceries.

Firmer conditions prevail again in the flour situation and jobbers once more expect higher prices. The market steadied up so much yesterday that there was some talk of an advance, but Pittsburgh Brewing Company has as they were for another day; if strong conditions continue to rule until the opening of the week higher quotations are likely to go into effect. Coffee is keeping firm at the start, with persistent rumors afloat of coming advances. Rye is higher and rye flour has been advanced. Sugar is not any higher than it has been for some days, but is very firm in sympathy with the very strong corn market. Lima beans are looking up, while navies are steady at unchanged prices.

Canned Goods.

No change of any kind in canned goods. Tomatoes are closing the week as they commenced at a range of $1 15 to $1 20 for standards, with actual selling price the lower figures. Corn is holding its own, but is quiet. Packers are still offering corn at prices which have ruled for some time, notwithstanding the fact that there has been a more heavy buying. Succotash is firm, the pack being reported lighter than last season.

Standard pie peaches, stock gallons, pie peaches, 90@95 c; California L. C. peaches, $1 50@2 35; Maryland peaches, $1 20@1 75; California Y. Dried Fruits.

The market for nearly all descriptions was quiet yesterday and no features of importance developed. Local dealers have not yet advanced current quotations, although primal markets are stronger. A brisk demand is noted in raisins, but no activity. Prunes are selling more rapidly, with quotations steady.

Evaporated apricots, in bags, 10¼@11c; 25-lb boxes, 11¼@12c; apples, in bulk, 5@5½c; in cartons, 10@11c; peaches, sqdlc; raisins, 1-lb pkgs, 6@6½c; raisins, Muscatels, 2 and 4 crown, 50-lb boxes, 7½@7¾c per lb; seeded, 1-lb packages, 8@8½c; California, 1-lb pkgs, 7½c; raspberries, 26@27c; currants, cleaned, 25 and 50-lb packages, 8½@8¾c; California prunes, 4@5½c.

Fruits and Produce.

The touch of winter weather prevailing during the latter part of the week has caused buyers to hasten the matter of purchasing potato supplies and the market has been somewhat flurried, prices from store going up to 90 cents per bushel. It now seems to be the belief that any shortage of potatoes during the fall and winter, the yield of this year will go little more than cover requirements, and quotations, therefore, respond very quickly to any scarcity. Receivers and jobbers are prone to a 5-point 20 cents a bushel higher than they were asking a week ago; conservative dealers hardly think such prices can be maintained, but the outlook for the next few days will be a test of the supply, and may definitely settle the question for the season. The beneficial effect of the cooler weather is noticeable in a somewhat better demand for poultry, and eggs, and dressed and live meats are higher. Spring chickens are scarce, string beans and squash are all higher in price and active. Egg plant is slightly lower for fancy, although still very strong.

KAUFMANN'S
"THE BIG STORE"

What About That New Suit Or Overcoat?

Do you want it to be correct in quality, style, fit and price? Some stores, believing that the average man doesn't know or care anything about the clothing he wears, sell only such kinds of clothing no matter how poor, as admit of highest profits. Our experience, however, tells us that nine out of every ten men know just what they're about in selecting clothing. We think they understand the difference between Wool and Cotton, demand good linings, expect honest workmanship and are particular about the style, cut and fit. Proceeding from this standpoint, we provide only such clothing as are bound to give Satisfaction to the Wearer.

Our Suits and Overcoats for $6.50 are no exception to this rule. True, they are not as fine or made quite as fashionable as the higher price goods, but they will WEAR WELL, and that's the principal point. They are, at any rate, equal to the best $10 goods offered elsewhere.

Our $10.00 Suits and Overcoats

Are a most forcible example of the sterling worth and value we manage to crowd into our medium price goods. Other stores, in this very paper, advertise as "Bargains" Suits and Overcoats of the same quality for $15, or 50 per cent more than our price. We not only save you $5, but give you a much larger assortment to choose from, including those swell long Automobile, Lord Kitchener, Fullmore and Regent Overcoats, also the medium length Prince Charles, Chesterfield and English Box Overcoats.

Extra Fine: $15 to $25. Very Finest: $30 to $40.

It may be hard on our Merchant Tailoring Department to say so, but still we say it, because it is the truth, no better suits or overcoats can be made to order than these ready-to-wear garments. If you leave your measure (and we shall be glad to take it) you will simply pay about 50 per cent more, without any corresponding benefit. These high-class garments are cut by Custom Cutters and made by Custom Tailors. The materials are the same as you can find on the tables of the most fashionable and highest price tailors in town. The more particular you are, the better we shall like it, for these Suits and Overcoats will positively meet the wants and wishes of the most stylish dressers in this city.
